SUMMARY.

It is semi-officially stated that the Russians have scored a great victory at Staro-Styna, Hungary.

The Russians, who lost heavily, drove back the Austrians from Uszok with enormous losses.

It is announced that the authorities have ordered all civilians to leave Cracow forthwith.

A communique states that the Russians carried an important position in the Lupkow Pass.

The Russians have crossed the East Prussian frontier, and are in close touch with the enemy on the Niemen.

Dense crowds knelt in the snow-covered streets of Petrograd to offer thanks for the fall of Przemysl.

The Russian National Anthem rose in thunderous cadences. Thousands of kneeling worshippers blocked the Nevsky Prospect.

Five airmen, escaped from Przemysl, declare that the hospitals were crowded towards the end of the siege.

The Austrians blew up the forts, batteries, magazines, and bridges. Horseflesh and carrier pigeons were the only food left.

The French army has been rejuvenated on a large scale by the promotion of young commanders.

There are 2,500,000 men at the front, 1,250,000 in depots, and 500,000 in the 1915 class.

The army is hardened to war, and its health excellent. The men have also learnt to entrench themselves properly.

The Admiralty believes that the German submarine U9 has been sunk with all hands.

It is believed that her commander, Captain Weddingen, sank the Aboukir, Cressy, and Hogue.

The German submarine U28 sank the Dutch steamer Medea south of Beachy Head. The crew was rescued.

Destitution in Belgium is increasing. Before August probably 2,500,000 persons will be wholly dependent on charity.

The Allied warships and mine-sweepers resumed the Dardanelles on Tuesday.

The commander of the French battleship Bouvet, which was sunk by a mine, set an example to the men.

The officers stood at attention, and saluted the flag. As the ship sank all cried "Vive la France."

According to Mr. Donohue, the war and state parties are engaged in a bitter struggle at Constantinople.

The latter demands the capitulation of the city, and the feud may culminate in a revolution.

A stormy Cabinet meeting had even decided on peace negotiations when General Von Sanders violently intervened.

Marguerite Schmitt, a native of Thiacourt, 19 miles south-west of Metz, has been shot as a spy.

The "Algemeene Handelsblad" denies the Sydney report that the Ayesha raided Padang in Sumatra.

It is stated that the Ayesha merely called at Padang in order to obtain provisions.

Certain sections among the Chinese in Shantung have adopted a bellicose attitude towards Japan.

President Yuan Shi Kai is urging the people to refrain from overt actions of hostility.

Zapatistas tore down the American flag from an American citizens' house at Mexico City, and murdered the owner.

The American submarine F4 is believed to have been lost with all hands.

It has now been decided to prorogue the State Parliament from April 9 to April 30 next.

Mr. Cann said yesterday that the State revenue was still below the Treasurer's estimate made before war began.

He added, however, that the position was not nearly so bad as might have been expected.

So far the revenue shows an improvement of between £400,000 and £500,000 on the previous year.

The opinion prevails in the Sydney flour trade that the official estimate of the season's wheat harvest was excessive.

The State has now just enough wheat for its own requirements. Flour exports will probably be prohibited shortly.

Already 3,000,000 bushels have been consumed in the State, the rate of consumption being 1,000,000 bushels a month.

Mr. Cann yesterday said that crews had been engaged for the new trawlers purchased by the Government.

They were being brought out by special permission of the Commonwealth Government. The men are specialists in the work.

A cable was received yesterday from the Agent-General relating to King Edward's horse.

To meet enlistments from Australia the strength of the force is to be increased by 50 men.

By a proviso the new men must arrive in England in May or at the beginning of June.

A resolution in favour of a new steamship service with the United States was passed by the last Premier's Conference.

The Acting Premier now announces that correspondence on the matter is in progress with the Commonwealth and other States.

To establish a club for soldiers a meeting has been called at the Town Hall next Tuesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, has been invited to address the meeting.

Dr. Willis says the interference with school attendance by infectious diseases is much greater than it should be.

Applications for new awards were made at the sitting of the Industrial Court at Newcastle yesterday.

Mr. Justice Edmunds said that, generally speaking, applications for increased pay during the war could not be entertained.

In special circumstances, however, the Court had ruled that a preliminary inquiry must be held.

Sir Allen Taylor yesterday gave evidence regarding day labour and contract building before the Victorian Housing Commission.

He declared that day labour meant disaster. Success would be impossible if there were to be "spoon-feeding."

Railway construction by day labour, he added, was the greatest political blunder ever perpetrated in Australia.

Dr. Arthur Wade has issued a very discouraging report on the supposed oil-bearing area of South Australia.

He and his assistant spent five months in collecting material, and covered about 10,000 square miles.

A mattress containing 125 cartridges, and marked with a broad arrow, was washed ashore near Gerringong.

The New Zealand Arbitration Court has decided that the hearing of industrial disputes should go on during the war.

A movement is on foot to establish a Board of Trade in New Zealand.

Industrial associations have appointed a committee to confer with the Prime Minister on the matter.

A distinctly easier tone was felt on the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday.

A moderate amount of business was transacted.

A dull mining market ruled yesterday. Very little business was done, and values were on the easier side.

The egg market was beginning to settle down yesterday, 2s being generally accepted for new-laids.

One house in Sussex-street reduced the price of ordinary brands of bacon by ½d.

There was a particularly strong market for maize in the forage and grain section of Sussex-street.

Cables indicated a further substantial advance in caustic soda yesterday.

Strong competition prevailed at the tea auction, and Ceylon sold at slightly above the rates of the preceding sales.

Forecast: Some thunder showers on the coast, and at isolated places in the northern districts; fine elsewhere, and cool generally, with south-easterly winds.

TWO WEEKS IN SAN FRANCISCO.
THE PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION
is now open. Forty-one Nations represented at the Exposition emphasise its International Character. It is the most colossal of Expositions the world has ever seen; and its interest to the man of business and to the tourist is something that may not be duplicated for many years. Like Niagara Falls, this great Exposition, which has taken years to prepare, cannot be adequately described, but we have literature on its wonders which will be sent to you on application.

SEVEN WEEKS IN ALL.
Approximately from Sydney to San Francisco and back occupies 7 weeks—5 at sea, 2 on shore. In these 2 weeks you can see the Exposition, the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mtns., etc. No other line has so fast a time-table; but our return tickets are interchangeable with the other trans-Pacific Companies. Our route is via Honolulu going; Honolulu and Samoa returning.

"Standard" Oil Engines are generally admitted to be the most Reliable Oil Engines on the market. The Engines are built for Hard Work; the construction is most simple, and the Working Parts are easily Accessible.
Some four years ago we supplied Mr. A. R. Smithers, of Bermagui, with a 12-h.p. Double-cylinder "Standard" Marine Engine, and some two years since we fitted this engine to run on Kerosene. Mr. Smithers, writing to us recently, says:—"I have been using your Hydro-Carbon Gas Producer for a period of about 18 months, and have had the very best of satisfaction from same. Our Launch has done over 30,000 miles in that time, in all sorts of weather conditions, and both for economy and reliability I consider your Kerosene Attachment cannot be excelled in any respect whatever. I may also state that we have not had the slightest trouble with this attachment, no matter how rough the conditions were."

CHEAPER FUEL FOR OIL ENGINES.
In response to many suggestions that we should provide a cheaper fuel for "Standard" and other Benzine Oil Engines, we have pleasure to intimate that we have made arrangements for supplying a high-grade, Special Engine Distillate in any quantity, at prices which will greatly reduce the running cost of all Benzine Oil Engines.
One customer writes:—This oil is the best I have used. I have now had six cases; it beats benzine hollow. I get fully another 50 R.P.M. with a 6-h.p., heavy-duty engine, and use less oil. I recommend it whenever I can.

SKANDIA. SKANDIA. SKANDIA.
The successful CRUDE or KEROSENE OIL ENGINE.
As a comparison of the cost of running with other Engines, the SKANDIA ENGINE installed in the Schooner ALCAIRO, which supplanted a benzine engine of equal power, shows a saving of 5/ per hour on 8 hours per day, this is equal to £14 per week, and £728 for 12 months, practically double the cost of Engine.
Manufactured in from 5 to 600 b.h.p., with special advantages, suitable for every kind of marine craft and cargo winches.
Also for stationary work, pumping, electric lighting, farm machinery, hoists, mining, and industrial sets.
Fuel used costs 6d per gallon.
Intending purchasers before deciding on another engine should look further into the merits of the SKANDIA, as it will do for them what it is doing for others. A better investment never known.
Write to-day for particulars, or, better still, call and have a demonstration.

IN DRY TIMES

THE "MARSH" RAINMAKER IS A WONDERFUL HELP.

The very thing you need for the Orchard, Farm, Garden, or Lawn. Produces a spray as like to real rain as it is possible to get. The water falls in drops exactly as the rain does, and can be regulated from a filmy spray to a good shower.

So handy, too. This splendid Rainmaker can be moved from one point to another, and the watering is much more effective and economical than by the old fashioned way with the hose.

The many noteworthy features of this new sprinkler will make it exceedingly popular with up-to-date men on the land. For example, the rotary head works upon a water cushion that automatically regulates the pressure, and enables a number of sprays to be equally fed from one pipe, as well as preventing wear through friction.

Call and inspect, or write for explanatory pamphlet, giving further particulars, also schemes for sets of Sprinklers for field irrigation.

CONSUMPTION.

LESSEN THE RISK.

The consumption germ is difficult to destroy, for it is covered with a fatty substance, which affords a sort of protection to the germ. The scientific experiments detailed in this article show how the armor of the germ is dissolved, allowing the disinfectant to reach the true organism of the germ and to destroy it.

Considering the wealth of sunshine and fresh air with which Australia is favored, our death-rate from Consumption is too heavy. The disease is not native to the Continent, and a Protector of Aborigines of forty years' experience with these people assures us the complaint was quite unknown among them till the white man set foot upon these shores.

Consumption to-day in Australia kills twice as many people as all the other infectious diseases put together.

There is scarcely a place of public resort, whether it be street, theatre, or church, which is not more or less infected with it. There is hardly a breeze that blows that does not bear with it some of the fatal and insidious seeds of this disease. In addition to those who actually succumb to the disease, there are large numbers who are almost continually battling with the disease, sometimes recovering completely, and then becoming re-infected and falling back into ill-health. Life with some people is one long struggle against the tubercle germ which causes Consumption. Post-mortem examinations of quite healthy people who have met death by accident often disclose tubercular scars in the lung tissue, showing that the germs of the disease had prevailed for a time, but had finally been routed by the natural vitality of the individual. Any one of us at this very moment may be infected with consumption, and may be, though quite unconsciously, carrying on a silent inward battle against this noxious germ, the while suffering the loss of strength and vitality which are being used up in the struggle.

What precautions, it may be asked, can be best adopted to avoid infection?

The answer is: Sunshine, Fresh Air, and Cleanliness; and last, but not least important of all, Disinfection.

Of what use is it for Governments to legislate for disinfecting streets and public resorts if these places are daily re-infected by people from disease-breeding houses?

Happily, Australia is rapidly awakening to the necessity of home disinfection; and only recently a house agent was prosecuted for letting, without first disinfecting it, a house in which a person had been suffering from consumption.

Lifebuoy Soap is compounded to kill Consumption and other disease germs. When a Consumption germ gets a thorough bath of Lifebuoy Soap and water, its capacity for evil is gone, for the compound first destroys the Consumption germ's armor and then kills the germ.

This germ-killing power of Lifebuoy Soap is not based on mere conjecture. It has been proved and confirmed by careful Scientific Experiment, as set out in the following interesting reports:—

CONSUMPTION GERMS IN WHARF-SWEEPINGS.

Mr. F. H. Molesworth, F.C.S., F.G.S., Central Analytical and Assay Office, Sydney, reports:—

"In order to test the Germicidal Power of Lifebuoy Soap, I conducted the following experiments:—

"No. 1.—I obtained by sweeping, about a pound weight of ordinary miscellaneous dust. This sample I gathered from a well-known passenger-wharf and its approaches. I placed some of this under a most powerful microscope, which enabled me to clearly distinguish various forms of germs or microbes. Some of these I was able to identify, but others were unknown to me.

"Among those with which I was more or less familiar I recognised the Bacillus of Tuberculosis, the germ of Consumption.

"I then immersed the dust in a 10 per cent. solution of Lifebuoy Soap for fifteen minutes. After filtering off the solution I again submitted the dust to the same examination under the microscope, and found that all life, even that of the Tubercle Bacilli (which were fairly numerous) was extinct.

"No. 2.—In a similar manner to the foregoing I collected a sample of common household dust and conducted a like test. Tubercle germs were present, but so few that I had to repeat my observations more than once to feel certain of the fact.

"The destruction of the bacterial life was quite as satisfactory as in the first experiment. After a lapse of twenty-four hours I again examined the two samples of treated dust, but found, as before, no traces of life in them which I consider very clearly demonstrates the strong germicidal powers of Lifebuoy Soap."

CONSUMPTION GERM TEST.

One of Australia's most eminent Bacteriologists made exhaustive tests of Lifebuoy Soap. We cannot give his name, for unfortunately he writes:—

"I regret to state that, having consulted authority, I find that it is against the etiquette of the British Medical Association to permit the publication of the name of any of its members in connection with this certificate. The important point is that I have effectually demonstrated that Lifebuoy Royal Disinfectant Soap will destroy the germ of Consumption. I herewith hand you my report:—

PRELIMINARY REPORT.

"I have spent over six weeks making experiments to test the value of Lifebuoy Royal Disinfectant Soap for the destruction of Consumption Germs. For the test I used a 10 per cent. solution of Lifebuoy Soap. The tubercle bacilli were taken from a strongly-growing culture of the human variety. The bacilli were smeared on a piece of hardwood, and the solution of Lifebuoy Soap was then applied. After a quarter of an hour, half an hour, and one hour, portions were scraped up, the antiseptic substances in the soap neutralised with sodium sulphate and sufficient bacilli to cause death under ordinary circumstances in a few weeks were injected into proved susceptible animals. None of the animals succumbed to tuberculosis; they remained healthy and well. At the end of five weeks the animals were killed, and an examination showed absolutely no trace of infection.

"The conclusion to be drawn is that this 10 per cent. solution of Lifebuoy Soap is capable of destroying, and will destroy, in a quarter of hour tubercle bacilli, which are so common in ordinary household dust, providing the chief means for the spread of Consumption."

CONCLUSIVE PROOF.

The bacteriologist previously mentioned conducted a series of further tests, and conclusively proves his preliminary report that Lifebuoy Soap is efficacious in its destruction of the consumption germs.

"I have to report that I have now completed the second series of experiments I entered upon in order to determine definitely whether Lifebuoy Soap was destructive of the tubercle bacillus or not.

"The following are the experiments undertaken:—

"A thick suspension of a strongly-growing culture of human tubercle bacilli was made in normal saline solution.

"This suspension was then poured into 4 shallow glasses numbered 1, 2, 3, and 4, in such volume that each dish contained many millions of bacilli. A 10 per cent. solution of Lifebuoy Soap was made and kept slightly warm. The amount of Saline Solution in the dishes was then estimated, and about twice the amount of Lifebuoy Soap solution poured on to the contents of dishes 2, 3, and 4. The Lifebuoy Soap and the bacilli were then thoroughly mixed.

"In 15 minutes from the time the Lifebuoy Soap was added a solution of sodium sulphate was poured into the emulsion in No. 2 dish. This was done to neutralise the chief disinfectant in Lifebuoy Soap by converting it into sodium sulpho-carbolate, which is non-injurious. A glycerine agar tube was then inseminated with the contents of No. 2 dish, and 2 cc. of the same contents were injected into an animal.

"After the Lifebuoy Soap had acted in No. 3 dish for half an hour, and in No. 4 dish for one hour, these were similarly treated with sodium sulphate, and tubes were inseminated and animals injected.

"The contents of No. 1 dish, to which no Lifebuoy Soap solution was added, were inseminated on to glycerine agar and an animal was injected.

"These experiments were done in November last, and the animals and tubes have been carefully watched in the meantime.

"RESULTS (as observed to-day).—The tubes which have been continuously incubated since November till the present time show a growth of tubercle bacilli only in that tube inoculated with bacilli which had not been acted on by the Lifebuoy Soap solution. Even the tube which had been inseminated with bacilli which had been acted on by the Lifebuoy Soap for only 15 minutes showed not the slightest sign of growth. In the tube inseminated with the bacilli which had not been brought into contact with the Lifebuoy Soap at all a vigorous culture of tubercle can be seen. I might here mention that these cultural results agree entirely with the results obtained a few months back, and which were made the subject of a preliminary report.

"THE ANIMALS give splendid evidence of the value of Lifebuoy Soap as a disinfectant.

"The animal injected with the bacilli which had not been acted on by Lifebuoy Soap showed a large tubercular abscess in the abdominal wall, and microscopical examination of the pus showed it to contain innumerable tubercle bacilli. There can be little doubt but that this animal would have later on succumbed to tuberculosis.

"In the animal injected with tubercle bacilli which had been acted on by Lifebuoy Soap for 15 minutes a few calcareous-like points were seen on the liver. The patches were very small and very hard. One or two of these points were crushed with a hammer and films were made and stained. Others of the points were cut into sections and carefully stained and examined. I am of the opinion that they were not of a tubercular nature, and that they were certainly in the animal before he was injected; they did not affect the health of the animal in the slightest.

"The remaining animals were entirely free from infection.

"CONCLUSION. — A consideration of these and previous experiments and results proves, I think, conclusively that Lifebuoy Soap used in the manner indicated is an effective destroyer of the tubercle bacillus."

Every time an inmate of a house returns from the streets or any public place the germs of Consumption and other germ diseases may be brought back in the dust that falls from the shoes. The seemingly healthy breeze that blows refreshingly through the open windows may carry germs into the house, there to settle, and possibly breed Consumption, Typhoid, Diphtheria, Influenza, and perhaps other diseases.

Now, no disease can remain or generate on any floor or surface, or in any crevice or crack periodically and thoroughly washed over with Lifebuoy Soap.

The home that uses Lifebuoy Soap lessens the risk of disease generally, for Lifebuoy Soap destroys not merely Consumption germs, but the germs of Typhoid, Cholera, and Diphtheria.

To lessen the risk—to make it less likely that you or your family will suffer from Consumption or other infectious diseases—surely it is worth while.

For the Laundry, Lifebuoy Soap will lessen the risk of infection left in the clothing. Lifebuoy Soap should be used in the weekly wash. Lifebuoy Soap should be used all over the home.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

WESTMINSTER, Feb. 13.

Throughout the week debate in the House of Commons, chiefly confined to affairs of the army, has been marked by studious abstention by the Opposition benches from any criticism calculated to hamper the Government in the task of carrying on the war. But there has been plain speaking on at least two topics. One is the extraordinary interruption of Sir John French's narrative of the campaign in Flanders. His last published despatch brings the story down to the end of November, and there, like the unfinished window in Aladdin's tower, unfinished it remains. Lord Derby, a man not given to idle gossip, stated without contradiction in the House of Lords that the despatches had been duly written, and had for some time been in possession of the War Office. The stereotyped explanation given of this and other War Office manoeuvres reminiscent of the ostrich hiding its head in the sand and believing no one can see it, is that earlier publication would be detrimental to public service by giving information to the enemy. Considering that they took part in actions fought last December, events that would in part form the subject of Sir John French's report, commendable caution seems to be extended beyond the verge of absurdity.

The other matter that has supplied the House of Commons with justifiable ground for criticism concerns the hutting of the recruits. In a range of wooden huts built to accommodate 500 men it was found that they were uninhabitable. In course of debate it was stated by the Financial Secretary to the War office that the average cost of these encampments amounted to the sum of £13 per man. Whilst honestly indignant at the criminality of contractors who thus illegitimately make money at expense of brave fellows who are devoting themselves to the service of the country, members on both sides taking a practical business-like view of the subject, want to know upon whom will fall the considerable money loss incurred? Will the contractor be held responsible, or will the taxpayer, having made full provision for the work, be called upon to pay over again? At present a definite answer is not forthcoming. It will be pressed for.

In a casual remark thrown out in a speech the other night the president of the Local Government Board cast a lurid light on the cost of the war. He said if any of his hearers had generously made a donation of a thousand pounds to any service connected with it he would have the satisfaction of knowing that it was equivalent to carrying it on for a minute and a half. Mr. Samuel, as he more than once in successive Ministerial offices has demonstrated, is a master of figures, and may be trusted to be accurate in their manipulation. It is doubtful whether, in this case, the enthusiasm of the mathematician has not outrun the discretion of the Minister. If, as must inevitably be the case, the donor of a thousand pounds is chilled by knowledge of the infinitesimal value of his gift, how will it be with the patriotic subscriber of a ten-pound note, or a feeble fiver, whose influence upon the progress of the war can with difficulty be denominated in decimals?

This consideration apart, the statement is more striking than the effect of a column of detailed exposition. If there be added to it the daily expenditure of France, Russia, and, in lesser degree, Japan, it is appalling to think what a bill of costs Germany is rolling up at the bidding of the military caste, a bill that will have to be footed at a time when she herself will be drained almost dry by her own expenditure in blood and money. The stupendous character of the war, of which this is the 192nd day, comes out strongly in comparison with what is known in history as the Waterloo year. Just a hundred years ago when, as to-day, England was fighting for her life against a Continental military despot, it was thought that Parliament had risen to full height of the occasion when it voted a force of 246,558 men. To meet consequent expenditure £6,721,880 was provided, a sum which, as the Under-Secretary of State for War said, was less than is spent in a whole week upon our army in Flanders.

The reality of the truce established between the political parties is illustrated by the fact that, with quite a rush of by-elections taking place just now, they are settled without the arbitrament of a contest. This is particularly fortunate for the Government, who in respect of a somewhat considerable change in Ministry, do not run the risk of awkward defeat. It was not always thus. When in 1880 Gladstone came back to Parliament on the crest of a wave of popular enthusiasm Sir William Harcourt, appointed Home Secretary in the new Government, was rejected on presenting himself for re-election by the constituency of Oxford. An awkward situation was circumvented by the retirement of a Royal Liberal from the representation of Derby which obediently returned the Home Secretary, the retiring member oddly enough being made a baronet.

A later instance, one of many, is forthcoming in the position of Mr. Masterman, who, rejected by his own constituency when a year ago deservedly promoted to the Cabinet position of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, has not since been able to find a seat, and accordingly temporarily retires from Ministerial office. The statute requiring a newly-appointed Minister accepting an office of profit under the Crown to submit himself to the sanction of his constituents is a relic of old times, which were better buried. During the Premiership of Campbell-Bannerman, Mr. Balfour, then leading the Opposition, intimated his readiness to concur in a bill abolishing the archaic statute. For some reason the offer was not adopted. Hence Mr. Masterman's tears.

A pretty story attaches to one of the appointments to the Ministry consequent on its reconstruction. Mr. Neil Primrose, second son of Lord Rosebery, has gone to the Foreign Office as Under Secretary, his chief being Sir Edward Grey. Twenty-three years ago Lord Rosebery was, for the second time, Foreign Secretary with Sir Edward Grey as his junior. It is not often the whirligig of time brings round coincidences so personally interesting. The opportunity of bringing young Primrose into the Ministerial ranks in the most distinguished of Under-Secretaryships must have given Mr. Asquith exceptional pleasure. Ten years ago, when the accumulated errors and maladministration of the Unionist Government pressaged its fall, Lord Rosebery loomed large on the political horizon as a possible Premier in succession to Mr. Balfour. Save for his peerage, an insuperable bar to the Radical section, he would undoubtedly have been chosen. As things stood Campbell-Bannerman was elected, and though he would have gladly availed himself of Lord Rosebery's colleagueship at the Foreign Office, such arrangement was obviously impossible with one who had himself been First Minister of the Crown.

Lord Rosebery accordingly stood aside, a decision which, as things have turned out, marked the final close of his official connection with the Liberal party. But though he did not himself enter the Campbell-Bannerman Cabinet he was powerfully represented in it by personal adherents, notably Mr. Asquith and Lord (then Mr.) Haldane. At the outset it was apprehended that here was the making of a formidable embarrassing cabal. Gradually C.-B's personal influence overcame other proclivities, and what were known at the time as "Rosebery's young men" became his most loyal supporters. And now Mr. Asquith recalls ancient friendship by making his former leader's son a Minister.

Since the removal of alien enemies, such as the German Emperor and the Crown Prince, from honorary positions in the British Army, the Tsar, who has just signalised his association with the Royal Scots Greys, has been the only foreign monarch acting as Colonel-in-Chief of a regiment, with the exception of the King of Spain. King Alfonso, who alone of the Continental rulers holds the rank of General in the land service, is Colonel-in-Chief of the 16th (the Queen's) Lancers.

AN IRVING COMEDY.

MR. VACHELL'S "SEARCHLIGHTS."

LONDON W., Feb. 13.

Last night Mr. H. B. Irving produced at the Savoy Theatre a drama, entitled "Searchlights," by Horace Annesley Vachell. You might have expected something like the opening chorus of "The Agamemnon," a watchman on the heights, and shafts of light streaming across the horizon. This play was not built on such Homeric lines. True, it dealt with the effects of war; definitely the effects of this war upon social relationship with German financial magnates, the searchlights being turned on to the consciences of the principal characters. It is an interesting comedy. The treatment is too light to define it by any other title, and, as we English usually do serious work with a smile on our lips and slang as a vocabulary, you will understand the vein in which Mr. Vachell has written "Searchlights."

The play opens at the Scottish estate of a Privy Councillor, Sir Adalbert Schmalz, a gentleman who has not thrown off his very German accent. He is represented as being an astute financier, who, however, invests all his profits in his native country. He says quite openly, "I put all my eggs in von basket, und I watch my basket." He is a very genial, jolly sort of a millionaire, and, contrary to the experience of most men of such ample means, he has a first-class digestion. His talk in the first act was almost entirely of food and various sandwiches which he had procured with trouble and expense from Appenrodt's. He has a wife and a delightful daughter. Staying in this Scottish castle with Sir Adalbert, who is dressed in kilts and tartan, are Mr. Robert Blaine, his wife, and son. Blaine is a man of wealth and power, married to a woman of somewhat more noble lineage. She suggests at one period of the play that she had influence, and that in that way she had paid her price in this "marriage of convenience." The first hint of trouble comes over afternoon tea in the baronial hall. The son of this ill-assorted pair is a subaltern in the Guards, charming and manly enough, but somewhat of a wastrel in money matters. Phoebe Schmalz has undisguisedly fallen deeply in love with him, but he, while philandering and thinking her a "top-note" sort of girl, is not in love with her. On his rising from the table Lady Schmalz says, "Oh, you do remind me of someone in the way you got up and said that. I wonder who it could have been." Then, after some moments' hesitation, "I know; it was Freddy Trevor. I remember him quite well. He was killed in the Boer War, and got a V.C." Shortly afterwards Robert Blaine enters, and finds Phoebe looking over a book of autographs. She asks him to write something in her album, and, while looking at the pages during her momentary absence, he finds the photograph of the dead soldier who so strongly resembles the man who is supposed to be his son. He quietly abstracts this picture, and puts it in his pocket-book. One knew enough by then to see the germ of the drama, and how the action of the play would have to revolve round the relations of himself, the son, and his wife.

Mr. Irving made a very powerful portrait of Robert Blaine. Self-contained, successful in money-making, sore at heart, and, on the surface, hard. The post had brought an offer of a peerage for Blaine, which, to his wife's amazement, he says he is determined to refuse, on the plea that his son is not fit to succeed to the title, as he has been so unsatisfactory in many ways. Also he wishes to humiliate his wife in disappointing her of her cherished ambition. The wife is played by Miss Fay Davis, who for many years was leading lady to Sir George Alexander. She is an American actress of great emotional charm. She has always played "good women" roles, and though her soft, womanly conception of the part was delightful, and served as a good foil to the hardness of her husband, you gather that she has been a self-indulgent woman with an impetuous temper. But the whole glory of her life is her son, and for him she lives. She condones his weaknesses, his extravagances, and the rest. She would wish him to marry the little Phoebe, but Robert Blaine thinks her far too sweet a girl to be sacrificed because of the fortune it is supposed she will bring on her marriage. There is some talk between Schmalz and Blaine about Germany's preparations for war, and the cloud cast by the Balkan war and other premonitory symptoms. Schmalz derides the statement. Still, he is reminded by Blaine that he keeps all his investments in Germany.

In the second act things are progressing. Blaine gets news from his agent in Germany that war is imminent. The Schmalzes are staying with the Blaines at their country place. After all the guests have retired, Mrs. Blaine and her husband come to discuss the state of Harry Blaine's finances. He has confessed to his mother that he could not propose to Phoebe with his debts, amounting to "three thousand pounds, more or less," hanging round his neck, and that he owes this money to a money-lender named "Gordon." His mother promises to tackle his father on the subject, and see if he can be induced to free the boy once more from the incubus of debt. A fine scene occurs between the husband and wife. She begins by bringing him a small whisky and soda and a cigar, from which she cuts off the tip. He looks up in surprise, but accepts the attention. Then she begins the attack. "I thought from the purring note in your voice you had something to say concerning Harry," was his connubial way of commencing. He takes her long rope of pearls, and asks her why she does not sell her pearls to pay her boy's debts, and goes on tauntingly, to tell her he knows the reason why. These pearls are but the imitation of those he gave her on her wedding day. She had sold them long ago to pay some of her own debts. And then comes the revelation that he has known all along that the boy was not his son, but that of Trevor. She first acknowledges that he is right, and then reverses the statement in a storm of rage, and says that she merely said this to wound him. He wishes her to sign a paper to the effect that Harry is not his son, which she refuses, and the curtain goes down upon this strong scene.

The third act opens with the arrival of a surgeon who has been summoned to Harry Blaine, returned the evening before from the war, suffering from the effects of sunstroke and fever after the retreat from Mons. The young subaltern enters accompanied by a nurse, pillows, etc., and there is a touching scene with his mother. He learns that the doctors do not think he can ever go back to his regiment. Then the Schmalz family arrive. Since the outbreak of war they have changed their name from Schmalz to Hutton. Sir Felix has lost a good deal of money, but seems perfectly happy and drinks his pale lager from an English source as complacently as he did his "Helle Bavarian brown." Phoebe and Harry have a touching pretty little interview, and declare their love. Harry's power of caress surprises the modest little girl, and then all seems to clear up happily, as far as a war-haunted drama can end happily. Robert Blaine shows the photograph of Trevor to his wife, who mistakes it for one of Harry's. She acknowledges everything, and signs the incriminating paper, which her husband promptly tears up, and he hands to Harry the receipt from Gordon for money lent to the tune of £3000 odd. The husband and wife are left alone on the stage; she amid her tears, asking him what he will do. He says: "Perhaps to dream of peace."

The play is beautifully acted. One could wish for less farcical treatment of Schmalz, which part was in Mr. Holman Clark's hands. His wife, too, dear Kate Bishop, dressed and made up to "Get a Laugh," was also too farcical for a play dealing with such important events. Miss Margaret Maude is always charming, and plays like a well-born girl. And everyone else lifted the play high on their shoulders. It was its first production, and the house packed with all the notables in the world of art, literature, and society, as well as a large following of officers in khaki, and many, alas, wounded, wearing evening dress, limping in on sticks, looking so wonderfully groomed, as though the trenches and the horrors and the mud, all save their wounds, were a thing apart. It was an enthusiastic house, and each act had more curtains than I can enumerate. Mr. Vachell was called, and had an ovation, and at the end of it all Mr. Irving in a simple, graceful, little speech thanked the audience for their "kind reception of the play." It will succeed for it has the "call of the moment; just now we like to see pictures, read books, and go to plays which are mirroring our thoughts of the titanic struggle in which we are involved.

ROSE SHOWS IN LONDON.

(BY HUGH WRIGHT.)

(Read Before the National Rose Society of N.S.W.)

I attended as many of the fortnightly shows of the Royal Horticultural Society as I was able, and at these shows it was no uncommon sight to see 20 and sometimes 40 private motor cars waiting outside the hall for Flora's devotees. This at ordinary shows that only last from 1 o'clock until 7 p.m. True, 'twas in the greatest metropolis of the world, but then Paris, Berlin, and New York are not far behind in wealth, and have immense populations, so one might expect to find there also many flower shows; but it so happened that whilst I was in those cities no shows were on. It can be easily explained. England is the flower loving country of the world. All over it, from Land's End to Northumberland, I found ardent gardeners, growers of flowers, among the rich gentry and the poor labourers, and the outcome of it is the desire to exhibit one's best or one's newest, and so flower shows are fashionable and frequent.

When I saw the roses at the fortnightly shows of the R.H.S. I felt satisfied that our exhibitors in Sydney could carry off championships and first prizes every time against all England—but my early impressions were later shattered, but elsewhere—not at the R.H.S.

At the hall in St. Vincent's-square very fine displays were made by nurserymen of pillar roses, climbing roses, and decorative roses, all grown in pots, and with masses of bloom. The first to strike the keynote of joy in me was Mme. Edouard Herriot—the Daily Mail rose—a most glorious blending of art shades of terra-cotta, coral red, and apricot. A loose rose, but it will be a favourite with the ladies on account of its beautiful colouring. This is one of the Pernetiana group, a rather delicate constitutioned class that includes Rayon d'Or, and Lyon Rose, but this is said to be more robust than its forerunners. It was raised by M. Pernet-Ducher, who has given the world such gems as Antoine Rivoire, Beaute Inconstante, Caroline Testout, Joseph Hill, Laurent Carle, Mme. Abel Chatenay, and other good things, and so it hails in glorious company from one of the best raisers.

In the same hall I made acquaintance with Juliet for the first time, and my rough note reads: "More of an oddity, than a flower for the exhibitor." That was in March, but later on at the Holland House show on the last day in June, and at the National Rose Society's show a week later, I revised my opinion, for then I saw blooms in great beauty; a large, full rose, of globular form, rosy red, with the backs of the petals old gold. It is not a rose I should exhibit among the first twelve, but it would find a place among the eighteen and twenty-four distinct varieties.

At the R.H.S. meeting on June 16, 1914, the firm of Ben Cant covered a large table 30 feet long by three feet wide, with decoratives, charmingly displayed. The varieties included Dorothy Perkins, White Dorothy, Una, Hiawatha, Mrs. C. E. Pearson, Diabolo, and Rayon d'Or. Other firms put up big displays, and some staged cut blooms of good form, but on the whole not fine enough for exhibition. The best new rose of exhibition standard was Mrs. George Norwood, with beautiful flesh tints and an exquisite perfume. It will soon become popular. Here I learnt that Mr. W. Easlea contributes largely to the "Gardener," has become a professional nurseryman, and had also entered the arena of raisers of novelties. He staged two boxes of poor, small blooms that at first I was inclined to sniff at, but on reading the card stating that the blooms were of new or of little known varieties, I saw the educative value of the exhibit, and I think our nurserymen ought to follow suit, and make similar exhibits at our spring and autumn shows.

Nine days later I attended the London Rose Society's show. Here my eyes were opened at what England can do in roses. They were majestic, large, clean, and well shown—generally speaking, not a poor bloom in the hall. Every bloom was staged with a little foliage. An attractive display was a table of 28 articles in silver, mostly cups and bowls, and a few medals, nearly all presented by supporters of the society—would that we had among us such charitable donors to give such a fillip to our big shows. The best roses were Yvonne Vacherot, Augustus Hartman, Dean Hole, St. Helena, Sallie, Mme. Jules Graveraux, Mrs. George Shawyer, Mme. Melanie Soupert, Mrs. Foley Hobbs, Nita Weldon, H. V. Machin, Edward Mawley, J. B. Clarke, Lemie Holland, Wm. Shean, and Mrs. Joseph Welsh, one of the very best, six inches across, and then not full blown, but in ideal form and on the 7th he reached Kuruman, which he big exhibitor, a nurseryman, staged blooms that had the outer petals deliberately bent back, such a practice as we discountenance. As it happened, it did not matter, because his blooms did not even get a third place. I glanced over the society's rules, and found that each bloom that was overdressed would lose one point—it would be better if the rule were amended to disqualify overdressed blooms. Mme. Melanie Soupert that was so often staged by exhibitors needs getting at the right moment, because, like Betty, it is a thin rose, and in a warm showroom it soon opens fully and displays the centre. Some fine blooms of Lohengrin, a beautiful pink when fresh, were there; but this is another tricky rose. It often turns a dirty pink—a dead colour—the same way that Mrs. W. J. Grant "plays up." The class for threes of one variety were shown the three in one vase—a practice worthy of adoption by our suburban societies. The display is more artistic than when shown singly in vases. The best novelty was Augustus Hartman, a h.t., very large, perfect shape, very deep petals of a brilliant bright crimson. The exhibition can be summed up in one word—excellent.

The nurserymen practically made the show of the National Rose Society. In their group there were six competitors, each staging 72 blooms, and three competitors for 48 blooms, and three competitors showing three blooms each of 40 varieties. Think of it! There was a display worth seeing. Then there were many smaller classes, about which I shall not tell you, as you can read the accounts in the various gardening magazines.

Augustus Hartman, from Ben Cant, again charmed visitors by its largeness of petal and its glowing colour. It well merited the gold medal awarded by the society.

Mrs. Bertram Walker, very like it in colour but fuller in form, yet lacking in brilliance, raised by H. Dickson, was also awarded a gold medal.

The champion roses were from nurserymen's exhibits—H.P. Horace Vernet, H.T. British Queen, and T. Mrs. Foley-Hobbs; from the amateurs' exhibits—H.P. Gloire de Chedane Guinoiseau, H.T. Yvonne Vacherrot, and T. Mrs. Foley-Hobbs.

Yvonne Vacherrot was extensively shown. To me it was a find. It is not a new rose. It was introduced by Soupert and Notting in 1906, a porcelain white, tinted blush, as I saw it, a great improvement on Mildred Grant. Now I have heard it stated that this rose won't thrive in New South Wales. Why? Surely it is not true. Note that at the National Rose Society of Victoria in 1911 it was second to William Shean as the rose mostly exhibited; in 1912 it was exhibited more than any other rose; and in 1913 it was again top of the list. It seems to me that it needs trying over here. I don't say because it succeeds in England that it will do so near Sydney, but I feel confident that if it succeeds round Melbourne it should do so over here.

In England I saw Sunburst frequently at shows and in beds in the open, but on the whole it is a failure as far as colour is concerned, being nearly always a very light cadmium yellow, instead of a deep orange yellow.

Among the decoratives, Mme. Edouard Herriot, Lady Hillingdon, which really is an intense orange yellow, and Irish Fireflame, the best single rose of blends of bronze and apricot and red tints, are the three very best.

Red Letter Day made a sensation at several shows. It is a semi-double, purely decorative, rose, satiny, crimson colour, raised by Messrs. A. Dickson and Sons, and is boomed by the firm for all it is worth. I have not watched it growing, and cannot criticise its blooming habits, but as a decorative I do not think it comes up to Noella Nabonnand and Bardon Job.

Among the decorative novelties was Cupid—really a good thing for those who like singles. Its flowers are six inches across, and are of the sweetest pink colour imaginable. Clytemnestra, a rambler, raised by Rev. J. H. Pemberton, a cream pink, is a rank outsider, and yet it got the gold medal of the National Rose Society. At the N.R.S. George Dickson was shown pretty well on every table. Blooms as big as your fist, and all rich velvety crimson, without the slightest trace of magenta. There were many worshippers at its shrine. I would like to say more, but rather than spoil my paper by making it too long and wearying you, I shall conclude by putting our own little society on the back for one thing. Our blooms are staged more in their natural form than are the blooms in England. England can beat us in quantity and quality—so it should, look what it has to draw upon—but we beat England by staging flowers without the bending back of the outer petals and I am confident that we shall not depart from our high and honest standard.

LEADERS OF THE INSURRECTION.

(BY A CORRESPONDENT.)

CAPETOWN, Feb. 24.

There were two leaders of some prominence against whom major operations were directed. These were Kemp, to whom I have previously referred, and Wessel Wessels, who had considerable influence in the north-eastern part of the Free State, and was leading the revolt there. You may remember that when Beyers took refuge in the Magaliesberg Range Kemp separated from him and fled to the bush veld in the Northern Transvaal.

Kemp deserves some notice, because he was one of the five who were mentioned by Marits in his impudent manifesto. Like that traitor, he was formerly an officer in the Defence Force, and of all the other rebel leaders he was the only one who managed to escape to German territory. To reach that territory together with such followers as could win through was apparently a part of the conspirators' plans. That Kemp succeeded in doing this, after having eluded capture during a course which covered hundreds of miles, testifies either to his skill or to his good luck. It would certainly appear as if the purpose of the Union commandants was not to capture him "en route." When one considers the difficult nature of the country traversed by him in his flight, it is only feasible to suppose that this was the case, and that the intention was to drive him towards the angle formed by the German border and the Orange River, where forces were collected which might intercept him. Whether this was the purpose or not, the fact remains that he was successful in breaking through the cordon which was enveloping him, and in reaching his place of refuge.

The first intelligence we received of Kemp after he fled to the bush veld was that in an action fought at a place called Treurfontein on October 29 he was defeated by a Commandant Alberts. His commando was completely routed, many prisoners were taken, and Kemp himself fled towards Schweizer Reneke. It is just at this point that information seems to be doubtful. This action took place two days after the defeat of Beyers near Lichtenburg, and Treurfontein is a railway junction 20 miles south-east of that rebel centre. It would appear therefore that Kemp did not flee very far to the north-east, as was supposed, but that he doubled back, and returned close to his starting point. Schweizer Reneke is about 160 miles south-west of Lichtenburg, and about 70 miles south-east of Vryburg. As the lastnamed place is to the west of Lichtenburg, the direction of the rebel's flight was away from the bush veld.

Kemp was accompanied by an individual who has aroused a certain amount of curiosity, if not of interest. This was a man called van Rensburg, who had great influence with the Boers, because he claimed to be a prophet, and was regarded as such. He is stated to have been a "predikant," i.e., minister, and he is described as being a gaunt, melancholy-looking person of over 50 years of age. It must be remembered that the Dutch are a superstitious people. Van Rensburg was regarded as a man of considerable importance. He seems to have first become prominent in connection with the seditious meeting which was held at Lichtenburg on the occasion of De la Rey's funeral. It has been asserted that he was greatly esteemed by the deceased Boer general. How far his influence has, by this time, been affected by the course of events one cannot say, but one presumes that it has waned, seeing that he could not reasonably be expected to prophesy failure. His presence and support proved to be of great value to Kemp; as a recruiting agent he was very successful, and with his assistance that rebel raised another commando.

With their new band of followers, Kemp and the prophet occupied Schweizer Reneke on November 3. Here they hoisted the "vierkleur"—the old Boer flag—and they proceeded to commandeer horses, mules, waggons, forage, and everything that they needed or desired. Kemp publicly stated that it was his intention to form a flying column to join De Wet, who at that time was terrorising the Free State. The same day he left this township at the head of a commando of about 1200 men, all well mounted, and leading a good supply of spare horses. With about a half of this force he pushed on rapidly towards Vryburg, because he found that Government forces blocked his way to the south in the vicinity of Christiana. A few miles south of Vryburg the rebels broke away to the westward in the direction of Kuruman.

Meanwhile, certain of the Union forces had renewed the pursuit of Kemp, and other columns were moved to places further south, which appeared to be threatened by his advance. He travelled so quickly that it was impossible for his pursuers to overtake him, and on the 7th he reached Kuruman, which he occupied for two days. This place is about 150 miles south-west of Vryburg, and it was held by a volunteer force of about 80 men.

The rebels did not enter this place without opposition, as the small band of defenders held them in check for some hours; but they had eventually to retire to a fortified position some four miles distant, where they awaited relief. Kemp's force was estimated to be about 1500 strong by this time. On the 9th he moved out from the town, and attacked the gallant little band of loyalists, but he was repulsed. The delay caused by this fine defence had enabled the Union columns to approach, and when he found his position threatened Kemp continued his flight. He travelled across the Langeberg Range and in a southerly direction, his line of march being marked by the horses and impedimenta, which he was obliged to abandon in his haste. He made some efforts to break away, but he was headed off, and steadily forced southwards, in the direction of Upington and the Orange River.

At length he made a stand at a place called Witsand, where he posted his men in a very strong natural position, to secure the possession of the only water which was to be found for very many miles. It must be borne in mind that these operations were being conducted in a region where water is exceptionally scarce, and therefore a controlling factor in the situation, just as it is in the German South-west.

Here, on the 16th, an attack was made by a small Government force, which was unsuccessful, and the Natal Light Horse were moved up to reinforce it. This corps, under Colonel Royston, had been guarding the drift (i.e., ford) across the Orange River, at Kheis. How the rebel leader discovered that the drift was unguarded will probably be never known, but he was quick to recognise and to seize his opportunity. Passing the reinforcements on their way north, he pushed on to the drift. When this was discovered, Royston at once turned back, and a race for the drift took place between the two forces. Royston won, but his men and horses were completely exhausted, as they had been travelling continuously and rapidly for 48 hours, without food or rest.

The approach of the rebels was eagerly awaited, and also that of certain reinforcements which were expected. Then occurred one of those unfortunate incidents which seem to be inseparable from this irregular kind of warfare. It must be remembered that neither the rebels, nor the Dutch farmers who had responded to General Botha's summons, wore any uniform. The only distinction was that the loyal Boers wore a white band on their sleeves. At the present time all the burgher forces are being supplied with uniforms, so that such incidents will be avoided in the future.

On the afternoon of the 18th Colonel Royston's outpost reported that a large force, wearing white bands, was approaching the drift, and carrying a white flag. Supposing this to be the promised reinforcements, Royston allowed this force to come right up to the outpost. But it was Kemp's advance guard, and having reached the border of the camp, the rebels dismounted, and poured volley after volley into the astonished troopers. They then tried to rush the camp, but in spite of having been surprised in this manner, the Natal Light Horse rallied splendidly, and stubbornly defended the position. Eventually the attack was repulsed with the loss of seven killed and fifteen wounded, including two officers, but the rebel casualties were estimated to be about fifty killed and wounded.

Having been foiled in his attempt to secure and cross the drift, Kemp withdrew and made a wide detour towards the north-east, and in the direction of Kalahari Desert. Here it is that his good fortune becomes evident. This part of the country is so arid that it is usually impassable, owing to the scarcity of water. But there had recently been an unusually copious downpour, and water was plentiful all along the edge of the desert. He was thus enabled to elude the Government forces stationed along the Orange River, and on the 25th he entered the sand dunes of the Kalahari. Here he was practically safe, and although pursued through this inhospitable region, he succeeded in reaching German territory with the greater portion of his commando, but many of his followers were captured.

This was not the last we were to hear of Kemp. When he reached German South-west he naturally joined hands with Maritz and such other rebels as had succeeded in escaping thither. Having obtained arms and ammunition from the enemy, and accompanied by German troops, the two traitors invaded the Union, but their career was short. Kemp eventually surrendered to the Union forces, and Maritz was shot by his allies.

BISHOP'S ADVENTURES.

The Bishop of Carpentaria gives the following account of a recent visit which he paid to the Roper River:—"I had a pleasant and most capable driver to take me back, as we had to drive four-in-hand, and a pair was as much as I cared to tackle on the bad and narrow roads. We had a good journey until we came within four miles of the Katherine, when the road, being heavy, we turned off into the bush, which was pretty thick, and I was admiring the way the driver twisted his big and heavy team round the trees. The driver got down to shoot a turkey, asking me to take his place, and drive on slowly. In stalking the turkey he came too near the buggy, and fired just behind the horses, which took fright and bolted. The light little buggy was as nothing, and, fortunately for me, I failed to clear the first trees, so that before we had got up full speed the buggy caught and held. The horses tore away the pole and swinglebars, and went off like a cyclone. I was dragged from the box over the dashboard and hit the ground head first, making a complete and graceful somersault. I let go, and the horses dashed into another tree about 100 yards away, broke it off short and tumbled in a heap one over another. Fortunately they were not hurt. It is a curious instance of the continuity of thought in spite of unauthorised interruptions that my first remark on sitting up was, "Did you get the turkey?" He, much amused, for he thought I was killed, said "No," and I felt a sense that the world was a hollow fraud, where one got knocked on the head and bumped and bruised for nothing at all in return. Happily, my pith helmet saved my head, and I was able to walk into the Katherine and send out help. The buggy was patched up, and I got into Pine Creek."

MINISTERS' STIPENDS.

What he described as a dreadful blot on the Church was mentioned by Canon Forster, sub-dean of All Saints' Cathedral, Bathurst, in the course of a sermon last Sunday night. The preacher was referring to the statement recently made by another Anglican clergyman, that the clergy were always looking out for changes of parish and for increased stipends. "I think," said the Canon, "that anybody, whether a clergyman, a doctor, or a solicitor, has a right to expect a rise in his screw. He has a right to expect recognition of his faithful service. Yet there are men in the churches of Australia, labouring year after year on a mere pittance, and without a change of parish. One clergyman in this diocese gets over £500 a year, two get over £400, but both have to partially pay curates out of their stipends. Nine get over £300, and 58 over £100. The sons of clergymen go into the Church knowing exactly that state of affairs. You cannot say that a man who knows he is going to certain poverty is anything but in earnest. There is everything to be gained from a material point of view by staying out of the profession. Can you very much wonder, then, at men who change their parishes because of the rise in screw? Year follows year, and clergymen are left in the backblocks of Australia. It is a dreadful blot on the Church, but it is nothing against the character of the clergy."

SINGING UNDER FIRE.

A sergeant in the 1st Royal Fusiliers, who have been in the thick of the fighting at the front for the past four months, pays the following glowing tribute to the officers (says a London journal):—

"One of the most striking things to anybody who has been engaged in this war is the magnificent bravery of the officers. 'Tommy' is wonderful, but the average British officer is a marvel—he is a super-man. The major of our regiment is a typical instance. When we are under fire he is as happy as a sand-boy. He rubs his hands together and smiles and cheers us on with all sorts of expressions. During our first attack on the Aisne he actually sat on the back of the trench, fully exposed, and sang songs whilst the Germans came up, every now and then encouraging us with such remarks as 'Keep cool, men, and give it to the beggars hot; you are worth ten of them any day.' It is marvellous that he has not been shot, for he is utterly without fear. When we took Armentieres we had another taste of his quality. We were lying down outside the town in extended order just previous to carrying out the bayonet attack which won us the place, and the Germans were sending over showers of shrapnel upon us; but the major was coolly walking up and down the line and saying 'Keep cool, men; you are in no danger; you are quite safe here.' And we used to think he was a bit too particular and even petty in peace time! All the officers are alike."

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE NEW ARMY.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling has every reason to feel satisfied. He has seen his beloved Tommy Atkins cover himself with imperishable glories on the fields of Flanders; he has seen those Indian troops whose fame he has celebrated uphold the honour of the British Raj and their own prestige in some of the bloodiest fights the world has ever known; he has seen the younger nations continue the tradition begun fifteen years ago; and he has seen that ideal expressed in his own "Army of a Dream" in the process at least of being realised. "The New Army in Training" records Mr. Kipling's satisfaction. It describes his visits to some of the camps with which England is sown, camps in which raw human material is being forged into a splendid fighting machine. There is nowadays nothing new in what Mr. Kipling saw. Hundreds of correspondents have already given us their impressions of this army, but they have lacked the inimitable Kipling touch which invests the most workaday affairs with a fresh interest and the most commonplace events with a deeper significance. In Mr. Kipling the new army has found its prophet.

It used to take three years to make a passable soldier, nowadays six months will turn out an excellent one. Why is this? For one thing, the men are keen to learn. They have joined the colours not to earn a livelihood or because there seemed nothing else to do, but because they wish to fight. The sooner they are efficient the sooner will the war be over, and the sooner can they get back to their occupations, in which, be it observed, the humblest of them earns more than his military pay. Moreover, the general level of intelligence is extremely high. Many of these recruits are skilled workmen. The technical branches of the service command men who know all about their job; in the others the sergeant-majors find that enthusiasm goes a long way to compensate for inexperience. Of crime, in the military sense, there is practically none; of drinking very little. "They have joined for a good reason. For that reason they sleep uncomplainingly double thick on barrack floors, or lie like herrings in the tents, and sing hymns and other things when they are flooded out. They keep their edge and anneal their discipline under conditions that would depress a fox-terrier and disorganise a champion football team. They ask nothing in return save work and equipment. And being what they are, they thoroughly and unfeignedly enjoy what they are doing; and they propose to do much more." True, they reserve to themselves the Briton's inalienable right of grumbling, and exercise it freely. "But when the grousing gets beyond a certain point—say at 3 a.m. in steady wet, with the tent-pegs drawing like false teeth—the nephew of the insurance agent asks the cousin of the baronet to inquire of the son of the fried-fish vendor what the stevedore's brother and the tutor of the Public school joined the army for. Then they sing 'Somewhere the sun is shining,' till the sergeant ironmonger's assistant cautions them to drown in silence, or the lieutenant telephone manufacturer will speak to them in the morning." Truly, the "army of mercenaries," as the Germans call it, is a citizen army with a vengeance.

Mr. Kipling takes us the round of the camps, where the sturdy pitman from the north is learning to trail a rifle instead of a pick, and where the austere Scot is learning to shoot with fanatical earnestness. "They sighted over the sandbags with the gravity of surveyors, while the instructors buried knowledge at them like slingstones. 'Man, d'ye see your error? Step here, man, and I'll show ye.' Teacher and taught glared at each other like theologians in full debate; for this is the Scot's way of giving and getting knowledge. Not a word of hope or comfort in their achievements. Nothing but Calvinistic self-criticism." Again more legions from the great industrial centres of the north, in which the inveterate rivalry of coal and cotton makes the men almost belligerently keen. Over the brow of the hill an acrid smell of ghi and bazaar tobacco proclaims the presence of the Indian troops. Here there was a grievance voiced by a veteran Havildar-Major. The trouble was that in India all the young men, the mere jiwans, wanted to come out at once, which, he said, was manifestly unjust to older men who had waited so long. However, merit and patience had secured their reward, and the battery was here, and it would do the hot jiwans no harm to stay at home and be zealous at drill until orders came for them in their turn. "Young men think that everything good in the world is theirs by right, Sahib!" Down on a side road stands the hospital for the transport and supply trains, where day and night oily men tinker with "crocked" motors. A member of a haughty fitter's union is doing carpenter's work without a murmur though in civil life, as his master-builder sergeant observes, he would chuck his job sooner than handle wood. A certificated plumber is loading a lorry with tins of meat. There is no question of overtime here; men work till they drop and sleep among their cars. "Horse, foot, and guns may sometimes get a little rest, but so long as men eat thrice a day there is no rest for the Army Service Corps. They carry the campaign on their all-sustaining backs."

Mr. Kipling was immensely struck with the Canadian troops; it is a pity that he had no opportunity of seeing the Australians, for what he says of the one applies mutatis mutandis to the other. Here on Salisbury Plain he could study "a colony yearning to shake off the British yoke." True, it yearned to shake it off, and the dust of England from its feet, but not quite in the sense that German publicists foretold. The three things that impressed the author most were the physique of the Canadians, the sufficiency of their equipment ("it is not a contingent that Canada has sent, but an army, horse, foot, guns, engineers, and all details"), and the democratic nature of its composition. As in our own forces, University graduates are serving contentedly in the ranks; a millionaire is the cheerful orderly of a small farmer, and so forth. There is a fair sprinkling of South African veterans, some of whom were very wild and unruly spirits in their unregenerate days. Those who had been foremost in the attempt to paint Capetown red were the first to come forward "disguised as respectable citizens," and have proved worth their weight in gold.

But Mr. Kipling is not wholly contented. There are still too many gentlemen who complain that their "private gallops" are being cut up and "irremediably ruined" by gun wheels. Artillery in training still too often find that their operations are hampered by the sacredness of golf links and pheasant preserves. There are still too many able-bodied young men without responsibilities who are leaving it all to the other fellow. "There is a gulf already opening between those who have joined and those who have not; but we shall not know the width and the depth of that gulf till the war is over. The wise youth is he who jumps it now and lands in safety among the trained and armed men." As for the new army, it can be relied upon to give a good account of itself, and this despite "the ineradicable English instinct to understate, detract, and decry—to mask the thing done by loudly drawing attention to the thing undone. The more one sees of the camps the more one is filled with facts and figures of joyous significance, which will become clearer as the days lengthen and the less one hears of the endurance, decency, self-sacrifice, and utter devotion which have made and are hourly making this wonderful new world." (Macmillan and Co.)

NIGERIA.

"Through Unknown Nigeria" is the record of an extensive journey undertaken by Mr. John R. Raphael through a country which, till the other day, was the latest acquisition of the British Empire. The author made Lagos his starting point, and thence proceeded by rail, or river, or on horseback, or even on foot to the principal towns of the colony. Everywhere he was struck with the steady advance which had been made. White settlement in Nigeria dates only from 30 years back, when the Royal Niger Company commenced operations. Previously there had been spasmodic efforts to establish trading stations on the coast, but the climate always proved too deadly. The whole of the Guinea coast is known as the "white man's grave," and the Niger delta is the most unhealthy part of it, as the early arrivals found to their cost. A Scots expedition despatched in 1832 actually lost four-fifths of its members; nine years later another one was sent with the result that practically 33 per cent. died of fever or its sequelae. No wonder that for 70 years Englishmen thought Nigeria an excellent place to avoid. However, Nigeria has now lost most of its terrors for the white man. He knows what prophylactic measures to take, and he knows the mode of life which will safeguard him from disease. Moreover, although the lowlying coast is undoubtedly unhealthy, the hinterland is an elevated plateau where the climate is reasonably good.

Mr. Raphael went as far as Kano, on the edge of the Sahara, not far from Lake Tchad. Kano is the native capital; its market is famous throughout the whole of Africa. Hither come Arabs who have crossed the desert from the Mediterranean littoral; hither come caravans from Abyssinia and the Soudan, traders from Angola or Mozambique. On the busiest days as many as twelve thousand will be chattering in the great market place. Before the British rule slaves were the chief article of commerce; now it is leather work and metal work, in which the natives are wonderfully proficient. The metal worker will take a handful of empty cartridge cases, beat them by hand into one sheet, and make an elaborately chased bowl out of it. Rusty hoop-iron from packing cases, nails, any odd bits of disused iron, are welded by hand hammering and turned into swords so finely tempered that they can be bent into a circle. The glories of Kano market are beginning to fade. The sophisticated Arab merchant no longer comes across the Sahara; he prefers to travel by boat and train. As often as not he has an office in Liverpool or Birmingham, which supplies him with goods.

The native inhabitants of Nigeria proper are either Hausas or Pagans. The former are a vigorous warlike race, who are now most efficient soldiers and policemen. Before the pax Britannica was established over the land they were the hereditary enemies of the Pagans, who were no match for them. The result is a curious feature of all Pagan towns. These are invariably protected by a belt of cactus, a veritable labyrinth of thorns, which is absolutely impenetrable without the aid of a guide. "It was a scheme of defence in the days when a swarm of Hausa horsemen might swoop on a Pagan town and overwhelm it. The cactus avenue is planned on the principle of a maze. It winds, twists, turns, has branching courses leading to blind alleys, where the sides are too close for a horse to be turned, a perfect ambush. Other narrow ways take you back to places you have passed in coming inwards, the design being to bring the front section of a hostile column of mounted men hurrying or face to face with the middle and rear sections of the force, who would also be impetuously pushing forward, anxious to be clear of the trap in as short a time as possible. The confusion produced is easily imagined. And when the assailants were inextricably entangled, the Pagans would gallop to and fro by secret paths and shower poisoned arrows on the struggling mass." However, such affairs are things of the past nowadays. The Hausas and Pagans live side by side in perfect amity, and assist in the development of the country, which Mr. Raphael describes in so interesting a fashion. The only fault to be found with his book is that the absence of a map makes it difficult for readers unfamiliar with the geography of Nigeria (and these, we venture to believe, will be in the majority) to follow the course of his travels. BISMARCK'S LETTERS.

In "Bismarck's Letters to his Wife 1870-1871," the great Chancellor appears in rather a new light. These were written at the seat of war. The first is dated the very day he arrived at the front; the last is a telegram announcing his triumphant return from Paris. But though the whole period of the war is covered we do not hear very much about its actual progress. It is a domestic Bismarck that we see, a devoted husband solicitous for the welfare of his wife and a tender parent anxious for the safety of his sons who were fighting. He is always pulling strings for their benefit. "I used the occasion of Bill's birthday yesterday," he says in one place, "to start a little intrigue to have him made an ensign." Later on we hear of another little intrigue to have his sons awarded the Iron Cross—which was apparently harder to win in those days than it is now.

Many of these letters are concerned with commonplaces, and are the more characteristic on that account. Bismarck was a valiant trencherman, and usually he tells the Countess what he had been having for his meals. He often yearns for certain dishes cooked in the authentic German style; he complains that she had only sent him two stuffed goose-breasts, instead of sending him two whole geese; he acknowledges the receipt of some cigars, and asks her to send some "good ones for myself;" he tells her to send him his red uniform—his luggage has gone astray, and he has nothing fit to wear when with the King. Sometimes even this man of blood and iron knows loneliness. "I have not here a human soul with whom to talk about the future and past," he writes from Versailles; "I am chilled in spirit, and long to be with you alone in the country." He is mildly surprised at his unpopularity. "The people here (at Pont-a-Mousson) must take me for a bloodhound; the old women, when they hear my name, fall on their knees and beg me to spare their lives. Attila was a lamb beside me."

Bismarck did not like the Prussian leaders any more than the French liked him. There are constant references to friction with the general staff: "Good old Roon" and "Good old sensible Moltke" are the only ones in whose favour he has anything to say. He had a violent quarrel with the staff on account of the delay in bombarding Paris. Their argument was that an assault would cost 1000 men; Bismarck replies that "this defensive waiting for hostile sorties, the daily small losses, and the sicknesses have cost us in the last two months about ten thousand." His differences with the generals were political as well as military. For all his domineering, Bismarck knew that there was a point beyond which it was unsafe to go. With prophetic insight he writes of the Prussian war lords:—"They are mad with imperialism; the success has affected them in their heads, and I am often afraid that this presumptuous self-conceit will be visited upon us." And again in reference to the terms of peace:—"Yesterday at last we signed; more gained than I think wise in my personal political calculation. But I have to take into consideration from above and below sentiments which do not make calculations." If he had lived he would have seen his fears realised. The arrogant militarism and the insatiable appetite which were revealed to the world in 1871 have at last brought the day of reckoning.

Of the French Bismarck says little of importance. The well-known letter is reprinted which describes his meeting with Napoleon after Sedan in the "lonely workman's cottage, poor and dirty." On that occasion Bismarck's behaviour was marked by a delicacy and tact which he did not always display. His references to the French are rather contemptuous; he disparages their military virtue, while their diplomatic representatives are "so unskilled at their business that I have had to help them with their work." For Thiers alone does he express any admiration. His last letter from France gives his explanation of France's downfall. The conquering army is filing out of Paris. "At the sound of the 'Retreat' thousands of Parisians followed arm to arm with our soldiers, and at 'Helmets off for prayer' took off their hats and said, 'That is what is lacking in us,' and that, no doubt, is correct." (Jarrold and Sons.)

SOME NEW NOVELS.

In "Private Affairs" Mr. Charles M'Evoy introduces us to a family which is surely rather an anachronism in this emancipated age. It is the sort of family which Mr. G. B. Shaw had in mind (though he considered it the rule rather than the exception) when he penned the diatribes of the preface to "Mesalliance." Mr. and Mrs. Barnard mean thoroughly well towards their offspring. No doubt they regard themselves as considerate and devoted parents, but their affection takes the form of thwarting their children at every turn. They are continually asserting their authority for the sake of asserting it, not because there is any valid reason for doing so. The mere fact that a child wishes to do something raises the presumption that this should be forbidden even though the something may be perfectly harmless. Of the two Mr. Barnard is, if possible, the more lacking in sympathy and discernment; that he is to be "master in his own house" amounts to a positive obsession with him. Thus, when Janet, his eldest daughter, who is fading away in unwanted spinsterhood, hears that a former admirer is returning from Canada to marry her, Barnard issues his solemn veto, and forbids her even to write to him. By persisting in treating his son as a mere boy, he drives him to revolt. He is roused almost to a frenzy of fury when Myrtle, the youngest girl, takes part in some school theatricals. When he hears that a famous manager who happened to be present saw in Myrtle a natural actress and offered her an engagement, his rage knows no bounds. However, his sentiments change when he learns that her salary is to be £40 a week. The Barnards now become the proud but dragon-like parents of a prodigy. Myrtle is kept more than ever under their thumb. She is not allowed to know what her salary is; the trifle she receives represents affluence to her; the rest goes to swell Mr. Barnard's banking account. An infatuated but pleasant lordling appears on the scene, and Myrtle is flung at his head in a most unblushing fashion which would certainly have scared one less deeply in love off the premises. And all the time poor Myrtle is cherishing a little romance of her own, a romance whose very innocence does not prevent the awakening from being a tragedy to her. In the end we are to believe that Mr. Barnard's dearest hopes are realised, and that Myrtle finds in her lordling a satisfactory substitute for the idol her unsophisticated imaginings had created out of a very ordinary young man, who, if no Galahad, was certainly not a Don Juan. Mr. M'Evoy has drawn the Barnard family with great skill, particularly the father and mother. One may deplore their conception of parental authority, but one cannot condemn them out of hand as gross domestic tyrants. They are both so absolutely convinced that they are doing everything for the best, and there is something pathetic in their occasional misgivings that they are not so infallible as they suppose, and in their ultimate realisation that when sympathy is needed their children go elsewhere. (Everett and Co.)

"Spragge's Canyon" is a readable story of California, by Mr. H. A. Vachell. The canyon is a little farm hacked out of the wilderness by a stalwart pioneer, where dwell in Arcadian simplicity Wilbur Spragge, second of that name, his mother, and Samantha, his cousin. Wilbur, who is a combination of an Apollo and a Hercules, with an American accent, asks nothing better than to spend his life in the canyon tending his flocks and herds, and growing his strawberries regardless of the world without. Towns and all they contain are anathema to him. But suddenly into this Eden enters a serpent in the shape of a dainty artificial girl from the city, to whose urban fascinations Wilbur promptly succumbs. The plot now runs on familiar lines; it is the old story of the rivalry between the sophisticated and the artless, between the meretricious allurements of the ultra-civilised and the less subtle charms of the simple country maiden. Both Mrs. Spragge and Samantha see that Hazel is not the fitting mate for Wilbur, and they know that once the novelty of life in the canyon has worn off it would soon become intolerable to her. With the traditional guile of their sex they conceal their disapproval of Hazel, and give her her head in the hope that she will ultimately betray herself. But Hazel is no fool; she is an excellent actress, and is moreover herself sensibly attracted to Wilbur, whose volcanic wooing represents quite a new sensation to her. She imposes on Wilbur and on all the other men of the neighbourhood, it is only the women who, undazzled by her specious glitter, see through her. However, in the end she "gives herself away" in a most convincing fashion, and Wilbur, after a decent interval of mortification and misogyny, returns to his devoted Samantha. Wilbur is a trifle too god-like in his attributes, but Mrs. Spragge is a thoroughly delightful character, and life at Spragge's canyon is described in a manner which makes one wish to go there. (Bell and Sons: Dymock's.)

"Sweet Apple Cove," which gives its title to an excellent story by George Van Shaick, is hardly what its name might suggest. It is a tiny harbour on the rock-bound coast of Newfoundland, where a handful of fisher folk win a hard living from the stormy seas, and the fragrance is not of apples but of decaying cod. Hither comes John Grant, a young doctor, who wishes to bury himself in a lonely place for a year, until the young lady of his affections can make up her mind whether she returns them. Hither, also come the sumptuous yacht of Jeliffe, a shrewd, and likeable millionaire, who promptly breaks his leg and has to stay at the Cove till it mends. Naturally Helen Jeliffe and Grant are thrown much into each other's company. She goes with him on his "rounds"—a crazy sailing boat takes the place of a motor car, with a Newfoundland country practitioner—and learns to appreciate his self-sacrifice and energy; he, for his part, gradually succumbs to her charm. The sequel is not difficult to guess; an attack of diphtheria brings on the climax, and each has reason to bless the chance that brought them to Sweet Apple Cove. It is a pleasant story, redolent of fresh air and vigorous enterprises while in "Frenchy." Sammy Brown and Susie we are introduced to some of the delightful inhabitants of the Cove.—(Small, Maynard and Co.: G. Robertson.)

SEPOYS IN THE TRENCHES.

An Anglo-Indian, writing in the "Times," tells of the vow of Wariam Singh, and how he died fighting for the Sircar in the trenches. Wariam Singh was on leave when the regiment was mobilised, and the news reached him in his village. It was a very hot night. They were sitting by the well, and when Wariam Singh heard that the —th Infantry were going Wilayat to fight for the Sircar against a different kind of white man, he said that, come what might, he would never surrender. He made a vow then and there, and, contrary to all regimental discipline, held by it. . . . The two English officers in his trench had fallen; the Germans had taken the trenches to the left and the right, and they were enfiladed up on the moment when the final frontal wave broke in. The order came to retire, but Wariam Singh said "I cannot retire, I have sworn," and he stood by his machine gun.

"If he had retired no doubt he would have been slain. Remaining he was slain, but he slew many," was the comment of Zorawar Singh, who told "Anglo-Indian" the story. Afterwards the trench was taken back and the body of Wariam Singh was found under the gun. The corpses of the Germans lay all round, like stones in a river bed. But even so the enemy did not command Zorawar Singh's respect. "They are children in battle," he said. "At 25 yards they lifted their rifles to fire, then all at once the earth became empty of them. Others came, and again all the earth became empty. They understand nothing."

An officer told the writer that many of these brave men had felt the clutch of panic the first day they were in the trenches. They had started placidly at the great caverns made in the ground behind them by the shells. Then a Taube came buzzing over and dropped a green-smoke puff directly above their heads like some hideous dragon belching fire. It was the first aircraft they had seen. . . . The war was not like any ordinary war, but more like the Mahabharat, in which the gods came down and fought with men. Zorawar Singh will carry away kind memories of France, the kindest of all countries to men from strange lands. Especially will he remember an old lady in a farm who used to sit knitting in the evening teaching him to count, and how her granddaughter, a small child whose hair was almost white, was allowed to sit on his knee.

In the Probate Court, London, judgment in the Slingsby law suit was given in favour of the petitioner, Charles Eugene Edward Slingsby, aged four. The opponents of the petitioner were relations, who contended that the boy was really the child of an unmarried woman, born in San Francisco, and passed off by Mrs. Slingsby as her own child. The boy is entitled to a declaration that he is the legitimate son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Reynard Slingsby, and the declaration establishes him as heir to the extensive Slingsby estates in the Knaresborough district of Yorkshire.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

After Easter Sydney will enter into possession of a new concert-hall, and not only so but one which will meet the desideratum as regards size of a midway chamber between those places which seat 500 people and the Town Hall, which accommodates 3000 more. This addition to the musical resources of the city is all the more necessary owing to the fact that Concordia Hall forms an annexe to a German Club. The new building in question is, of course, the central feature in the New South Wales State Conservatorium of Music, projected by Mr. Campbell Carmichael whilst Minister for Education. As most people are aware, the old Government House stables, fortunately close to the Macquarie-street gates, have been remodelled for musical purposes, and it is now possible to comment upon the complete success achieved under the superintendance of Mr. Wells, principal architect to the Public Instruction Department. The main entrance leads into a vestibule 30 x 12 feet, with cloakrooms on either side. The hall itself, lofty and graceful in design, is finished in white plaster with Kean cement dados and raised panels, the doors and front of the stage being in dark bog-oak colour. The "rake" of the floor, on which 678 tip-up Bickford patent seats of dead-leaf green leather will be placed, brings the spectators beneath the end balcony to a level with the raised platform. This balcony seats 332 people. Thus an audience of 1010 can be accommodated. A choir of about 130 can be seated on the raised tiers of the platform, with a small organ behind, or these tiers can be removed to adapt the space for stage purposes. The orchestra will be in a shallow well, and will be visible from the auditorium. There will be artists' rooms, and the whole will be fitted with electric light. After-Easter visitors will be agreeably surprised by the impressive grace of the new hall, which should become popular. A corridor 10 feet wide runs round three sides of the hall, dividing it from nine large class-rooms, the windows of which afford a delightful view of lawns and gay parterres. In this way the Australian students of the future will pursue the art of music under typical southern conditions of sunshine and charm.

Theatrical news in London for the week ended February 10 includes the successful revival of "Tales of Hoffmann" at the Shaftesbury, with a cast as familiar in Sydney as it is in London. Nora d'Argel (Nora Long), Edith Clegg, John Harrison, Arthur Wynn, and William Samuel, were all favourably reviewed in the first of the two casts. Mr. H. B. Irving has produced Vachell's new drama, "Searchlights," at the Savoy Theatre. No actor-manager is more popular on this side than "H. B.," and our playgoers will regret to learn that the new piece proved disappointing. At the Coronet Theatre "She Stoops to Conquer" has been performed by a provincial repertory company. All the actors are praised in turn, and the "Pall Mall Gazette" remarks, "We can promise every lover of the play a treat in seeing a performance of so rich a quality as this." These suburban playhouses have opened the eyes of Londoners to the remarkable fact that first-rate productions can actually be seen outside of London.

Mlle. Bel Sorel, the Franco-Italian soprano, who created with so much distinction the role of "Madame Butterfly" for Australia, and after a considerable stay sailed again for Italy in November, 1910, writes from Milan, after a long silence. The prima donna forwards programmes of her last appearances, including one in her role of Cho-Cho-San, at the Teatro Rossini, Venice, but adds that, after the outbreak of the war, theatrical affairs became more and more paralysed. Accordingly, she returned to her house in the Via Mario Pagano, Milan, and settled down to give lessons in singing and stage work ("lecons de chant et de scene"), and got on very well, some of her best pupils, with really fine voices, being Australians. Indeed, Mlle. Sorel remembers with gratitude her visit to this country, as it forced her to become more fluent with her English. The diva, a daughter of the famous dramatic soprano, Emma Sorel, began life as a prodigy-pianist, and toured the capitals of Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Germany, at the age of eight years, eventually settling in Paris for her education. It was there that she became a singer, and her first acquaintance with our difficult language was in London, where she made her girlish debut at concerts given first by Sarasate, and then by Paderewski. After that her operatic career kept her chiefly in Italy, and occasionally in France, varied by a season at the Imperial Theatre, Warsaw, where she sang Mimi, Violetta, and Carmen, with Caruso as tenor. Mlle. Sorel, whose voice was of a silvery fulness in the lower and middle registers, was also specially engaged for the mezzo-character of Carmen for a season at Madrid. She writes that, although the fact is not publicly discussed, the war has already caused distress among the working classes in Italy. This distress is accentuated amongst choristers and stage hands, whilst for the artists short seasons given by operatic touring companies on sharing terms, and headed by two or three favourite singers, provide "a risky kind of speculative employment."

An artist with a considerable London reputation is now appearing in "Cinderella" in the person of Jack F. M'Ardle. The newcomer, generally regarded as English, was born in Philadelphia in the same suburb as Hugh J. Ward. The boys were acquaintances, but when the latter entered a stock company at Pittsburg for four years M'Ardle started in his native city, and was for four years at the Girard Avenue Theatre. Serious parts in melodrama engaged his attention on tour throughout the United States, Canada, and Vancouver; and just 20 years ago he made his debut in England at the "biscuit-town" of Reading. Sydney playgoers will remember George Walton and John Gourlay in the musical farce "Skipped by the Light of the Moon." M'Ardle replaced Gourlay as the Irish policeman. Apart from 15 Christmas pantomime engagements, Mr. M'Ardle has played almost continuously in London since April, 1906, when he made a hit as General Sir Wilkie Willoughby in the original production of "The Girl Behind the Counter" at Wyndham's Theatre. Always as a principal comedian he was at the Hicks Theatre in "My Darling," then for eight months in "Hello, London" at the Empire, and for 12 months he played Baron Popoff in "The Merry Widow" at Daly's Theatre with Lily Elsie and Joseph Coyne (Danilo). Later he replaced Coyne as Harry Q. Conder for many months in "The Dollar Princess" at Daly's. The newcomer appeared in London in the character of Prince Joachim in "A Waltz Dream" (1911), after which he was prominently in revues at the Empire, the Alhambra, and the London Opera House ("Come Over Here"). Last winter and spring he revisited New York as the old miller in "The Girl on the Film" at the 44th Street Theatre. But England is now his home, just as rose growing is his hobby. He rented for some years a charming 'Elizabethan' house at Beaconsfield (Bucks), which looked 300 years old, and was three! This fascinating imitation of the real thing was in the centre of a great old garden, where roses grew in profusion. Mr. M'Ardle and his wife studied Dean Hole's book on roses, and raised 300 trees of every variety. Speed in transit endeared London to the American. He regularly caught the 11.50 p.m. express for Birkenhead, alighted at Beaconsfield (25 miles) at 12.28 a.m. to the tick, and 4 minutes later was eating his supper amidst the scent of the roses! "That," declares Mr. M'Ardle, "represents an ideal contrast in life that prolongs it—from the roar of the metropolis and the glare of the footlights to a golden slumber of repose in an ancient English village."

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. Chas. Sheard and Co., of London, publish the "Canberra Waltz," by Alice M. Hill, of this city. This is a melodious ballroom composition, which boasts a good deal of animation, as well as some originality in the third movement, which is on that account the best. The main fault is a lack of invention and variety in the harmonisation.

"The Road to Berlin," spirited, patriotic verses by Dr. Richard Arthur, M.L.A., has been set (anonymously) to a capital theme of a virile character for solo voice, with a choral refrain in 6-8 time that is genuinely taking in the vivacious style of comic opera.

ST. JOHN'S, PARRAMATTA.

A NOTABLE CENTENARY.

(BY FRANK WALKER, PAST-PRESIDENT, AUSTRALIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.)

It was in October, 1788, that Governor Phillip formed a settlement at a place he named Rose Hill, situated, as he says, "near the head of the harbour," and so named after Sir G. Rose, Under-Secretary of the Treasury. In November, 1791, he informed Lord Grenville that "the town, which I have named Parramatta, extends from the foot of Rose Hill for one mill to the eastward along the creek, and I named it Parramatta, that being the name given by the natives to the spot on which the town is situated." (Literally, the meaning of the native word is "the place where the eels sit down.") By the end of 1791, nearly one thousand persons were living in the district, and the Rev. Richard Johnson—Australia's first chaplain—ministered to them, as well as to those in Sydney, using a large shed, in which the carpenters worked, to hold public service in. In a letter to Governor Phillip, dated March 23, 1792, he says, "Last spring there was the foundation of a church laid at Parramatta; before it was finished, it was converted into a jail, or lock-up house, and now it is converted into a granary. Have had this place to perform Divine service in for several Sundays, but now am again turned out, and must again turn field-preacher there also. I go up to Parramatta as usual, once a fortnight, the distance by water about fourteen miles. Generally go up on the Saturday—sometimes four, five, or six hours upon the water. On Sunday morning early, I now ride up to the new settlement (Toongabbie), preach in the open-air about 7 o'clock to about 600 convicts. At 10 and 4 in the afternoon I preach at Parramatta. I fear, however, I shall not be able to continue this much longer, especially as the winter is now approaching, unless some places be erected for the purpose."

On March 10, 1794, the Rev. Samuel Marsden, who had been appointed assistant-chaplain, arrived in the colony, and he relieved Mr. Johnson of the care of the western settlements, and entered on the active administration of the district. He was able on the first Sunday in September, 1798, to open a temporary church, and we are told by Collins that it "was formed out of the materials of two old huts," adding further, that "decent places of worship were now to be seen in the two principal settlements." It is on record that at the opening of the wooden temple at Parramatta, which formerly stood at the corner of George and Marsden streets, only twelve hearers attended. This so shocked Governor Hunter that he determined, when residing at this town, he would attend Divine Service.

In October, 1799, the foundation of a handsome church, which was to be one hundred feet long and fourty-four feet in width, was laid by Governor Hunter. At the western end there was a room twenty feet long, raised on stone pillars, and intended for a vestry-room or council chamber. The work, however, proceeded very slowly for two years; later, viz., in 1801, Governor King, in writing to Sir Joseph Banks, says:—". . . nor have we an elegant stone church at Parramatta; one of brick and stone will be finished during the year." The good man was evidently out in his calculations, as we find him writing again in December, 1803, to the effect that "the best public building in the colony is a new church at Parramatta, which is not yet finished."

The Rev. Samuel Marsden remained in charge of the district until his departure for England on a visit, in August, 1806. The Rev. Henry Fulton officiated during Mr. Marsden's absence, but according to Governor Bligh, Marsden was without any clerical assistance for over six years. Marsden died in 1838, and was succeeded by the Rev. H. H. Bobart, his son-in-law, and it was during the latter's incumbency that it was determined to build a new church on the site of the old one. A temporary building was therefore put up, and the old church of St. John's was taken down. The towers and spires were left standing, and the new portion of the present church was joined to them.

Reference might now be made to the towers. There is a rather romantic story current that Mrs. Macarthur, on returning to the colony in 1817, registered in her mind a vow that if she arrived safely at her destination she would erect a church at Parramatta, whose towers should be a replica of those adorning the old Reculvers church in Kent, and which, according to tradition, her eyes were resting upon, as the vessel receded from the coast of England. Now exactly the same story has been recorded in connection with Mrs. Macquarie, but when comparing the facts available, it will be seen that the last-mentioned lady has the better right to the legend, or story, or statement, whichever it is regarded.

Mrs. Macarthur, as before stated, arrived here in 1817, and according to some authorities, the erection of the towers took place in 1819. Dean Cowper, in his book, "Biography and Reminiscences," states that "Parramatta is also indebted to him (Governor Macquarie) for the towers of St. John's, or to him and Mrs. Macquarie. The Governor had formed the intention of having a tower added to the church, but Mrs. Macquarie suggested that in stead of one, there should be two, after the pattern of Reculvers Church in Kent." Then follows the pretty story of the vow, as already related. The Governor assented to this proposition, and instructions were accordingly given to the architect, Lieutenant Watts, of the 46th Regiment, who was also A.D.C. to Governor Macquarie, and he furnished designs for two steeples. There is no question that these towers bear a strong family likeness to those of Reculvers Church in Kent, so that that portion of the legend is no doubt founded on fact. When the alleged date of their erection, viz., 1819, is looked into, there are one or two things which need explaining.

In the account of the female orphan institution at Parramatta, from October 1 to December 31, 1813, we find the following entry:—"To expenses for alterations and repairs at Parramatta Church, on account, £500." What "alterations and repairs" could there be, necessitating an expenditure of such a comparatively large sum of money, of which this was only "on account"? Turning to "Bigge's Report on the State of Agriculture and Trade in New South Wales," page 69, we find the following:—"The church at Parramatta is built of stone, and was the first that was finished in the colony. It will seat four hundred persons, but until lately was badly ventilated. Some late additions have been made to the church, by which more accommodation has been obtained, and two steeples have been added to the opposite end of the church." This report was compiled late in the year 1820. During a gale which swept over the township the old vestry was blown down, and much damage was occasioned to the western end of the church. This accounts for the item mentioned as "repairs" in the orphan institution account, and the premature removal of the old vestry would afford the opportunity for carrying into execution the idea of providing the church with its twin towers.

There is still another point to be considered before the summing up, and for this recourse must be made to Bigge's Report once more. In it, he states that Lieutenant Watts, of the 46th Regiment, supplied the design for the steeples. This officer arrived in the colony by the ship Windham, in February, 1814, and he left for England in the Shipley, April, 1819. Bigge arrived here in September, 1819, so that his statement concerning the author of the designs for the towers may be accepted as correct. The generally accepted opinion is that the twin towers of St. John's Church were completed in 1815, and that the work extended over several months duration, probably eight or ten, at the very least, and that Mrs. Macarthur's connection with them is exceedingly problematical. It is somewhat unfortunate that an important historical question such as this is, possesses no definite facts to go upon. We have, on the one hand, the statement by Dean Cowper, that Macquarie was responsible for the towers. In the second place, there is the account of the Female Orphan Institution for the last quarter of 1815, giving the amount expended on alterations and repairs to the church, and in the third place that Lieutenant Watts furnished the designs. The issue is further involved by the use of the story concerning the resemblance to the Reculvers Church towers, with which two entirely different persons are connected. It is too much of a coincidence to suppose that both Mrs. Macarthur and Mrs. Macquarie made the same vow, under the same circumstances, when a period of about seven years intervened between their respective voyages.

In favour of the 1815 theory there is an entry in Governor Macquarie's diary, under date May 15, 1816, which reads as follows:—"I this day drew a draft on the treasurer of the Female Orphan Institution Fund for £583 8s 6d, in favour of Mr. J. Smith, architect, being the amount of sundry additions, alterations, and repairs made by him to the church at Parramatta, up to this date." If this entry is compared with the one appearing in the account of the same institution, for the last quarter of 1815, concerning the sum of £500, it may be presumed that, between October 1, 1815, and May 15, 1816, a sum of £1083 had been expended for work done on the church.

THE CHURCHES.

TRAINING OF THE CLERGY.

In the course of a recent address in All Saints' Cathedral, Bathurst, the Rev. C. E. Kempe, president of the Bush Brotherhood, remarked that there was no scheme for the training of the clergy in Australia, and that candidates were "pushed through." Canon Forster, sub-dean of the Cathedral, has replied to these observations in vigorous language. "These assertions," he said, "amount to a wholesale charge against the bishops of Australia as being utterly neglectful in their duty. Such a charge I, as examining chaplain to two of the bishops, must refute. It was said the clergy were so badly educated that were they doctors or solicitors they would be easily ousted from their positions. Now, expert knowledge to a doctor or solicitor is a complete requisite, but I am sure that no one would say that of a minister of religion. It is not knowledge, but character and goodness that is needed in a clergyman. Woe be the day when the only standard for a clergyman shall be to pass examinations in abstruse theology. I feel that the statement made was a slur on the Church. It gave a wrong view to the laity that little or nothing was being done in the training of the clergy in Australia."

Canon Forster also made reference to Mr. Kempe's assertion that "the care of souls was a lost art in Australia." "That," he said, "is contrary to all my experience as a clergyman. Men are struggling to work parishes which are almost impossible. I have no hesitation in saying that the Australian is called upon to do at least six times—I might say ten times—as much work as is done in England."

The Easter services will be commenced at St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow. In the afternoon Bach's Passion music will be rendered. On Tuesday evening Gounod's "Gallilee" will be sung, and an address will be delivered by Rev. J. H. Maclean, B.D. On Thursday Gounod's "Redemption" will be sung, and a sermon preached by Canon Charlton.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday an organ recital will be given in St. Andrew's Cathedral by Mr. Joseph Massey, and an address delivered by the Rev. the Precentor.

The Lay Readers' Association of the Diocese of Sydney is in need of additional helpers. Three hundred services have been conducted by the members of the association during the first quarter of this year in the country parts and nearer suburbs, and 315 services are arranged for the next quarter. Requests for assistance in providing for spiritual ministration have come recently from the parishes of Wentworth Falls, Blacktown, Seven Hills, Lidcome, and Wingecarribee. Churchmen willing to give their services to this work are asked to send in their names to the Chaplain for Lay Readers, the Rectory, Dulwich Hill. Educated men specially are wanted.

The Rev. J. H. Willcoxson, senior curate of St. John's, Parramatta, has been appointed locum tenens of St. Bede's, Drummoyne, during the absence of the rector, the Rev. T. D. Reynolds, who has joined the Army Medical Corps of the Australian Expeditionary Force, and is going to the front.

The Church of England mission, conducted by the Rev. P. Stacy Waddy in the big tent at the Liverpool camp, is proving very successful. The services and meetings, which are held every evening, are largely attended, and a special attraction was arranged for the men on Wednesday evening, when the choir of St. Andrew's Cathedral rendered Stainer's "Crucifixion." The tent is provided with writing materials and paper, as well as other facilities, for the use of the men, and a smaller tent is also set apart for the same purpose. The choir of King's School led the service on one evening during the week, and the Archbishop is to hold a confirmation next week.

At the morning service at Christ Church, Blayney, on Sunday last, Bishop Long dedicated an oak pulpit that had been placed in the chancel as a mark of appreciation by the parishioners of 27 years' service to the church of Mr. C. M. Barry, who is now manager of the Bathurst branch of the Commercial Bank, after being in a similar post at Blayney for many years.

Archbishop Kelly will be present at the annual communion breakfast of the Irish National Foresters, which takes place in the Southern Cross Hall on Sunday, at 9 a.m.

At the services in connection with Palm Sunday, the palms will be blessed at the cathedral at the 7 o'clock mass. Archbishop Kelly will also perform the same ceremony before High Mass.

On Wednesday the office of Tenebrae will be commenced, and devotions will begin at 7 p.m., but the special offices for Holy Week will start on Holy Thursday and Good Friday, at 8.30 a.m. On Holy Thursday and Good Friday Archbishop Kelly will sing the mass.

The preachers for the week will be: Holy Thursday, Rev. P. J. Sheehy; Good Friday morning, Rev. Father Alphonsus, C.P.; evening, Rev. Father Clarke, O.F.M. On Easter Sunday, at 11 o'clock mass, Archbishop Kelly will preach, and the final sermon in connection with the Easter ceremonies will be delivered by the Very Rev. Father O'Farrell on Easter Sunday night.

In connection with the arch-diocese, the following changes and appointments are notified:—Rev. T. Kenny, from Bungendore to Granville; Rev. J. Dalton, from Redfern to Kogarah; Rev. M. Sherin, from St. Mary's to Naremburn; Rev. J. H. Kelly, from Enmore to Gosford; Rev. P. Sheehy, to the Sacred Heart Church, Darlinghurst; Rev. P. J. Power, to Bungendore; Rev. R. Wolfe, from Forest Lodge to Auburn; Rev. P. Nulty, to Pymble; Rev. D. O'Sullivan, to St. Mary's Cathedral; Rev. J. Troy, from Annandale to Forest Lodge; Rev. P. A. Moloney, from Mount Carmel to Enmore.

Archbishop Ceretti will leave for Melbourne on April 16. On the following day he will meet the bishops of the province and will be presented with addresses by the clergy and laity. The Lord Mayor will also tender the Archbishop a civic reception.

The standing committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly of New South Wales will meet in Sydney on April 13, 14, and 15.

The Rev. R. Carter was inducted as minister in charge of the Mascot Presbyterian Church during the week.

The Rev. W. G. Sharpe, sustentation fund organiser, has been in the Peak Hill district, and it is confidently expected that soon the Presbyterian services will be resumed. The people are anxious to have a church building of their own.

The Presbyterian congregation of Young is unanimously calling the Rev. J. Barnet Steel, B.A., of Casino. The call was to be dealt with on the 23rd.

At a meeting of Presbyterian Sunday School teachers held in Chalmers Church Hall on Monday last, it was decided to form a Sunday-school Union, for the purpose of enabling the Sunday schools to get into touch with the latest methods of teaching and training, and to form a link between the Sunday schools and the welfare of youth department of the Presbyterian Church, which is the governing body appointed by the assembly to look after these matters. A committee was appointed to go thoroughly into the matter.

During the week the president of the Methodist Conference, the Rev. Joseph Woodhouse, visited Hoonam Vale.

The Rev. P. J. Stephens' farewell sermons will be preached in connection with the Central Methodist Mission on Sunday.

The opening of the new hall, which has been erected in Montague-street, Balmain, has been fixed for the afternoon of Saturday, April 10. The Rev. J. Woodhouse, president of the Methodist Conference, will perform the opening ceremony.

The Rev. C. Bernard Crockett will be ordained at the Congregational Church, Rockdale, on Tuesday next.

The Rev. A. E. West, an ex-president of the Congregational Union of Queensland, has commenced his ministry at Dulwich Hill under the happiest auspices. The church anniversary tea and public meeting were held last Wednesday evening, when a large company assembled. An address on "Christian Optimism" was delivered by the Rev. J. J. Willings, of Newtown Congregational Church.

The 15th gathering for prayer and meditation in connection with the return of the Lord Jesus took place at the Y.W.C.A. Hall on Monday evening last. Mr. G. E. Ardill occupied the chair, and the address was given by the Rev. J. S. Austin, who has recently completed his 50th year in the ministry of the Methodist Church.

Mr. William Blane, lecturing on Tsingtao to the Japan Society in London, said that Germany would be best remembered in China, not because of her forts or her harbours and railways, but by her work in afforestation. No fewer than 100 square miles of territory, where not a tree had grown for 1000 years, had been clothed with verdant woods. In every street and along 300 miles of railway there was the same luxuriant growth.

They were walking down towards the beach and were now within a few yards of the boat. "At any rate," Jose said, "the fact remains the horse has been removed; it was certainly not the act of a friend; it must therefore have been done by an enemy. That enemy has seen the Paolo, and will give the alarm; in fact, he may be galloping your horse at this very moment to warn our enemies, and tell them where I am to be found. The sooner I clear out of the harbour the better. I shall get a free run in the Channel. Thank God, everything looks ship-shape for our start. You had better change your mind, senor, and come with us. If the enemy miss me, they will hunt the neighbourhood for you!"

"I am not afraid; I shall not return to my house until the darkness of to-morrow night, or rather to-night, for it must be past 1 o'clock. I know of an excellent hiding-place, where I can remain through the day. Once at the Manor I am safe enough; there is a secret chamber built into the central chimney stack, which no one would ever suspect, and the only servants I have there would willingly die for my sake."

"Well, you must do as you think best." Jose saluted, and jumped into the boat, which was pulled rapidly to the Paolo.

Garcia waited on the beach until, with shrouded lights, and as silently as possible, the Paolo, taking advantage of a favourable wind, was warped out of the small harbour.

Then the loneliness of sea and land settled down on Juan's spirits; it was the most silent hour of the twenty-four, before the gulls and other sea birds had begun to cry the approach of dawn.

He was in a state of bewilderment, feeling there were forces at work against him, which he could not estimate, formidable from their ambiguity. Jose had suggested someone riding Alba, hot-foot, with the tidings of the presence of the Paolo, and Garcia's own coming to the seaboard. No one knew better than he how unlikely this was, for the horse was unmanageable except by himself, and the groom who had exercised him for a long period.

Yet against his will he was obliged to treat Jose's suggestion as a possibility. Mentally he ranged over the few sparse inhabitants of the district; he thought of Sir Giles Treluce, he even conjured up the vision of Captain Christopher Stone, the enemy he longed above all others to meet in open conflict until one of them fell. If it were either of these men, certainly the latter, he knew he might be attacked at any moment.

Fortunately he had his pistol primed in his pocket, and at his girdle was a formidable dagger, which he drew, as he slowly breasted the hill, holding it in his left hand.

When at the top he looked in all directions; first along the three roads which met at a point near the top of the cliff, then over the dim mystery of the moor, and finally out to sea. Darkness shrouded his vision on all sides; even the moon had disappeared. It was a darkness which might be felt. Cold and keen the wind blew in his face.

Having satisfied himself that he could neither hear nor see anything, he set off at a rapid pace along a pathway, which was just distinguishable, being composed of white sand, bisecting the moor.

He covered about two miles in this way, occasionally startling a sheep lying asleep in some sheltered nook close to the path. Then the road began to descend, and some two hundred feet down a deep chine met the path. Beyond was Dunloe Manor, but Garcia had not any intention of going there. The chine was filled with bracken, and gorse-bushes on both sides reaching to the top where some fir-trees, blown all on one side, stood up like sentinels.

Juan brushed the bracken on one side, and after burying himself in the undergrowth, flung himself down, utterly weary, to sleep.

CHAPTER XI.

NEWS IN THE NIGHT.

"She be a good pluckt 'un, be Mistress Bess," was David Cantle's comment, as he stood holding the gate of the yard in his hand, after Swallow and her rider had passed through.

"Aye, aye, Davey, one in a thousand, one in a million, I should say, if indeed there is anyone like her in all Cornwall, or England for that matter."

This was the response of Grace Cumberledge. The two old servants quarrelled about many things, although good friends at bottom; but they agreed on the subject of admiration and love for their young mistress.

"I wish I had been twenty years younger, and I should not have let her ride alone such a dark night as this. Jester, too, is that stiff in the knees, he goes on three legs for the first mile or so of a journey, while Swallow is as lissom as a calf."

"God keep her and bring her back safe and sound," Grace prayed. "There is no more going to bed for me to-night. I shall wait up till she comes back. Best come in, too, Davey, and sit beside the hearthstone until you'm wanted to stable the mare."

David did as she suggested, and managed to eat a substantial second supper, Grace waiting upon him grumbling the while, nevertheless seeing—woman-like—he had some prime cuts from the ham and a warm drink to wash the food down.

Bess rode on into the darkness alert for every sound, every movement. She had deprived Garcia of the possibility of returning in the way he had come. No doubt Alba by this time was a good part of the way home. She wondered what Garcia would do when he found the rock-passage empty, and his horse gone; he would surely suspect someone had been on his track, someone who had tried to foil his efforts. Would he go on board the Paolo or would he return on foot to his house?

She hoped the former, but she feared the latter, for Juan, by the very fact that he had hitched up the horse, made it plain that he had no immediate intention of leaving England, and he was a man, as she well knew, extremely resolute.

If he were returning on foot it was possible at any moment he might spring out upon her and strive to seize Swallow's bridle. Yet knowing this, she dare not quicken the mare's pace beyond a walk, the darkness was so profound; the road in such ill condition that a false step might take place, and her journey be made impossible by the laming of the mare.

The sympathy between rider and horse, when the two were accustomed to each other, is a matter of common knowledge. As regards Swallow, full of intelligence, devoted to her mistress, she seemed to understand every mood in Bess Carew's mind.

Bess could just see the outline of her head, her pricked ears, her vigilant movement from side to side as she paced along. The mare seemed to understand perfectly that there was fear, danger imminent, and that it behoved her to go warily. Bess knew she could see more clearly than she could herself, she trusted to her sagacity, letting the bridle hang loose.

They came to the point where three roads diverged, while a fourth, the horse-track across the moor, made another route possible.

The nearest way to reach Dunloe Manor was to take the track across the moor, and so, through Dunloe Chine, to the mansion which lay beyond it. For the moment Bess drew rein and hesitated.

The thought of that ravine, dark even by day, with its verdure clothing both sides, and the fir trees obscuring the cliff summits, deterred her. The gain in actual distance was slight, while the chance of an accident to Swallow from the rabbit holes which extended even to the path was much greater.

She determined on keeping to the high road, the best kept of any in the neighbourhood, and affording a fair foothold for the mare. Had she been a quarter of an hour later Juan Garcia would have been at the very spot where her decision was made. But from that time forwards their routes diverged.

She was now descending towards lower ground, keeping the cliff on her left, the moorland on her right. She was somewhat protected by the headland from the full force of the wind; the easy nature of the road rendered it possible to quicken the pace, without incurring any special danger.

Swallow answered gallantly to her encouragement. Gradually the sea was left further and further away; its dull moaning no longer sounded in her ears. The moor, too, was now behind her; she had come to cultivated fields surrounded by stone walls.

Swallow lifted her head, indicating that she felt the end of her journey to be near at hand; she was going back to the place where she had been raised as a foal. Bess patted her, speaking to her for the first time since they started, calling her endearing names. Bess was no longer afraid of her voice being heard. Whatever Garcia had decided to do he would certainly not have chosen the most conspicuous of roads, the one which led to Dunloe Manor.

A thought came into her mind which caused her bosom to rise and fall, and for a moment even superseded the earnestness of her purpose.

In a few minutes she would be arousing her friend, Mistress Anne, and sending her to her brother. She had met Sir Giles under many different conditions and circumstances, but somehow this occasion differed from all that had gone before.

THIS DAY,

SATURDAY, 27th MARCH,

At 3.30 p.m., on the Ground.

To-day promises to chronicle the most remarkable Real Estate transaction on record.

Do Not Miss this Wonderful Opportunity.

The land is available to all. NO PREMIUM OF ANY KIND is to be asked for any of these lovely sites.

If you secure a block, upon signing the contract you will be only asked to pay the first half-year's rental.

The term of the lease will not commence until 1st October. The land by that time will be accessible by road. The Manly Municipal Council has agreed to carry out the work of road-making for the Trustees of the Estate, and to finish same within six months.

The lease for each block will be for the long term of 99 years, and the rental decided upon to-day will be the rental right through the whole term.

This surely should mean great profits in the future to those who secure blocks to-day.

WE ASK YOU TO COME ON TO THE GROUND TO-DAY AND BY PUBLIC COMPETITION FIX THE RENTAL FOR EACH BLOCK.

After securing an allotment to-day you are at liberty to dispose of your lease at a premium without any hindrance, or you can re-let at a higher rental.

You will specially note that you are not compelled to build or fence in your allotment.

Building Covenant provides for dwellings to be built of brick, stone, or concrete, at a cost of not less than £500, or semi-detached residences, £500 each. Special provisions for dwellings built of weatherboard, fibro-cement, or some such material; but in these cases plans of design must be approved by the Lessors.

We have endeavoured to place a proposition before the public to-day which, we think, has no parallel in Real Estate dealings. Those who miss this opportunity will surely regret not having taken advantage of it.

There is a frequent service of steamers to-day. Plans, booklets, and form of lease may be obtained and inspected up to 1 o'clock to-day at our office.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

There was very little change in the condition of the real estate market this week. A fair amount of actual business was transacted, and the inquiries were good. The indoor sales were well attended, and there was a fair amount of bidding for the different lots submitted, but in a number of instances the amount offered was below the reserve, and the property had to be passed in for private treaty. The sale by Messrs. Raine and Horne on Thursday was largely attended, and Mr. Rabett had excellent results. He sold seven properties out of eight offered, and there was a likelihood of another being disposed of. In the estate of the late Mr. G. A. Moulder, Mr. Rabett offered at the instance of the Public Trustee six different properties at Erskineville. They were all small blocks of land, but they were snapped up quickly. For land in Prospect-street, Erskineville, he got £4 10s per foot. There was considerable bidding for an allotment in Wentworth-street, Manly, which was sold for £24 per foot. Another block in Osborne-street, Manly, was passed in at £8 per foot. A residential site at the corner of Cowper and Church streets, Randwick, was also passed in at £6 per foot; while £2 10s per foot was refused for a block at Taren Point, opposite Sans Souci.

In the absence of Mr. A. Gregg on holidays, the rostrum at the weekly sale of Messrs. Richardson and Wrench yesterday was occupied by Mr. James Gregg, who had a fairly attractive list of properties to deal with. He had also a good attendance of buyers, and there was a fair amount of bidding, which led to the sale of two properties. A house in Cooper-street, Surry Hills, brought £425. A cottage at Lawson, on the Mountains, known as Keira, was knocked down, subject to owner's approval, at £400. For the cottage Roslyn at Blackheath £500 was offered, but this was below the reserve. There was a fair amount of bidding for a cottage in Sandridge-street, Bondi, which was passed in at £800. A block of land in Oxford-street, Paddington, adjoining the post-office, on which is erected a shop of no great value, but for the site, with a frontage of 20 feet, £1000 was offered, which works out at £50 per foot. The offer, however, was declined, and the property was passed in for private treaty. Mr. Gregg also refused an offer of £300 for a small cottage property, No. 8 Upper-street, Glebe.

Messrs. Stanton and Son included in their sales for the week a cottage property at North Sydney, three cottages on 45 feet of land in Burlington-street, for £700. A cottage and land, Springfield Park Estate, Punchbowl, for £565. At Haberfield a brick cottage residence was disposed of for £1225, and an allotment in Wharf-road, Concord, was sold for £120.

Messrs. Henry F. Halloran and Co. report that the demand for good residential sites continues, having been particularly active at Lithgow, which town is showing increased progress in all directions; and at Brightwaters, Lake Macquarie, 16 lots of the Waterside Estate having been disposed of during the week. Other sales by the firm include a farm in the Warriewood Estate, at Mona Vale, Pittwater; five lots of Cronulla Highlands Estate, near Cronulla; five lots of the Seaforth Estate, Middle Harbour; a farm of 4 acres in the Ferodale Estate, Hunter River; one lot of Pittwater; five lots of Cronulla Estate, near Cronulla; five lots of the Seaforth Estate, Middle Harbour; a farm of 40 acres in the Ferodale Estate, Hunter River; one lot of Stanwell Park at £3 10s per foot; two lots of Brightlands Park Estate at Blackheath; one lot of Yow Yow Estate at Woy Woy; and one lot of the Morisset Township Estate at Morisset.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman included in their sales for the week a building site in Castlefield-street, Bondi, at £8 per foot, and a block of land at Cabramatta at £30 per acre.

Mr. C. Monro this week sold Simpson's Hotel and 50 acres of land at Cronulla for £4100. In the same district Mr. Monro disposed of a cottage and 4 acres of land on Gannon's-road for £925; also a cottage and 8 acres on Kiora-road, £1075; a block of 8 acres on Malvern-road, Miranda, £800; and 16 allotments of the Yathong Heights Estate for £927.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co.'s report reveals a steady increase, and a brightening outlook. Homeseekers continue to maintain an eager desire to secure home sites on easy terms. Home sites and residential lots at Mortlake, Hurstville, Five Dock, Punchbowl, Bankstown, Auburn, Ashfield, Strathfield, and Haberfield were the chief sales, while Kensington, Turramurra, Lindfield, and Killara estates commanded some attention. The approach of the Easter holidays brought numerous inquiries for waterside and mountain holiday homes and camping blocks at Mona Vale, Como, Narrabeen, Pittwater, Woy Woy, Cronulla, and Port Hacking. Farming estates were also well in demand.

The principal sale this week among the farms was that by Mr. W. F. Kay, who disposed of "The Glen" poultry farm, of 18 acres, on the Showground-road, Castle Hill, for £2790. The same firm also found a buyer for a cottage at Drummoyne for £840, and a mixed farm at Bringelly for £690.

SUBDIVISION WORK.

There is no doubt that subdivision work continues to be an important feature of the real estate business of Sydney, and the demand for a suburban block is as great as ever, providing the terms are easy, and the land is in a good position, in a suburb handy to town, and the district is a growing one. There was an instance of this last week, when the subdivision sales realised a total of about £13,000. One sale was at Eastwood. It was a subdivision, forming the pick of the district, and contained the old home of the Terry family, which, with 190ft frontage of land, brought £950.

Messrs. Raine and Horne submitted the Wallaroy-crescent Estate, at Edgecliff, and sold over £4000 worth of the land.

EASTER SALES.

The approaching Easter sales are not so numerous as in former years, but a number have been arranged for. Next Saturday Mr. C. Monro will offer a number of properties at Cronulla and Miranda. The list is rather an attractive one. On Easter Monday this firm will submit the Attunga estate, at Yowie Bay, Port Hacking. These are choice water frontages and week-end lots, within easy walking distance from the tram. Yowie Bay is noted as the best arm of the Port Hacking River. A large brick bungalow stands on one allotment.

On Easter Monday Messrs. Raine and Horne will conduct an auction at the entrance to that beautiful sheet of water known as Tuggerah Lakes. The land occupies an elevated position. It is within three-quarters of a mile from the ocean, and eight miles from Wyong railway station by launch. This is a splendid holiday and week-end resort. It is also a convenient and safe surfing centre. Already a number of the allotments in the estate have been taken up, and there is likely to be a successful sale on Easter Monday.

The Brooker Bay estate, at Woy Woy, is again to come under the hammer on Easter Monday. Mr. John Cameron will hold an extension sale. The land can be approached by road or ferry.

There were but three or four estates submitted to auction sales this season without reserve. Bruntnell and Bannermann, Ltd., have submitted two; both of these are at Carlingford. The plans are now ready, and all preparations made for their Murray estate, at Carlingford, for next Saturday. This estate is the eye of the district. The Government trig. station is on the estate, proving it the highest point—500ft above sea level. The land was lately owned by his Honor Judge Murray. It is opposite the post-office, and extends from the station along the main roads to the centre of the town, each lot having a main-road frontage. On the same afternoon the firm will offer the Orange Grove estate, 800 yards from the Carlingford railway station. The land has been subdivided into blocks from ½ to 4 acres each. All these sections have excellent, full-bearing, healthy fruit trees. The soil is excellent.

TO-DAY'S SALES.

There are two sales this afternoon which have attracted a good deal of attention this week, and buyers will in these two auctions have a choice between a mountain and a seaside residential allotment. St. Patrick's College Estate, at Manly, will be submitted as leaseholds of 99 years duration. This is without doubt some of the finest land in this popular marine suburb. There are over 30 acres, subdivided into upwards of 100 allotments, to come under the hammer. The public will be asked at the sale to fix the annual rental they are willing to pay for the whole term of 99 years, and the deposit will be the first half-year's rental; but it has been decided that the term of the lease will not commence for six months until the land is accessible by road, the trustees having made arrangements with the Manly Council to complete the making of the roads within that period. Messrs. Stanton and Son are the auctioneers, and, judging by the number of booklets and information supplied to the public, hundreds of whom have visited the site this week, the attendance to-day ought to be a gratifying one to the auctioneer.

The Mountain sale is at Wentworth Falls. The land is without doubt the pick of the district, handy to the railway station and the falls. It is the property of Mr. Pitt, and has been locked up for a number of years; but the owner has at last determined to cut up the estate, and the public has the opportunity now of selecting a choice allotment in a mountain district that is making splendid progress. Wentworth Falls is destined by its natural facilities, and its even temperature, to become a leading suburb on the Mountains. Indeed, there are already signs of substantial progress. A very fine school of arts is nearing completion, an extensive and well laid-out golf links has been brought into existence, and last week a contract was let to erect at the links a residential golf house, at a cost of several thousand pounds. Quite a number of residences have of late been erected in the district, and land which a year or two ago could have been purchased for a few shillings a foot is now sold at two and three pounds per foot, and there is every likelihood of a continued rise in prices as the district advances. Messrs. J. T. Wall and Co., in conjunction with Mr. Crammond, are the auctioneers.

But these two estates are not the only ones to come under the hammer to-day. Messrs. Watkin and Watkin will offer the Mount View Estate, at Undercliffe. This is a property with good prospects. The land is situated on the crown of the hill, overlooking the city and suburbs, within half an hour's run of the Central Railway Station, and within 12 minutes from the tram line. There are 46 good building sites to come under the hammer. These have an easterly aspect, and they are surrounded by a good class of homes.

There is to be a clearance sale this afternoon by Messrs. Hardie and Gorman of the Ponape Park Estate at South Kensington. The land adjoins the Public school and Ponape Park. There are seven building sites to offer.

This afternoon Messrs. Horning and Co. will offer the Linton Park estate, at Ryde. This land has been locked up for many years, but is now subdivided into 103 choice business and residential sites of liberal areas. The land is park-like in appearance, beautifully grassed, and studded here and there with large eucalyptus trees. The soil is rich for garden purposes. The estate is but four minutes from the railway station.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. will this afternoon conduct a sale at Burwood, and another at Enfield. At Burwood there are six blocks of land to offer. These are good building sites, centrally situated. At Enfield there are also six choice building sites fronting Portland-street, with an easterly aspect, and two minutes from the tram.

FOOTBALL IN EGYPT.

NEAR THE PYRAMIDS.

Mr. W. W. Hill, secretary of the New South Wales Rugby Union, has received the following letter from his brother, Mr. George Hill, who is a member of the Australian Contingent at present in Egypt:—

"Football is occasionally played here—that is, when the different units can get together a full and representative side. They play two brands here, and I think the association has the greater grip owing, no doubt, to the presence of Territorials. The natives also play it very well. However, the Rugby game is flourishing, and each unit possesses names that are well known in the mother State. The New South Wales Brigade and its attached units have been playing inter-brigade and inter-unit games. From these the A.M.C. has emerged victorious, with an unbeaten record. The games are played on beautiful flat grassed land at the foot of the famous Cheops Pyramid, and our mutual friend, Tom Richards, has added a further country to the already long list in which he has played the game which is so world-wide. Playing the game he loves more than anything else under the shadow of the Pyramid, the forty centuries monument appealed to his poetic fancies. Our side consists of Richards, myself, Greenwood (North Sydney), Dunn (Picton), Neve (Newcastle), J. Pidcock and Sparke (Newcastle), F. Schwarz (Manly), Haunstein (Balmain Rowing Club), Boardman (South Sydney), Armfield (Goulburn), Richardson (Burrowa), Hankin (unattached), Flowers (South Sydney Harriers), Harrison (Old Eastern Suburbs). We are now on our mettle, and have received many challenges. From the New Zealand Contingent, sporting many representative players, we have heard nothing owing to their having been sent to the Suez Canal, but before they went there was talk of a game between New South Wales and New Zealand under Rugby Union rules. We are also well equipped with the necessary to indulge in an occasional swim. We are forbidden to swim in the Nile or any pool which has not been passed by our doctors. The presence of a minute worm in the water is the deterrent factor. However, at Mena House, a wonderfully fine hotel, which has been resumed by the military authorities for an hospital, there is a fine marble-lined freshwater basin baths, 20 yards long by 10 yards wide, with a depth of 7ft at one end and 3ft at the other. It is open air, with three showers, but no dressing boxes, and the water is changed three times a day. Each unit has its bathing day, and this naturally prevents any swimming carnival or display. While on duty in the hospital here I saw a great deal of the inside of the bath, and could say that the A.M.C. could easily lead at swimming as well as football."

PORTRAIT OF MR. CARMICHAEL.

Mr. J. S. Watkins has just completed a life-size portrait of Mr. Campbell Carmichael, which will pleasantly keep green the memory of his connection with the Education Department as Minister. The artist has not adopted a formal scheme of composition, such as might suggest a pedagogue, however, but has shown the former Minister as if in the act of resting after a morning stroll, seated easily, with his right hand resting upon a cane against the green foliage of a park or garden. The expression of the face, with its careful modelling and effective treatment of light, is thoughtful, but there is a suggestion of latent energy and animation in the blue eyes and nervous features that gives life to the conception. Indeed, the work will be generally regarded as a vivid likeness of the Minister who did much to advance the cultivation of music and painting.

RETURNED CADETS.

Captain Rushall and 25 Australian cadets left Australia about a year ago on a tour of Europe. They returned to Australia by the Orontes. Captain Rushall and the majority of the lads left the vessel at Melbourne. Three cadets were on board the Orontes yesterday when the vessel arrived in Sydney. They were Cadets R. Sparkes (Queensland), C. Ireland (Drummoyne), and J. K. Miller, of Sydney, the last-named being a son of the governor of the Commonwealth Bank.

Don't spend your Easter holidays; save them with a Kodak!

You say how you plan to "spend" your holiday this year—and, when you come to think of it, "spend" is just the very word to use about a holiday without a Kodak.

Too many of your holidays are "spent" in this wasteful way; everything connected with them is over and done with as soon as you reach home. Too much of your money is "spent" on such fleeting holidays; they are not really worth what they cost.

Don't "spend" your holidays this year; SAVE them with a Kodak! Bring all your holiday happiness home with you in the form of jolly little Kodak snapshots. Kodak holidays are never "spent," but—a holiday without a Kodak is a holiday wasted.

Don't waste your holidays this year—take a Kodak!

Remember, you can learn to use a Kodak in half an hour. There are Kodaks at all prices, from 30/- to £15/2/- Here are Two:—

Mr. Church, a pastoralist, of the Hammersley Ranges district, North-west Australia, and Mrs. Church, are at present on a visit to Sydney. In her own home Mrs. Church is the only white woman within a radius of 60 miles. The nearest seaport is Roeburne, nearly 200 miles away, and five days' steaming from Perth. The life in that tropical region, where the thermometer has not fallen below 104 deg. in the shade since last August, is not at all distasteful, but has a fascination of its own. The country is rock, but well grassed in good seasons, and it carries plenty of sheep. After two rainless seasons the drought had broken just before Mr. and Mrs. Church left. From all the adjacent stations young men had gone to the war. The response in that distant part of the Empire had been most gratifying. One whole company of Light Horse was raised from the district, and the men were considered the flower of the State. To meet Mrs. Church, who was a Miss Single, of Sydney, Dr. Mary Booth gave a small afternoon tea party at Farmer's Roof Garden on Thursday.

The Town Planning Association of New South Wales entertained the Victorian Housing Royal Commission at luncheon at Farmer's on Wednesday. Several of the women's committee attended the luncheon, amongst whom were Mrs. J. Sulman, Lady Lyne, Mrs. E. H. Buchanan, Mrs. L. Fenton, Mrs. C. Taylor, Mrs. A. Lind (Brisbane), Mrs. G. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. H. O'Dea and P. O'Dea, Mrs. Goodheim, Miss Theo Cowan, Miss Bell, Miss Aurousseau, Mrs. Fairfax, Mrs. C. Schultz, Miss Doris Schultz, Misses A. and J. Parsons, Mrs. Roper, Mrs. Moffatt, Mrs. D. J. Williams, Mrs. Phil. Oakley, Mrs. Dunsmore Smith, Mrs. F. Vale, Mrs. D. Blashki, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Gilderthorpe, Mrs. Durrell, Mrs. Meade Conway, Mrs. Allard, Mrs. Milner, Mrs. Tom Marshall, and Mrs. Rutter.

Mrs. G. H. Greene and her daughter, of Iandra Station, and Mrs. and Miss Falk, have booked passages for England by the Nestor, sailing next Saturday.

The Ashfield Methodist Church was the scene of a wedding on March 6, when Arthur E. Berriman, manager of the Government Savings Bank, Moss Vale, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Berriman, of Marrickville, was married to Gladys Esther, seventh daughter of Mrs. Watkin and the late Mr. J. W. Watkin, of Wellesley, Albert-parade, Ashfield. The Rev. R. East, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. J. C. Hill, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her eldest brother, Mr. N. R. Watkin, wore a charming frock of ivory crepe de Chine, draped with fine Limerick lace, the corsage being entirely composed of lace, and finished with tiny satin hand-made roses, orange blossoms, and seed pearls. The pointed train came from under a tunic of Limerick lace, and was finished with a true lovers' knot of seed pearls and orange blossoms; her embroidered veil was arranged cap fashion over a wreath of orange blossoms; the bridegroom's gifts being a jewelled bangle and a bouquet. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Watkin, and Miss Ettie Allibone, who wore dainty frocks of shell-pink crepe de Chine, the long tunics being arranged over pleated underskirts, deep swathed belts, and vests of cream lace, with hats of pink crepe de Chine and butterfly bows of tulle, and lined to the face with black panne velvet; their bouquets of pale pink and mauve asters, and aquamarine and pearl pendant, and gold bangle, respectively, were the bridegroom's gifts. Three little girls—Misses Vina and Ruby Watkin, and Doreen Armstrong, nieces of the bride—wore frocks of radium voile, inlet with insertion, over pink satin, and mob caps of pink ribbon and Malines lace. Their long silver shepherd's crooks and nosegays of pink blooms and gold brooches were the bridegroom's gifts. Mr. Fred. Briggs was bestman, and Mr. Carl East groomsman. The church was decorated, the chief feature being a floral arch and wedding-bell. The Wedding March was played by Miss Pincombe. The reception was afterwards held at Wellesley, the residence of the bride's mother. Later, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Berriman left for the South Coast, where the honeymoon is being spent. The bride travelled in a coat and skirt of nattier blue crepe de Chine, with feather boa and black velvet hat. A silver rose-bowl was presented by the members of the Ashfield Methodist Church choir to the bride.

On Wednesday a wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson, Colches, Casino, by the Rev. J. B. V. Steel, B.A., between Alan Cecil Adams, of Tabulam, stepson of Dr. F. M. Blackwood, of Monaro, Turramurra, and Fanny Elizabeth (Fay), eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson. The wedding was quiet, owing to the fact that the bridegroom is leaving almost immediately for the front with the A.M.C. The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in an ivory crepe-de-Chine with touches of pale pink. She carried a bouquet, and wore the customary wreath and veil. Miss E. Robinson was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pin-spot muslin, trimmed with pink roses and ferns, and as the gift of the bridegroom, a pearl pendant and chain. Mr. L. James was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for Lismore en route for Brisbane, and thence to Sydney by boat. The bride travelled in a navy coat and skirt, with hat to match. Mrs. Adams was for some time a nurse at the Casino District Hospital.

A wedding took place on January 6 at the Congregational Church, North Sydney, between William James Stanley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilbert, of North Sydney, and Edith Lilly Frances, youngest daughter of Mrs. S. Hills, of Mount-street, North Sydney. The church was decorated. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. V. Dowling, M.A. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. S. Hills, was attired in a gown of white crepe-de-Chine, with an embroidered tulle veil over a coronet of orange blossom (gift of Mrs. Carloff, of Lithgow). She carried a bouquet of lilies, white carnations, white bouvardias, and bridal roses, which, with a pearl and aquamarine drop pendant, were gifts of the bridegroom. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss V. Hills, who was gowned in a dress of white marquisette, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas and carnations, and wore a gold bangle, both of which were the bridegroom's presents. Two little cousins of the bridegroom (Miss M. Inglis and Miss M. Stephenson) wore white embroidered sheer muslin dresses with blue and pink satin sashes, wearing mob caps and carrying shepherdess crooks, with blue and pink streamers. Both wore gold bangles, given to them by the bridegroom. Mr. R. Gilbert (brother of the bridegroom) acted as best man, and Mr. H. Jorgenson as groomsman. The "Wedding March" was played by Mr. A. J. Walker, at the organ. A reception was held in the church hall, about 50 guests being present. The young couple left for Bundanoon, where the honeymoon was spent. The bride's travelling dress was a nattier blue santoi voile, with a black hat and white ostrich feather.

A marriage tok place on Saturday, 20th, at St. Matthew's, Manly, between William, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Gilford, of Lincolnshire, England, and Queenscliff, Manly, and Nellie, only child of the late Mr. William Robinson, and Mrs. Robinson, of Yarrawonga, Stuart-avenue, Manly. The Rev. R. A. Harris officiated. The bride was given away by her mother, and wore a white paillette silk made in tunic style, with an overdress of silk shadow lace. The court train, which fell from the shoulders, was caught at the waist by a spray of orange blossom and a long spray of lilies of the valley. A tulle veil was worn over a coronet of orange blossom; a bouquet of lilies and ferns, and aquamarine and pearl necklace were gifts from the bridegroom. Miss Julie Solomon and Miss Winnie Winter were bridesmaids. Miss Solomon wore a white silk with a pale pink sash; a pearl Juliet cap with pink roses. A bouquet of pink asters and ferns and olivine necklet were the gifts of the bridegroom. Miss Winnie Winter wore a hailstone muslin, with a pale pink sash, a pearl cap, with pink roses, a bouquet of pink asters and ferns, and gold brooch, were the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Forbes Gilford (brother) was best man. Yarrawonga was decorated for the reception with Chinese lanterns, lilies, and asters. Mrs. Robinson wore white eponge with black hair-stripe guipure coatee piped with black; a black hat, trimmed with wheat ears, and she carried a mauve bouquet.

On February 16, at St. James's Church, King-street, a wedding was celebrated between Phyllis Mary, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Duesbury, Cremorne, and Robert Venour, youngest son of Mr and Mrs. R. G. Dulhunty, Dubbo. The Ven. Archdeacon Oakes, of Kelso, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. F. Wentworth-Shields. The church was decorated, and the service was choral. The bride wore white duchesse satin, made with court train, and trimmed with Honiton lace, pearls, and tulle. She also wore a coronet of orange blossom, and a tulle veil, and carried a bouquet. The bridesmaids were Miss Hazel Holroyde and Miss Lorna Graham, who wore flounced dresses of Paris lace over satin, with broad swathed belt of nattier blue, and black picture hats with a single pink rose. They also carried bouquets of pale pink asters. Mr. G. F. B. Fitzhardinge was best man, and Mr. Leslie Duesbury groomsman. A reception was afterwards held at Baumann's Cafe. Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Dulhunty left for New Zealand by the Maheno, the bride travelling in an Assam silk coat and skirt and a white hat.

All Souls' Church, Leichhardt, on February 10, was the scene of a wedding, when the Rev. Frank Cash, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cash, of New Zealand, was married to Violet Elizabeth, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Short, of Euroka, Croydon-street, Petersham. The church was decorated with Dutch panelling, arranged with white blooms and palm foliage and ferns, and the pews were tied with white ribbon. The Rev. H. S. Begbie, assisted by the Rev. H. G. Howe, performed the ceremony, and the Rev. H. J. Noble presided at the organ. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin; the corsage and tunic were of shadow lace and pearl trimmings, while the court train was lined with frills of lace, having the corners adorned with true lovers' knot and a spray of orange blossoms. Her swathed sash was finished with pearl tassels. She also wore her mother's veil over a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of eucharis lilies and asters. The bridesmaids were Miss Elsie E. Short (sister), Miss Steel, Miss Mackey, and Miss Lougher, wearing white embroidered voile dresses, trimmed with delicate shades of blue and pink respectively. Their white Tagal hats were trimmed with pale shades of blue and pink hydrangea, tulle, and velvet. Each carried a bouquet of heather. Mr. Innis was best man, and the groomsmen were Mr. Cecil Short, Mr Arthur Short, and Mr. Hull. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Short afterwards entertained about 80 guests at the Empire Hall, Petersham. The bride's going-away gown was of nattier blue silk crepe, worn with a white Tagal hat, trimmed with an ostrich plume and tulle.

Dr. Archibald W. G. Murray, who will shortly proceed to England with the A.M.C., with the rank of lieutenant, is the son of Mr. Chas. Murray, of Manly, the elder brother of Sir Archibald Murray, Sir John French's Chief-of-Staff. Dr. A. W. G. Murray has just completed his medical course at Sydney University.

Esther Rawson Harris, only daughter of Mr. Herbert Harris, metropolitan Crown Prosecutor, was married on February 4, at Hornchurch parish church, Essex, to Evelyn Vernon Hine, 23rd Battalion Royal Fusiliers, second son of Mr. Neville J. Hine, J.P., of Newnham Hall, Baldock.

Under the patronage of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, and the Mayor and Mayoress of North Sydney, the committee of the Kirribilli Helpers' Club gave a "Matinee musicale" to aid the Belgian Fund, in St. James's Hall, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Clarence Linden was the convener, and the committee consisted of Mesdames Bruce Robb, Baumberg, Levestam, Ashton, F. Thompson, M. Morrison, Retallack, G. A. Several of the ladies sold sweets, flowers, and flags. The "Helpers" are organising other entertainments in aid of the war funds.

The French Australian League of Help held an exhibition of work at Macdonell House, Pitt-street, on Wednesday afternoon, when a fine collection of garments was on view, including a large parcel from the Goulburn branch. The room was visited by a large number of persons interested in the work of the league, a particularly cheering feature of which is the response given by elderly persons of small means, who gladly contribute several "loaves"—a "loaf" means 4d.

In the Manchester Unity Hall the Jewish children's fete was successfully conducted on Wednesday and Thursday. The Consul-General for Belgium and Madame Wattecuw opened the fair. The president, Miss Gwen. Loewenthal, and the vice-president, Miss A. Goldsmide, are both in their early teens. Very good business was done by the juvenile stallholders, and the Belgian Fund will materially benefit.

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

The High Court will commence its sittings on Monday at Darlinghurst. The sittings are to extend over six weeks.

SUPREME COURT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

DISPUTE OVER A CONTRACT.

Ward v Jerome.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Pitt, instructed by Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. William Arnott, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Hugh J. Ward, managing director of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., against Armand Jerome to recover the sum of £2500, which had been paid by plaintiff as a deposit on the purchase of a piece of land at the corner of Darlinghurst-road and Victoria-street, near the top of William-street, on which premises known as Stirling House were situated.

The defendant continued his evidence, and, under cross-examination by Mr. Shand, said he did not know that Mr. Deery was then outside the Court; but he believed he had been in attendance at the Court for a couple of days and he had seen him outside. He had frequent communications with Deery from the time the contract was entered into until October, 1913, about this and other matters. He instructed Deery to get the 500 shares in J. C. Williamson, Ltd., and the procuration fee which he was also claiming. He was informed by Deery that he had written a number of letters to Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley, but he did not see them. Deery told him the effect of them, and he took exception to what was said in some of them. That was when the question of agency was first suggested by Mr. Ward and Mr. Arthur Allen. They claimed that he was Ward's agent in the purchase of this property. He did not see the letter in which that claim was made, but Deery told witness he had replied to it, and what he had said in reply. The letter from Deery to Allen, now produced, was not communicated to him, but as far as he remembered the only questions were that of agency and the payment of the procuration fee.

Q.: Was it not a matter of moment to you?—Great moment.

Were you not making £1000 on your contract with the owner of the property and 500 shares in J. C. Williamson, Ltd., as well?—I was getting 500 shares, but I was not getting quite £1000, because I had expenses to pay.

That would be the amount you were to get over and above the contract?—That was the amount agreed to be paid to me for the purchase of the property.

If this was a matter of such moment to you why did you not ask to see the letter Deery had written to Allen?—I did not recognise the importance of the matter then, but I have since.

Will you not admit that the statement that you were agent for Ward in the transaction was of serious moment to you?—I considered it too ridiculous.

Is that the only answer you can give?—That is the only answer. I repudiated it.

Was that when it was mentioned to you by Deery?—It was mentioned to me not only by Deery, but by Mr. Ward and Mr. Allen.

When did Deery tell you?—After he had received the letter from Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley.

Did you tell Deery to deny the agency?—Yes, I told him to repudiate it, and he said he had already replied to Allen's letter. I said to him, "It is all nonsense; and you must write repudiating it." And Deery then said he had already written to that effect.

Witness, continuing, said that he got a letter on October 18, 1913, from plaintiff, stating that certain facts had just come to his knowledge, and that he had handed everything over to his solicitor to communicate with witness as to a settlement. He believed he saw Deery on the evening of the day he received that letter or next morning. He thought he then gave Deery instructions about the letter and to reply to it. In plaintiff's letter he expressed surprise to find that witness's contract with the Stirling House people was for £17,000, while the contract with him (plaintiff) was for £18,000. He also said that in the circumstances witness could not claim the £1000. Witness instructed Deery to reply to that letter. He did not see the letter that Deery wrote in reply, and did not think he saw any of the letters he wrote on the subject.

Did you tell Deery to write this: "Subsequently the vendors agreed to sign, and the fact that the £18,000 had been allocated without reference to Mr. Jerome in a somewhat different manner cannot possibly affect this contract in any way at all?"—No; certainly not.

Where did he get the statement that £18,000 had been allocated without reference to you?—I do not know, but it is an extremely stupid sentence and bad English.

Was the money allocated in some different manner without reference to you?

Witness: What money?

Mr. Shand: The £1000?

Witness: That was not allocated at all.

It is wrong to say that it was allocated?—Yes.

Witness, continuing, said he did not tell Deery that the property had cost him £17,000. He knew that he had to pay certain expenses. Mr. Allen never asked him about his purchase. The contract with Messrs. Richardson and Wrench was not tendered to him till August 12, 1913. He had been negotiating for the purchase of the property from August 1. On August 8 he saw Mr. Ward and Mr. Allen.

At that date had you a confirmation or acceptance of your offer?—What was tantamount to it. It was an acceptance of the offer on Mr. Gregg's recommendation.

When you saw Mr. Ward and Mr. Allen you had not received Gregg's assurance that your offer was actually accepted, subject to your signing the contract?—I had not.

Were you not selling to Mr. Ward a property which you had not got?—Not at all. It was made clear to him that my offer would be accepted.

Did you tell Mr. Ward and Mr. Allen that you had bought the property?—Yes; I think I did.

And that was incorrect?—No; it was technically correct, because the agents told me my terms would be accepted.

Did you ever have an offer of £21,000 for his property from Hardie and Gorman?—Mr. Chambers, of that firm, told me I might get £21,000 from a party, whose name was given.

Witness, continuing, said he had bought the property since in connection with Mark Foy. They contracted to pay £17,200 to the vendors, but there was also £225 costs.

William Arnott, solicitor, stated that he received a power of attorney from defendant on October 29, 1913, before he started for Europe. He did not authorise Deery to allow the question of the 500 shares to stand over or the £1000 which was in dispute. He never told Mr. Allen that he would have to settle with Deery or that he had instructed Deery to settle with him.

Q.: Is it correct that you said to Allen that you would see Deery and instruct him to fix the matter up, as you knew nothing about the matter?—That is only partly correct. I remember having a conversation with Mr. Allen near the door of my office. He was in a cab at the time, and pulled up when he saw me. He asked me whether I knew anything about the Stirling House matter, and I said, "You mean Jerome to Ward?" Mr. Allen said, "Yes;" and I replied that the whole matter was fixed up. Allen replied, "No, it is not; and the mortgagee threatens to withdraw his money." I then said, "Well, you know that Deery is acting as solicitor in the matter;" and Allen said, "You had better see Deery, and shake him up." I promised to do so.

Did you ever authorise Deery to vary the contract entered into on August 12, 1913?—Not in any way whatever, nor did I authorise him to make any admissions.

Witness, in answer to Mr. Shand, said that at the time Mr. Jerome went away, he (witness) did not know that there was a serious hitch in the matter. Deery had told him that Mr. Allen had requested that the £1000 and the 500 shares should remain in abeyance, and he told Deery on no account to agree to it. He did not receive a telegram from Mr. Jerome, and he had never before seen the telegram now produced, and was not told about it. It might have been among the papers which Deery handed over to him, but he had not seen it before.

This closed defendant's case, and plaintiff was called in reply, and, among other things, said it was not true that he agreed to pay £1000, as well as the 500 shares. Neither defendant nor Deery at any time showed him the contract which had been entered into between defendant and the owner of Sterling House, nor did defendant tell him that his offer, through Messrs. Hardie and Gorman, had been rejected, and that negotiations must be considered at an end.

Arthur Allen, recalled, said that defendant never complained that Ward had signed the contract on behalf of a company, which was to be formed. He made no complaint of any kind of any omissions in the contract.

The evidence on both sides closed, but the case is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

INJURED BY A CRANE.

Prattis v Bexley Council.

Mr. Kelynack and Mr. Monahan, instructed by Messrs. Harold T. Morgan and Morgan, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Wade, K.C., and Mr Mann, instructed by Messrs. J. A. I. Perry, Dent, and Co., for the defendant. This was an action brought by William Prattis, a boy, 13 years of age (by his father, James Prattis, stonemason, of Bexley), against the council of the Municipality of Bexley to recover compensation for injuries sustained by the plaintiff owing to the alleged negligence of the defendant in care, control, and management of a crane. Damages were laid at £2000. Plaintiff's case has already been stated. Defendant pleaded not guilty, and brought evidence to show that every precaution had been taken to safeguard the crane when not in use, and prevent it from being tampered with.

The case was concluded as far as the evidence, counsel's addresses and the summing up were concerned, and the jury will consider their verdict on Monday.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four.)

FATAL TRAM ACCIDENT.

CONSENT VERDICT FOR £500.

Mr. J. B. Frawley appeared for the plaintiff, Alice Mary Wilson, in an action brought against the Chief Commissioner for Railways and Tramways, claiming £2000 compensation for the loss of her husband in a fatal tram accident. Mr. H. M. Stephen, instructed by Mr. J. S. Cargill, Solicitor for Railways, appeared for the Chief Commissioner. It was alleged that Patrick Joseph Wilson, the late husband of the plaintiff, was driving a cart on December 18, 1914, when the cart was struck by a tram, and Wilson sustained injuries which resulted in his death. The action was brought on behalf of the widow and three children, Kathleen, Florence, and Allen, aged 5 years, 3 years, and one year and nine months respectively.

It was stated when the case was called on that a consent verdict for £500 had been agreed to. The jury, however, would be asked to apportion the money. The jury decided that £200 should be paid to the plaintiff widow, and that £100 for each of the three children should be deposited with the Public Trustee, to be invested and held until the children became 21 years of age. The income from the investments in the meantime is to be devoted towards the maintenance of the children.

CARCOAR MURDER TRIAL.

Albert Edward Shaw, a man of middle age, pleaded not guilty to the charge of having murdered John Joseph Walsh, at Penuara, near Carcoar, on December 12.

Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for Shaw.

According to the evidence for the Crown, accused, Walsh, Hilmann, and others, constituted a rabbiters' camp on a station property. Following a drinking bout accused shot Walsh and killed him, and injured Hilmann.

Accused, in the course of a statement from the dock, said he had not the slightest intention of taking Walsh's life. He had indulged in a drinking bout. There had been a number of arguments between him and Hilmann about the war; Hilmann was of German descent. He praised the Germans and spoke disparagingly of the British soldiers.

On the day of the fatality he (accused) was asked for money by Hilmann and Walsh, but he said he declined to give money to a German with which to buy beer. They seized him, attempted to throttle him, and when he came to saw his attackers approaching. He fired over their heads to warn them, and hit Walsh in the shoulder by accident.

The jury found accused guilty of manslaughter, and he was remanded for sentence.

WORKMEN'S HOMES.

CITY RESUMPTIONS.

SIR ALLEN TAYLOR'S VIEWS.

The chief witness examined by the Victorian Housing Commission at Parliament House yesterday was Sir Allen Taylor, M.L.C., during whose term as Lord Mayor most of the great city resumption and remodelling schemes were carried out.

Sir Allen Taylor told the commission that he was a strong advocate of Greater Sydney, but Greater Sydney to be successful must grow slowly. He would at first absorb only the municipalities contiguous to the city, and then gradually move out. Meantime, provision would have to be made to meet the people's needs, say, within a fourteen-miles radius of the General Post Office. He was of opinion that the Government should deal with the housing question as a national one. Full power should be given to a board, free of political control and patronage, to build houses, assist and finance clients, and to raise by loans sums up to £2,000,000, subject to Parliamentary sanction. He would have the most competent men he could get on that board, and brains would have to be paid for. The board should have power to acquire land in any suitable district and subdivide on a comprehensive working plan. No residence area should have less than 45ft frontage, with 150ft depth, and all homes should be cottage ones, with as much comfort and sunshine as possible. No housing scheme was practicable within from seven to ten miles of Sydney, as land was too expensive within that radius. Workers should have the right of purchase at a price to be fixed, the best plan being the payment of a deposit and the balance in rent over an extended term. A capital of £1,000,000 would provide about 1900 homes, at an average cost, including land, of, say, £550 each, and all buildings should be erected by tender. When he was associated with the City Council—before he had "got the bullet," so to speak (laughter)—he had set his face against the attempt to solve the housing problem by the erection of flats. He was a keen advocate of private enterprise, but there were some directions in which it was the duty of the Government to give goods—if he might put it that way—at first cost, and housing seemed to him to be one of them. It was a matter in which a Government should not be out for profit. The scheme should, of course, be worked on a sound business basis.

In an answer to Mr. Menzies, M.L.A., Sir Allen said that he favoured the private ownership by each individual of his residence area on the freehold, as against the leasehold, principle. It should be the objective of every man to own his own home.

Continuing, witness said that, with regard to town-planning, there had been too much thunder and too little results. The town-planners, with whose objects he was in full sympathy, had been holding meetings in Sydney for the past ten years; but where were the results? The time for mere talking and theorising had gone by; in these days they had to do things. In any housing scheme it would be a mistake to lose sight of beautification as a general feature. If they had extensive land and costly structures disaster was certain. He was convinced that the class of people who would avail themselves of the scheme could afford only to pay about 15s per week for rent and other incidentals, and on this basis the cost of the house and land must not exceed £600. An important feature was the distance from the city. With a decent city railway service, and certain other improvements at the central station, artisans and others should be carried within a radius of 14 miles for 2s 6d per week, and the run should not take more than 20 minutes. It was no use a homeseeker loading himself for all time with the costly burden of high-priced land. The success of the scheme would depend mainly on the board selecting the locality for building, and providing their own land, which meant that they must purchase broad-acres at, say, an average cost of £100 per acre. Assuming that they did so, and after due provision for the making of roads, footpaths, and other incidental expenses, the cost of a brick house and land should not exceed £600. This meant calculating interest at the rate of 4½ per cent., making a provision of 1 per cent. for redemption, and allowing £7 to cover rates, insurance, and managerial expenses, an expenditure of £40 per annum, equalling 15s 3d per week.

The Chairman (Mr. Solly): That provides for the artisan, but what about the very poorly-paid man or the man in casual work whose earnings come to less, perhaps, than £2.

Sir Allen replied that the chairman had put a difficult problem, for which he had no solution to offer at present. He presumed there was no desire to establish a Canvas Town in Melbourne.

Mr. Menzies, M.L.A.: No, thanks.

Continuing, witness said that no housing scheme could be a success where the land cost more than 30s per foot. He understood that the City Council had a scheme in hand for putting up workmen's dwellings at Chippendale on land worth £40 per foot. If they did, it would be a public scandal. It was no use encouraging people to live in the city. Not more than 3 or 4 per cent. of the people were actually obliged by the nature of their occupations to live in the city. The commission had, he understood, inspected the Athlone-place, Wexford-street, and other resumed areas. Ten years ago they were vastly different from what they were to-day. They were hotbeds of disease then, full of Chinese shops and dens of infamy. He had been closely associated with those resumptions, and had come in for a great deal of criticism, and he had got "fired out" of the council because he had spent so much money—(laughter)—but he had had the pleasure of seeing the success of the resumptions demonstrated. Sometimes he went around the city to see whether any improvements were going on now, but they were very slow. When he had started the resumptions pessimists had said that he would bring the city to bankruptcy. Well, it was not bankrupt yet. The new Athlone-place, with all the old rookeries demolished, was already practically self-supporting, and at the end of about 40 years would entirely revert to the council. The Wexford-street area had been completely transformed, and land in Liverpool-street which 10 years ago, before the improvements were effected, could have been bought for £40 per foot was now worth between £400 and £500 per foot. The cost of the resumptions carried out during his regime, including the cost of the markets, had been three and a half millions, which meant an expenditure of £180,000 per annum for interest and redemption, against which they had an income from the resumptions of £120,000. The difference at present was £60,000, and it was gradually disappearing, and in the process of time would be extinguished, and all the property would fall into the hands of the council and produce an enormous return. Apart from the financial aspect the benefit had been incalculable.

Mr. Menzies, M.L.A.: Is there need for any further resumptions?

"There is a lot of work to be done yet," Sir Allen answered. There were some bad places in Woolloomooloo and Surry Hills that wanted wiping out. The resumptions had involved an enormous amount of detail work, and among the most difficult people to deal with had been the representatives of churches and breweries. (Laughter.) They wanted their pound of flesh every time.

Mr. Sternberg, M.L.C.: I suppose you found plenty ready to throw cold water on your schemes?

Sir Allen Taylor: Yes, plenty of pessimists and croakers. I have no time for them. I think a few of them have been converted now. (Laughter.)

Continuing, witness said that so far Sydney had only been playing with the housing question. What were wanted were more big, confident men. Most of those in control of affairs were too nervous. There were too many small municipalities, and too much parochialism. The day was coming when all these "Little Pedlingtons" would have to go, like the Germans. (Laughter.)

Alderman Arthur M'Elhone said that the City Council's flats on the Chippendale area could not be described as workmen's flats. He urged the necessity for the provision of plenty of playgrounds for children in connection with housing schemes. One day's wage was enough for a working man to pay in rent. He believed in the control of housing by a board. The housing of coalminers on the South Coast was frightful.

Frank Brennan, superintendent of the Labour Bureau, and chairman of the Board of Control of Canvas Town, said he thought the latter scheme would develop into a cheap housing system for men earning low wages. The board intended to improve the residences and arrangements as far as possible. It was intended to propose to the Government, in order to meet the growing demand for cheap residences, that weatherboard or fibro-cement houses of two, three, or four rooms, should be erected.

Evidence was also given by Archdeacon Boyce, and Mr. R. J. Little, of Richardson and Wrench, after which the commission adjourned.

Any novice can strop it without tuition, and rely on getting always a perfect shave with an ever-sharp blade.

BEFORE YOU GET ANOTHER BELT, READ THIS OF
"PIONEER" LEATHER BELTING,
the all Australian Belt,
in its 57th year of first-class usefulness.

TASMANIA,
February 21, 1914.

For upwards of 20 years I have been using Belting for Sawmilling purposes constantly, and for the past 15 or 16 years have used a considerable quantity of your "PIONEER" BELTING LEATHER, COPPER SEWN, WITH CANVAS INSERTION, and can say with the greatest confidence that I find it better for heavy work, and cheaper in the end, than any other brand I have used and I have used many.

(SGD.) W. L. CLENNETT.

Isn't that the Belting you need in YOUR Plant? It's easy to get a trial length—wire, write, or 'phone, and so start for your works AT ONCE. Careful of the address please, i.e.,
J. C. LUDOWICI and SON, LTD.,
"Pioneer Leather Works,"
117 YORK-STREET, SYDNEY,
opp. Q. V. Markets.

BELTING USERS will appreciate the economy which is the result as the following proves by using the Genuine Balata, manufactured by Messrs. Dick, of Glasgow. Not only is economy in belting to be considered, but the absence of loss usually occasioned by stoppage to machinery, etc.
"The Dick's Balata Belt, I showed your representative when last here has been running in these works as a main driving belt for the past 16 years. During the greater part of that time, it has been running night and day on three shifts.
"Originally it was a 7in x 4-ply. I have just taken off one ply and put in driving a box mill. The belt being so well preserved, it was but joined in the usual way."

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) E. N. TAYLOR,

A NEW INVENTION.
One of the most practical and useful of all New Inventions to be seen at the coming Easter Show will be a SELF-LOCKING ALL STEEL FENCE, built with the Rawson Moody Patent Self-locking All-Steel Gate and Straining Posts, Holdfast Standards and Droppers, with No. 8 Galvanised Wire.
This new fence possesses many big advantages over all other present methods of fence constructions, being much stronger and cheaper than wooden fences, yet only 25 per cent. the weight of a wooden post fence of anything near the same strength; and this at a cost of only 12/6 per chain.
It is very simple in design and easy to erect. Two men can erect half a mile per day, and when so erected it will last a lifetime.
It is being used by the N.S.W. Government, leading Pastoralists, Farmers, and men with large and small areas, with much success, and is now recognised by experts and users as the greatest fencing invention on record.
Those intending fencing in their properties should write for a catalogue, or call on the Rawson Moody Manufacturing Coy, 343 Kent-street, where a fully erected fence can be seen, and will be shown with pleasure to all interested callers.

A GOOD PLAN—ALWAYS USE ASBESTOS CEMENT "POILITE" SHEETS AND TILES.
(GENUINE BRITISH MADE.)
"POILITE" SHEETS ARE EASILY ERECTED AS DURABLE AS STONE, AND AS CHEAP AS WEATHERBOARD. THEY WILL NOT SPLIT AFTER BEING NAILED INTO POSITION, AND ARE ALWAYS CUT SQUARE WITH CLEAN EDGES.
"POILITE" TILES MAKE ATTRACTIVE ROOFS. THEY ARE GUARANTEED NOT TO CURL.
"SEYON" PAINT FOR "POILITE" SHEETS GIVES THE BEST RESULTS.

OSCILLATING PORTAL WALL BEDS INSTALLED IN YOUR BUILDING will enhance the value of your investment; and consequently, if made a feature and unit of your building, will give a better rate of interest, and also give you a modern building twenty years hence. We can give you extra bedrooms at a nominal cost with our system, and save you considerably in cost of construction.
Call, with your architect, and see how a full-sized double-steel and malleable iron bed oscillates in 19½ inches. Suitable for old buildings, as well as new, but when contemplating building see that Oscillating Wall Beds are in the original plans—it saves money. 100 OF OUR BEDS INSTALLED in the New Temperance and General Assurance Co.'s Residential Flats, corner Park and Elizabeth streets, Sydney.
FOR VERANDAHS.—Our Beds can be used for in-and-out-door sleeping, and you have the full use of the space in the daytime, and no more untidy verandahs; hygienic and sanitary, and no fluff or dust can accumulate under the bed.
RELIABILITY TEST.—At the Sydney Agricultural Show, 1914, our bed made over 17,000 revolutions, equal to 30 years' life, and the mechanism finished working as smooth and true as a motor wheel.
RESIDENTIAL FLATS.—If you want to modernise your flats, use Oscillating Wall Beds, and you will have no vacant apartments to let, and get better rent.
Free Book.—Write for book of plans for flats and bungalows, post free, and see how to save your client's money, and make his investments profitable by getting the best out your floor space.

WUNDERLICH CEILINGS.
Home-lovers who appreciate perfect harmony in their scheme of room decoration are more and more adopting the Wunderlich as being the most expressive of individual taste.
And these are men, too, who could afford more expensive material if they wanted it. But their choice is governed solely by effect—not price. They choose Wunderlich because it fills their ideals.
The covering capacity of Wunderlich is much greater than either wood or plaster—weight for weight—and in addition the sheets do not call for high skilled labour to erect. The unit method employed is so simple that to go wrong is almost an impossibility. Write for catalog, using the coupon.

BUSH VOICES.

(BY E. S. S.)

It is in the early morning that the best idea is obtained of the vocal wealth of the bush, though many birds, as the parrot tribe, revel with equal zest in the hour before sunset. With these the decline of day is the time of aerial frolic, of joyous intercourse and sportiveness on the grassy sward, and of gay gambols amid leaf and bough; but in the fresh, sweet morning air most of the feathered creatures are active and noisy; it is a time of business and play, of greetings and chatter, of song and mating and nest-building. From the little tomtits to the graceful lyre bird there is about them an air of urgency and importance even in their most frivolous actions, and withal an irrepressible joyance in the glory of the new day. Then they mix their hunting and feeding, their gossip and singing, and love-making, in the happiest manner, and with a sprightliness that attracts and charms.

Nothing lends more to the enjoyment of a ramble through forest and brush than the companionship of wild birds and their cheery notes. In their engaging habits and movements, in their coats of beauty, their chatter and song and flight, they add something to the leaven of life that makes them worth our care and protection, even could we easily dispense with the service they render in the destruction of insect pests.

The magpie is the early bird that makes no mistake about overtaking the dilatory worm. Its voice is about the first to greet the dawn, and it pours out a rich volume of warbling song, as though in gratitude. The crow's clamorous greeting follows it closely. Then the good old kookaburra ruffles his feathers, tilts his tail, and, taking in the situation, laughs uproariously. Soon the butcher birds fill the forest with melody, parrots make merry among the gum blossoms, and cockatoos begin to screech and cackle. You hear the "qwisheuw" of the brush pheasant as it flies up from the deep grass into a low tree; the prattle of chats and wrens, the chattering of the happy family as they hop nimbly from branch to branch. Among the flowering trees a dozen distinctive voices delight the ear—the clarion call and delicious musical notes of the singing honey-eater; the "chirp-chirp, cherry-cherry," in a high-pitched cheerful whistle, of the striped honey-eater; the piercing, lively notes of the brown tree creeper, or the shrill piping cry of its relative, the white-throated tree creeper; the melody of the red-capped robin and the pretty little yellow-breasted shrike tit, mingling with the matutinal paean of the silver eye and the red throat.

The plaintive note of the grass bird amid its beloved tussocks is answered by a sibilant "tiz, tiz, tis" in a neighbouring bush, followed by a flash of olive-green and yellow, as the little tit warbler darts away from the intruder. One easily singles out the harsh guttural notes of the wattle bird, the ringing "clink clank" of the glorious regent honey-eater, the lively "chick-oo-wee" of the favourite little greenie, and the long trill of the banana-bird, or blue eye. From a lofty perch, where it has a wide view, the beautiful dollar bird sends forth a clear ringing call; whilst the blood bird, showing bright flashes of plumage down amid the thick foliage, entrances with an exquisite flow of melodious notes, and the friendly Rosella, displaying its lavish coloration on a stump, or in short undulating flights, emits a feeble twittering whistle by the track in the clear spaces.

As the sun grows warmer the bush is filled with the stridulation of cicadas, the tiny tremolo of grasshoppers, the buzzing of bees, and the general hum of insect life; and everywhere about the forests and scrubs are heard the commingling voices of doves and pigeons, wood swallows, warblers, babblers, the spinebills, finches, the mocking bower birds, and numerous other gaily-dressed little choristers whose twittering and singing breaks merrily from grass and bush. Suddenly the noisy miner, or soldier bird, having discovered a snake, or the approach of a hawk, darts through the trees, uttering its loud warning notes, and the multitudinous voices are instantly stilled. The miner is the alarm bird of the forest, and all living things in the bush give attentive ear when it cries, "Look out!"

Among the noisiest of the marsh haunters are the black duck, gnaroo (maned goose), whistling duck, the redbill, and the spur-winged plover. The lastnamed is the alarm bird of the marshes, its piercing cries being raised in warning on the approach of man. Here, too, is heard the hoarse, throaty cry of the ibis, the trumpet call of the brolga, and the strident note of the landrail, a shy bird which, when surprised in the open, seeks a grassy cover with swift feet. The vibrant croak of the shag is more particularly associated with the clear lagoons and river reaches. So also is the peculiar cry of the musk duck. The pelican, like the jabiru, is generally a moody bird, but he has his moments of frivolity, when he emits a gurgling, chuckling sort of noise. Our largest bird, the emu, is a very quiet member, only occasionally emitting a low drumming sound.

There are many shy birds that are often heard but seldom seen, and men learn to know them only as a blind man knows his friends—by their voices. The bushman 's quick to detect a strange note, and you notice him become suddenly attentive. The listening attitude is characteristic of all animals in the bush, including man, and is probably due to the confused medley of bird voices, conjointly with the droning and humming of insects, and the numerous mysterious sounds and noises peculiar to forests.

The birds and their voices, like familiar flowers, are inseparable from memories of our homeland. When the Australian abroad hears the sweet whistle of an exiled quarrian, or the twittering of a pretty little budgerygar, imprisoned in a foreign cage, he sees at once the wide sunlit plains of the south, and there pass before his mind's eye in dumb review the ghosts of other years; and he realises how much he owes to the birds in his love for his native country. When in their midst, perhaps, he took little notice of them, because they were common, everyday creatures; but far away in a distant land his heart goes out to the alien birds, and their simple notes are the sweetest music to his ears.

THE WOOL TRADE.

NOT QUITE SO BUOYANT.

Although the wool market has not soared quite so high this week as during the previous fortnight, the sales generally were very satisfactory for all but short and faulty descriptions. There was less buoyancy for super merinos, and some hesitancy in starting the bids in the saleroom; but, as soon as the prices approximated to previous rates, competition was keen and high prices the rule for all good to super lines. The limit for the week was raised to 40,000 bales; the actual quantity catalogued amounting to 40,264 bales, and the realisations at auction to 32,760 bales, as compared with 35,082 bales catalogued and 31,508 bales sold at auction last week. These heavier withdrawals were in a measure due to the larger proportion of burry, dusty, and seedy wools catalogued this week, as well as to the weaker tone and irregularity in prices offered. As the Sydney market was the only one in session, and a contingent came from Victoria to operate, the full Australian buying strength was present. One of the causes set down for the slacker demand was the tightening up of the wool export regulations to the United States; one firm remarking: "Further restrictions on shipments to America have had a rather depressing effect on those sorts that were being purchased for the United States, and slightly lower values have been ruling." Fortunately the amended regulations of the Commonwealth Customs regarding wool exports to America did not have any very depressing effect; the market was not quite so buoyant, and previous extreme rates for the better descriptions of the staple were barely maintained. Still, the prices paid generally during the week were far above the average, and reflected a strong demand that promises to result in the balance of the old clip, as well as any new autumn shorn, being disposed of by about the second week in June next.

OFFERINGS AND SALES.

On Monday four catalogues were submitted, aggregating 9945 bales, of which 8932 were realised at auction. This quantity was the day's proportion of a 40,000 bales limit for the week. The wools were drawn from nearly all parts of the State, and included a fair proportion from the northern and southern tablelands, but comprising a good showing from the earlier shearing districts. It was a fair to good selection; mainly of greasy wools, with a small display of scoured. The usual buyers were reinforced by several operators from Victoria. There was a keen demand for good wools, but last week's extreme rates were barely maintained for such descriptions, while short wasty sorts were a shade lower. Greasy merino sold to 15¾d, paid for 14 bales first com e of Strathbogie over New England, from Emmaville, a well-grown, bright, attractive wool, and for 25 bales A w e of C. Marina (Young) well-grown, good quality, in attractive condition. Scoured sold to 24d, for 30 bales ex sup com of W. and A, M'C. over Coomburah, good colour and condition, bulky, and well treated.

Three catalogues were submitted on Tuesday, totalling 9789 bales. Through the weaker demand the proportion of passed-in lots was larger than usual, only 7897 bales being cleared at auction. The wools were drawn from a wide area of the State, with one or two parcels from Queensland. It was a fair to good selection, embracing low quality wools to super, mainly comprising average to faulty. The market ruled very much on a par with the previous day, values for good wools being barely maintained, while faulty sorts were irregular and generally weaker compared to last week. Operations on French account were the feature of the auctions. Greasy sold to 16d for 26 bales AAA w of Dover Wellingrove over New England, a bright, fine, crossbred, well grown, free, and in good condition. Scoured merino to 20½d for 41 bales first com RP over Warren Downs (Walgett).

Three catalogues were submitted on Wednesday, totalling 10,333 bales, and the clearances 7759 bales. It was a moderate offering of greasy wools, but a larger display of scoured than previously this season; including one large attractive clip from Riverina that had never previously been sold in an Australian market. The top lots of this line made a record for the season. There was no material alteration in the market. Greasy merino sold to 16d, paid for 42 bales first w of DF over New England. The scoured referred to was the ALMA, from Hay, 16 bales first com w making 26½d, 59 bales first com e 26d, other lots ranging from 22d to 24¾d, pieces making the record price of 24½d, bellies 19½d, and locks 15½d.

On Thursday the series was brought to a conclusion, when three catalogues, totalling 9996 bales, were offered, and 8283 sold at auction. The market ruled firm for good wools, but medium and inferior were irregular and lower. Greasy sold to 15¾d, and scoured to 23½d. The offerings and sales for the week, and total sales for the season, have been as follow:—

BRADFORD CROSSBRED TOPS HIGHER.

Our cable message of yesterday's date reports the Bradford market quieter; but the quotations fo rtops give no indications of weakness for merinos, while crossbreds are still higher—particularly forties quality. The cable states that merino tops are steady, and that crossbreds are very firm. Prices show ½d rise on common sixties, ½d rise on fine and medium crossbreds, and 1d on coarse. Forties quality tops are combed from the long stapled Leicester and Lincoln wool, and stand to-day at an unprecedented figure. Last week's phenomenal price was 25d, which has now been advanced to 26d per lb. This trend of prices was indicated in Geelong a fortnight ago, when greasy Lincoln wool sold up to 15½d per lb. The course of prices for tops during the past nine weeks has beaten all previous records; the upward movement being as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

As the regular series of auctions in Melbourne and Geelong closed last week, business this week has been confined to Sydney. The next interstate auctions will be held in Brisbane, commencing on April 20; followed by a clearing-up series in Victoria during the last week in April. There has been a considerable diminution in the quantity catalogued and sold in the Victorian markets this season compared to last year through the drought and reduced production on the one hand, and the shipping to London for realisation, through the war, on the other. How the offerings and sales in the principal interstate centres compare with the corresponding period last year may be seen as follows:—

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Considerable leeway continues to be made up in wool receipts by both rail and boat. Through the war and lateness of the selling season, consignments were held in the country long after the date of shearing. Many late arrivals have come from the early districts. The receipts compare as follow:—

BY RAIL.

WOOL SHIPMENTS.

Five vessels have cleared the Sydney Customs with wool for the United Kingdom and the East during the week, aggregating 26,300 bales. The steamers with quantities and total for the season to date compare with the corresponding period last year as follows:—

PARRAMATTA ORCHARD NOTES.

The long-sustained dry spell is showing its effects in the orchards of the hills district, where, in many parts, the citrus trees are showing signs of wilting. This is unfortunate, as the fruit, especially the heavy intermediate crop, is now in that stage when a few good showers would tend to make the difference between prime and mediocre fruit. This is the case in many orchards, especially those south of Dural; thence north a better condition of affairs prevails, for the northern districts have had several good showers of late, and this has kept the trees sufficiently vigorous to sustain and nourish the heavy crops. Nurserymen are also experiencing considerable inconvenience. They are anxious to get on with budding, in order to replenish the nursery stock, which of late years has been at a low ebb. In the dry spots the nurserymen are unable to get wood from their own trees to do this budding, and so have to seek it elsewhere from districts where the sap is running. Some of the nurserymen are even advertising for suitable budding wood. The same thing applies to the summer fruit trees, and rain is badly needed to assist operations.

STOCKOWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

At the monthly meeting of the council of the Stockowners' Association of New South Wales correspondence was laid on the table with reference to the necessity of inoculation for anthrax, and as the matter required further discussion it was held over till the following meeting. A reply was received from the Minister for Lands stating that the objection to the granting of a special lease of an area of 320 acres, comprising travelling stock and camping reserve in the parish of Breadalbane, County of Argyle, land district of Goulburn, could not be entertained. It was announced that it had been decided by the Government to grant a special lease over part of the reserve, excluding a strip fronting the main southern route, for a term of 14 years. The matter of the conveyance of fodder by the Government railways was discussed, and further information is required to be laid before the council at the next meeting.

DISSATISFIED PASTURES BOARD

GLEN INNES.—At a meeting of the pastures protection board a letter was read from the Minister for Lands in regard to objections raised by the board to the granting of a special lease within the travelling stock and camping reserve, stating that, after careful consideration, the Minister had granted the lease. Mr. Wetherspoon said the Minister had granted the lease in face of the board's objections, and he thought the time had come to see whether the land board superseded pastures protection boards. The chairman said that was the way they had been treated all along. It showed what little standing they had. Mr. Wetherspoon: We seem to have no standing at all. I think it is time we entered a strong protest. It was decided to ask the Minister where the board stood.

LAND FOR SETTLEMENT.

BERRIGAN.—Following upon the successful settlement of 50,000 acres of the Tuppal estate, near Finley, some five years ago, it is likely that the Government will acquire a further 40,000 acres. This area was offered by Messrs. F. S. Falkiner and Sons about six months ago, but was not entertained. The Government, however, has asked for the land to be re-offered, which has been done on favourable terms. The greater portion of this area is high-class agricultural land, adjoining the previous subdivision, and is between Finley and Deniliquin. It is also adjacent to the proposed irrigation settlement, the survey of which is now nearing completion.

THE DAIRY BILL.

KEMPSEY.—Mr. H. D. Morton, M.L.A., in performing the opening ceremony of the Macleay Agricultural Show, made reference to the Dairy Bill now before the House, which, with a few amendments, which he foreshadowed, would greatly improve the industry. The position to-day, said Mr. Morton, was purely a fight between butter and margarine. The bill proposed not to allow colouring matter being added to margarine. Therefore it was essential that the bill should become law, thus placing margarine in its natural state.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BERRIGAN.—Mr. V. H. Pillinger, inspector of Urana Pastures Protection Board, has been promoted to Carcoar.

CASINO.—The weather is very dry, and rain is badly needed. In various parts of the district the water supplies are getting low.

CAMDEN.—Since the beginning of the year very little rain has fallen, and in consequence late crops have suffered. Farmers who planted their maize last year reaped good harvests, whilst nearly all maize lately planted failed to produce grain. The grain yield in maize in the Camden police district is roughly estimated at 19,000 bushels. Had seasonable rains occurred this year, the yield would have been considerably more. Burragorang has a heavy yield in maize—the best for years. In the matter of fodder, Camden Park estate, Brownlow Hill estate, and Porter Bros., Corstorephine, were never before so well supplied with fodder as they are this year.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

CROOKWELL.

CROOKWELL.—The Crookwell Agricultural, Pastoral, and Horticultural Society's annual show was opened on Thursday by Mr. A. G. J. James, M.L.A. The attendance was fair, and the entries were good, especially in the sheep classes. In produce, fruit, and vegetables there was a falling off owing to the continued dry weather. The total entries were less than last year through the reduction in the prize-money offered, necessitated by the withdrawal of the Government subsidy. Principal awards:—

AN AUSTRALIAN PROFESSOR

ON THE PREPARATION FOR CHRISTIANITY.

The historical method is recognised as a necessary and fruitful branch of study in every science, and not least in theology. To know the history of an idea is as necessary to its proper understanding as to know the history of a people. But the history of an idea goes back beyond its emergence and recognition in the world of thought. It is never an isolated idea independent of other ideas. So with every great movement which has swept along the course of human life, depositing its gain for the enrichment of all ages. And as every river is, to some extent the sum of its tributaries, so every great movement in history rises from the hinterland and gathers to itself the waters of many streams. Christianity is no exception to this general rule. There is a hinterland, and there are tributary streams. This detracts nothing from its uniqueness or its Divine character. All it does mean is the recognition that Christianity, though a plant of Divine origin, is planted in the soil of human life and thought. It is not the product of the times, but neither is it absolutely independent of the times. On a broad view of history it may be said that the religion and civilisation of the world had reached its high-water mark at least a century before the beginning of the Christian era and the ebb had begun. It could go no further by any power within itself. A new power was needed to stay the degeneration and to lift religion and civilisation up to a higher level. In the familiar, though one-sided, words of Matthew Arnold—

> On that hard pagan world disgust
> And secret loathing fell;
> Deep weariness and sated lust
> Made human life a hell.

There was a wealth of human thought and spiritual longing abroad, but it arrived nowhere. The salt had lost its savour. Into this Graeco-Roman world Christianity came, and the most wonderful thing about it was not the originality of its doctrine but the effectiveness of its power. It was not a new philosophy but a new life. What were the conditions which Christianity had to meet, what advantages or disadvantages helped or hindered it, what were the social conditions, and what the intellectual climate of that age?

These are questions of importance to any accurate understanding of the beginnings of Christianity. Much valuable work has been done in this region of study, where there are not a few pitfalls even for the expert. Anyone who can present to us an accurate, fairly balanced view of the social and religious world of that day, and do it in reasonable compass, is conferring a boon upon all interested in Biblical study; but the doing of it requires a very thorough equipment of historic and philosophic scholarship. All the more do we welcome such service when it is rendered by one whom we can now claim as an Australian scholar. True, Dr. Angus has not been long among us, but his appointment to a theological professorship in St. Andrew's College may be taken as incorporating him into the ecclesiastical life of the Commonwealth, with the rich gain of ripe scholarship which he brings to us. The object of the volume before us is "to survey the ancient world in which Christianity was first planted, reviewing the conditions which would favour or retard the spread of the Gospel, and to present a brief account of the genius and achievements of the three great peoples to whom the Gospel was first preached." It is a big task for a volume of 230 pages, and Dr. Angus is to be congratulated on the skill with which he has handled his material. He has to start somewhere, and there are valid reasons why he should begin his survey with the conquests of Alexander the Great, which broke down old barriers, changed the social life of a great part of the known world, made Greek culture the inheritance of all nations, and the Greek language the common speech of the near East. Keeping within the three centuries B.C., the author presents a vivid picture of the social and moral conditions of the Graeco-Roman world, with a sketch of the religious conditions then existent, and a character sketch of the Jew, the Greek, and the Roman. He has a firm grasp of his material, and a fine faculty of summing up the significance of the various movements which struggled towards a dimly-seen goal.

In describing the moral and social condition of the Graeco-Roman world he has given us two pictures, side by side, the dark and the bright, without attempting to supply a combination of colours in the varied shade of the landscape he is presenting to our view and judgment. The consequence is that we are apt to be left with no very clear idea of what was the moral condition of that ancient world as a whole. We are reminded of Jeremiah's vision of the basket of figs, "the good figs very good and the bad very bad." When we are finished reading the bright side we are left wondering whether Dr. Angus would agree with Renan, that the world in general had never been so happy as during the first two centuries of the Roman Empire. At any rate he has shown us that the traditional picture of the Roman Empire as a world which "made human life a hell" is historically inaccurate. On the dark side we venture to suggest that some allowance must be made for the jaundiced eye with which such men as Pliny and Seneca looked out upon the world of their own day, and that those writers, and even Tacitus, who has some strong things to say, speak of the capital rather than of the population throughout Italy. As Dr. Dill points out, "just and upright Governors were the rule and not the exception," which says much for the class from whom Governors usually came. It may be truly said that Epicurean and Stoic held up an ideal of life which lacked more in power than it did in nobility. One of the Stoic hymns (that by Cleanthes) reminds us of lines in Newman's well-known hymn. The old Stoic was full of the same yearning, but with a note of fatalism.

> Lead me, O Zeus, and Thou, O Destiny,
> Lead Thou me on.
> To Whatsoever task Thou sendest me.
> Lead Thou me on.
> I follow fearless, or if in mistrust
> I lag, and will not follow, follow still I must.

We do not mean to imply that the traditional view of the state of Roman society is wholly mistaken. The evidence supplied by Friedlander is black enough, but there is another side to it, and Dr. Angus has not missed it. He has, however, given us a black sketch and a white sketch, not a "black and white" sketch.

The chapter on the religious condition of that ancient world is particularly good, and brings out the religious intensity which was working in paganism towards a more ethical, spiritual, and personal religion, as contrasted with State-religion ceremonialism. It was the "religion of the spirit" struggling to life, and yet not able to be born. Except in a very limited circle it failed utterly in any regenerative degree. There were flashes of light across the dark sky of paganism, but all through there was a sense of the falsity and worthlessness of life. Dr. Angus has also given us a summary of the various schools of philosophy, which is done with a sure hand and ample knowledge. Altogether this volume is a wonderfully compact statement of the moral and religious world into which Christianity came, with its great and assured message, and its regenerative power. No better single volume statement can be put into the hands of students, and the skill with which it is written makes the book interesting and valuable to the intelligent layman. We congratulate Dr. Angus on a work which ranks with the best in the admirable series to which it belongs.

THE HEALTH OF THE ARMY.

In the speech in which the Under-Secretary for War introduced the army estimates to the House of Commons one of the most interesting passages was that in which he described the efforts of the War Office to preserve the health of the army in France. On this department of the British organisation Mr. Tennant had no need to express himself with the restraint which has been observed by Ministers in both Houses, and especially by his chief in the House of Lords. Speaking at the beginning of February, he was able to describe the methods introduced into the army before the war, and the results achieved after six months of fighting under a great variety of conditions. His report is at once a proof of the change that has taken place in British methods since the South African war, and a tribute to the band of men who in the last eight years have administered this most important branch of the service. When the British force was landed in France with all its equipment complete so soon after the declaration of war competent observers gave thanks for the chance which sent Lord Haldane to the War Office before he became Lord Chancellor. Under his control Great Britain gave up the practice of muddling through which had been elevated to the rank of a national characteristic. Mr. Tennant's speech shows that Lord Haldane's services to the nation went far beyond the provision of men and transport and of munitions of war. It was owing to his initiative and the ability of men whom he brought into the service that the expeditionary forces were provided with adequate sanitary squads, with water-purifying sections, with travelling hygienic and bacteriological laboratories, and with all the precautionary measures suggested by the experience of other nations. Better results might have been gained had the British nation been able to overcome its objection to compulsion. Even by relying on advice and example, the authorities have been able to show an astonishing improvement on the figures of any previous war. Among the British soldiers in France the sick rate for the past six months of marching and trench fighting has been 3 per cent.; among the Indian troops it has been even lower. In the twenty-five expeditions undertaken by Great Britain between 1873 and 1902, beginning with the Ashanti campaign, and ending with the South African war, five times as many men were treated for disease as for wounds. In the Napoleonic wars, and in the Crimean war, the figures were even more striking. The ravages of enteric and dysentery in the South African war cost the British nation the services of more men than would fill 2 modern army corps. Throughout the whole war no less than 59,000 men were disabled. Of the total of 22,000 lost no less than 14,000 were lost by disease, and of these 8000 were carried off by enteric.

It may now be said with confidence that the power of enteric has been definitely checked. Up to the beginning of February there had been 421 cases, with an average death rate of 8 per cent., rather less than the average rate among civilians in time of peace. The improvement is due, no doubt, in a great measure to the care taken by the men, to better sanitation, and to purer water. But the chief credit for these figures, and especially for the low death rate, must be put down to inoculation. Experience—as, for instance, at Quetta—has dissipated the belief that enteric is always caused by bad water. In South Africa, and especially at the Modder River camp, other causes, such as grit and flies, were seen to be more potent agents of disease. Against these enemies inoculation does not offer an absolutely certain remedy. But it does enormously increase the chances of escape of a properly-inoculated man, and practically ensures his recovery. The instance which induced the French Senate to make inoculation compulsory was an outbreak of enteric in the barracks at Avignon in 1912 among a garrison of which 1366 men were inoculated and 687 not. Of the 687, 155 had enteric, and 21 died; among the 1366 there were no cases at all. The lesson then learned is corroborated by the figures given by Mr. Tennant. In the British army there have been 421 cases and 35 deaths; of the cases, 305 had not been inoculated within two years, and of the deaths, only one man had been inoculated at all, and he only once. There seems no answer to the figures except to say that the man who refused inoculation had better not go to the front. He is not fair to himself, and may be a danger to his comrades. Such, at all events, is the interpretation put upon them by the Canadians, of whom 95 per cent. have been inoculated.

Of the other diseases which have attacked soldiers, the most serious have been rheumatism and frostbite. Tetanus was a frequent and often dangerous enemy before General French left the agricultural country of the Aisne, but in Belgium it has not been noticed. In the trenches the men have suffered severely, both mentally and physically. The mental strain has been relieved wherever possible by the system of frequent reliefs which some genius criticised as unmilitary, though it must have preserved the sanity of many an officer and man. For frostbite and rheumatism no perfect safeguard has been devised. A lesson has been gained from the German soldiers, who put straw in their boots, and the soldiers have been instructed by a leaflet issued by the medical authorities. From the fact that far fewer officers than men have been afflicted, it has been seen that much depends on a perfect equipment, on boots and putties, and in attention to detail. The two comforting lessons from the trench fighting are that that army fights best which depends least on alcohol, and that fresh air, even when it is bitterly cold and mixed with water, is better than a stuffy atmosphere. The hospitals and the trenches together have proved that the fresh air treatment is the best either for wounds or for illness. The great surgeons and physicians who have given the nation the benefit of their skill and learning have, indeed, echoed the wisdom of the father of modern surgery when he said of a patient, "I dressed his wounds, God healed him." So far as possible they have let the body heal itself. But before the soldier can reach their hands they have seen that the work of the bullet shall not be aided by a more deadly enemy. Every soldier now carries a small piece of iodine to sterilise the skin, and prevent his wound from being complicated by dirt and all its deadly products. The world again realises what it owed to Pasteur and his great pupil Lister. "Lord Lister won that war," said Sir Frederick Treves of the war between Russia and Japan. Lord Lister and his successors, among whom Australia is so nobly represented in this war, may save the equivalent of many an army by giving the human body time to exercise its great powers of recuperation, and by teaching the soldier to provide himself with the powerful armour of a carbolised body and a clean shirt.

THE SHOW AND ITS LESSON.

The Royal Show, which the Governor-General is to open officially on Wednesday, will, even with the grim eclipse of the war upon us, claim the attention of all who take an interest in the progress and development of our country. It epitomises our everyday life; it speaks to us of the progress we are making not only in our industrial and manufacturing life, but in all those peaceful arts which go to the building up of a nation and help to make it free and independent. In a word, it is the mirror of ourselves. Since the days when Parramatta was the centre of all things in this land, and our first agricultural shows were held, Australia has grown out of all recognition; and looking backward no further than the days when we held our shows in Prince Alfred Park, and contrasting our position then with what it is to-day, we find such changes as are almost unbelievable. It is not the city only that has progressed so rapidly; in the country also the face of nature has been so changed that men whose memory takes them back to the "old times" marvel at it. The things that have been done in the span of one man's life in Australia are astonishing indeed. Sixty years ago, when it took as many months as it now takes weeks for our mails to come from England, Sydney was a very distant outpost of the British Empire. Scarce sixty years have passed since the P. and O. Company began its steamship service with the little steamer Chusan, of 600 tons; and to-day Sydney is the fifth port of the Empire. Rapid steamship communication and the submarine cable have put us in constant touch with all the world. Melbourne furnishes another striking illustration of the rapidity of our growth. Other great seaports and many hundreds of flourishing inland towns bear witness to it. And as distance has shrunk over sea, so on land. Australia is a country of magnificent distances, and there remain some remote parts which have yet to be linked up in the great chain, but year by year our railways have gone out farther and yet farther, into the interior, giving us communication with our hardy settlers out back, and opening up fresh fields for the pioneer. Now we are constructing a great railway across the continent—a railway which in time, as settlement increases, will have many feeders. When we remember that the first sod of our first railway was turned at Redfern on July 3, 1850, we may well congratulate ourselves on the progress we have made. And the story of it all, as we have passed from one year to another, has been told at the Sydney Show. We do not go to the Show merely to see horses jumping and to be entertained in divers other ways—we go to be instructed. Behind the horse we see the picture of a wheat field and a farmer at his plough; behind the cattle we see a thousand dairy farms; behind the sheep we see the greatest of all our assets—our wool. That is what the Royal Show signifies to all thinking men. It is not a city show, but a State show. It is more even than that. It serves to remind us of the progress of the whole Commonwealth; and even from New Zealand come exhibits telling us of the strides of that Dominion.

The Royal Show has its lesson for us—it emphasises the fact that back of the cities and the towns stands the man who is the mainstay of our life. Great industries flourish in our midst, machines are clanging in our city factories, merchants are busy in their shops and offices, a thousand avenues of employment are open to us, because away in the interior of the country a man is growing wheat and raising sheep and cattle. Mammoth steamers come and go, landing our imports and taking away our exports—all because of him. Our prosperity is measured by the prosperity of "the man on the land." Our primary industries are the arteries through which the life-blood flows to us, and we who live in the city do not sufficiently appreciate the difficulties which farmers and graziers have to face. We take up our papers and read of the bush fires and the drought, or it may be of floods, or of trucks that cannot be secured for starving stock, or of fruit that perishes through disease, but it is only those who have toiled on the land themselves who know what these things mean to the farmer. This year's Show will be found to reflect the ravages of the drought which has been experienced in some parts of this State and Victoria; and our sympathy will go out to the farmers of Riverina and those other districts where the rain was so long in coming. It should be our endeavour to lighten the load that our settlers have to carry, not to add to their burdens, as our Governments are in the habit of doing. Too often we spoil with our left hand what our right hand does. We have in the Barren Jack dam and the Yanco irrigation farm, for instance, a splendid example of what scientific methods will do for the farmer—a laudable effort to promote settlement; but, on the other hand, we see a constant piling up of the burdens on the shoulders of our farmers, as if the toilsome nature of their work and the uncertainties of the seasons and markets were not sufficiently trying. It is good to furnish practical illustrations of the application of science to agriculture, but it would be well also to show some practical sympathy with those whose labours are always hard and oftentimes herculean. Sir Rider Haggard, a man who knows what farming is, pleaded in one of the addresses he gave in this State for more imagination in agriculture, which to him is an art as well as a science. We could wish that our farmers would take his words to heart; but we could wish also that our Governments, in their turn, would show more imagination in dealing with those engaged in our primary industries. Mr. Denham showed some of this imagination in his speech in Queensland on Monday, when he said that his aim was to make country life so attractive that "our young men will elect to go to the farm rather than to the bank, to the orchard rather than to the Public Service." We need such a policy in this State. It is certainly not a healthy condition of our national life that over one-third of the population of New South Wales should be found in Sydney. That such a state of things is possible is one of the strongest proofs we could have of the wonderful riches and resources of this country. It is these riches which the Royal Show illustrates, and it should be impossible for any man of understanding, private citizen or Minister of the Crown, to visit the Show without having his imagination touched. Especially should that be the case now, when the success of our soldiers in the field of battle and the feeding and clothing of the British people at large depend so greatly on the oversea Dominions—on the men who are growing the wheat out back and tending their flocks and herds.

SLOW STROKE.

DAY LABOUR CONDEMNED.

"Day labour would mean disaster," unhesitatingly declared Sir Allen Taylor, M.L.C., when asked yesterday by Mr. Solly, chairman of the Victorian Housing Commission, which is now sitting in Sydney, whether, in the event of a national or municipal housing scheme being carried out, he would favour the building of the houses by day labour or by contract.

"The buildings should be erected by tender, under the direct supervision of commissioners," Sir Allen Taylor told the chairman. "You would then get honest value for the money spent. It is not possible to make a success of an enterprise of this kind if you are going to have spoon-feeding. There must be no benevolent institutions."

"The construction of the railways by day labour is the greatest political blunder ever perpetrated in Australia. I have no hesitation in saying that the cost under day labour has been almost double what it should be. Take the North Coast railway. That has cost 75 per cent. more under day labour than it would have in the case under contract. Day labour is the slow stroke."

"IT MAY BE SO."

The Acting Premier's attention was drawn yesterday to the fact that it had been stated by a Government official before the Housing Commission that houses could be built by contract for £450 which cost £570 under day labour. Mr. Cann, who is Minister for Works, was asked whether it was a fact that there was this difference between contract and day labour prices.

"It may be so," replied Mr. Cann, "but it is a matter for the Housing Board. It is not in my new department, but comes under the Treasurer's Department."

OIL FIELDS.

AN UNFAVOURABLE REPORT.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The report of Dr. Arthur Wade on the supposed oil-bearing area of South Australia was issued on Thursday afternoon in the form of a bulletin in connection with the geological survey of South Australia.

In gathering material for the report, which is most exhaustive, Dr. Wade and his assistant, Mr. L. L. Wrathall, spent five months, and covered approximately 10,000 square miles of territory. He personally inspected the majority of the areas for which licences to search for petroleum have been granted by the Government, together with as much of the surrounding country as was necessary to enable the formation of an adequate opinion of the prevailing geological conditions.

The net result of his investigations is summed up in the sentence, "One is bound to conclude that the chances of obtaining a supply of petroleum from the districts under consideration is very slight indeed. The far south-east carries a faint possibility, which is based on surmise and no evidence."

The Minister of Mines (Sir Richard Butler) said he was exceedingly sorry to find that Dr. Wade was unable to write in a more optimistic strain.

PERSONAL.

With the members of the Commonwealth Ministry the Easter holidays are commencing early, as with the exception of the Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Mahon), none of the Ministers with portfolios will after to-day be at his office. The Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher) is in Queensland, the Postmaster-General (Mr. Spence) and the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) are in Sydney, whilst the Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) leaves for Sydney to-day, and the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) left yesterday also for the New South Wales capital. The Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Archibald) went to Adelaide yesterday. Senator Pearce will probably return to Melbourne in a day or two, and Senator Russell (Assistant Minister) and Mr. Jensen (Assistant Minister for Defence) will remain in Melbourne during the holidays.

Mr. Justice Burnside has resigned from his position as president of the Western Australian Arbitration Court.

Mr. Denison Miller, governor of the Commonwealth Bank, was a passenger to Sydney by the Orontes yesterday. Mr. Miller has been to Adelaide and other towns in South Australia. The bank business, he says, is growing in that State, and several new branches have had to be established.

The Rev. C. Stretch, a nephew of the Bishop of Newcastle, was a passenger from London by the Orontes, which arrived yesterday.

Dr. Rowe, superintendent of the Dunwich Benevolent Asylum, which is on Stradbroke Island, off the southern Queensland coast, returned by the Orontes yesterday from a visit to England and the Continent.

Dr. Charles Cormac, formerly of Bowen (Q.), returned by the Orontes yesterday from a visit to Great Britain and Ireland. He is accompanied by his wife and son, and proceeds to Brisbane.

Mr. J. W. O'Halloran has been appointed Principal Registrar of the High Court, at a salary of £800 per annum.

Mr. R. H. Levien, solicitor, who has been a patient in a private hospital at North Sydney for five weeks suffering from acute rheumatism, has recovered sufficiently to attend his office.

Mr. John M'Laughlin was operated on yesterday at St. Vincent's Private Hospital successfully, and favourable progress in his condition is being made.

STATE FINANCES.

MR. CANN SATISFIED.

COMMONWEALTH BANK BUYING STOCK.

The State revenue for the financial year 1914-15, as far as it has gone, shows an improvement of between £400,000 and £500,000, compared with the previous year. Nearly nine months of the year have now expired.

The Acting Premier, Mr. Cann, stated yesterday that the revenue was still below the Treasurer's estimate, which was made before the outbreak of the war, "but," he added, "from the point of view of the governmental side of the revenue as distinct from the State services, the position is not nearly as bad as might have been expected."

Mr. Cann said he had called for a return as to the probable revenue for June next. There were certain returns which would come in during the month, including income tax. "You would have thought," he said, "that the income tax returns would have suffered on account of the war, but according to present advices, the revenue from this source will be quite up to what we expected. Looking forward as far as we can, the estimates will not be far out, because, although the revenue may fall below what we anticipated, there will be a corresponding drop in the expenditure for the whole year. In view of the war all the departments have curtailed expenditure. There was an improvement in revenue for the current month of March, as far as it had gone, of £90,000, compared with the same portion of last March.

Speaking of the loan aspect Mr. Cann said: "We were paying as high as 4½ per cent. before the war, and we are now practically placing all the loan funds we require at about 4½ per cent. So that, taking it all round, the State is not suffering so much on account of war conditions from the governmental revenue point of view as we might have expected. I do not say that private employers and other people are not feeling the pinch of war conditions. Everybody has felt it, I suppose, and there is the effect of the partial drought working with it."

The Acting Premier added that over and above the £7,400,000 that the State had borrowed from the Commonwealth Government, the State was now, with the permission of the Commonwealth, selling debentures and so forth over the counter to the amount of £1,600,000. The Commonwealth Bank was buying this stock. The State was not in need of further assistance beyond placing stock to the amount of £1,600,000. He was aware that some of the other States wanted additional assistance from the Commonwealth, but New South Wales had got all it required.

ANXIOUS DAYS.

MENACE OF ZEPPELINS.

SPIES IN ENGLAND.

Through the courtesy of Miss Gurney, we are able to give the following interesting extracts from a letter, dated Eastbourne, February 5, which she has just received from her niece:—

"It is an extraordinary excitement that we live in from day to day in these coastal counties. All sorts of reports get about; twice, for instance, have we heard that a Zeppelin has been seen high up over Eastbourne. That was since the Zeppelin raid on poor Norfolk, where Cromer was only saved by having the gas and electricity cut off suddenly at the main.

"On Tuesday we saw an immense new poster up, saying every bit of light must be hidden by 5 o'clock that day till 7.30 next morning. We there and then bought up what we could of dark stuff, dashed home in a cab, and nailed up over windows wherever we could. Even so, that night the police rang up to say we must hide our lights more or put them out. Next day we spent £4 on more stuff, and made curtains for dear life, but that night again were we rung up to say cracks were showing at the sides of the blinds. It was the same with everyone, and one prefect at Eastbourne College was taken away to the Redoubt that night. He was in bed, and had stupidly lighted a candle, which in our pitch-dark town shone far and wide; so a picket arrived with fixed bayonets, surrounded the boy while he dressed, and marched him off to the lock-up. The street lamps were not only blackened half-way down as before, but were turned completely out for those three strange days; and to this day we do not know for certain why the darkening was done. Some think a raid for the German Emperor's birthday was planned; others say that spies were caught flashing lights in the darkness.

"There are heaps of spies working for the undoing of our land. Did I tell you of our friend Mrs. Paterson and her husband hearing a car drive by every morning at 4 o'clock, in the dark. They at last followed it, with revolvers, and found it drawn up in Paradise Wood, with only one lady in it, and high up on the hill above the men were signalling with flash-lights. They took the number of the car and reported it to the police, who undertook to watch them. I expect you read of a spy's attempt to wreck the train to Avonmouth, by which so many troops travel. It was discovered in time by a reservist, who had just time to run and put the signal at danger.

"A few days ago we received our printed notice of orders in case of invasion or Zeppelin raids. Nothing interesting—chiefly to stay in our houses in the lowest rooms. No civilian is to fire a shot, but to leave all defence to the military.

"One thing that interested us very much was that during those three nights of complete darkness armoured cars with maxims tore about the country from place to place round the coast. Patrols of soldiers walked the streets continually, and every street—some say every house—was watched. . . . We have over 30,000 of Kitchener's splendid army billeted in the town—so improved in their marching since they began, and such hard-working fellows.

"Grace has 34 wounded English now. The Belgians, whom we all liked so much, have got well and gone. These poor fellows are suffering from terrible feet, caused by standing continually in water in the trenches. Their feet swelled, their boots and puttees became too tight, and their poor feet are now black. One had several toes off a few days ago, and I hear it is agony when the circulation begins to come back. Grace tells us her nurses are one and all going off to the war. One can hardly get nurses for love or money now.

"These are anxious times, and no mistake."

AUSTRALIAN ENTERPRISE.

A LARGE ORDER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

After the meeting of the Federal Cabinet yesterday, the Attorney General (Mr. Hughes), in the absence of Mr. Fisher, stated that it had been decided to adopt the recommendation of the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Archibald) to order 12,500 tons of steel rails from the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, which was the equivalent for the rails required for 100 miles of track.

Subsequently the Minister for Home Affairs stated he had been in constant negotiation with Mr. Henry Noyes, of Noyes Bros., who acted on behalf of the Broken Hill Company. As a result of these negotiations it had been decided to place an order, as Mr. Hughes had stated, for 12,500 tons of rails, the amount of the contract being approximately £110,000. This, the Minister explained, compared favourably with the price which, under the present disturbed conditions, would have to be paid at Middlesborough, where an order was recently placed. Delivery of the Broken Hill order will commence in July. It is understood that the company has also received large orders for rails from the South Australia, Victoria, and New South Wales Governments.

PROGRESS.

IN CARPATHIANS

RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

A SUBMARINE SUNK.

The Russians announce an important success in the Carpathians, where fighting still continues.

Russian troops have again crossed the East Prussian frontier.

It is officially stated that France has 2,500,000 men at the front.

The German submarine U29 is reported to have been sunk.

Bad weather enabled the Turks to effect important repairs to the Dardanelles forts.

FRANCE'S ARMY.

TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS AT THE FRONT.

PARIS, March 25.

The French official review of the war adds that the French Army has been rejuvenated on a large scale by the promotion of young commanders. The average age of general officers has been lowered by ten years. Old generals who were at the head of large commands in August last have been gradually eliminated, some through the physical strain of the war, while others have received appointments to Territorial commands.

Each regiment has now forty-eight officers and non-coms. Every unit is on a war strength. Companies in many regiments number 250.

France, it is stated, has 2,500,000 men at the front, and 1,250,000 in depots ready to repair wastage, apart from 500,000 in the 1915 class.

The army is war-hardened, and its health excellent. The men have learnt to use the spade, and the trenches are now proof against 77 millimetre guns, and often against larger guns.

THE DARDANELLES.

TURKISH FORCES.

THE FORTS REPAIRED.

ATHENS, March 26.

Forty-eight thousand Turks are concentrated on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, and 10,000 troops are near Gallipoli, under German officers.

Bad weather enabled the Turks to effect important repairs to the Dardanelles forts, and replace damaged guns.

A HOUSE DIVIDED.

TURKISH PEACE PARTY.

LONDON, March 26.

Mr. Martin Donohoe, writing from Constanza, says a bitter struggle is going on at Constantinople between the war and peace parties. The latter demands capitulation.

The feud may culminate in revolution. The military league is considering as sworn foes the Committee of Union and Progress, which has been resuscitated, and which aims to destroy the German and Young Turk incubus. Already the army is divided.

Fear of a coup d'etat led the Government to contemplate a separate peace. At a stormy Cabinet meeting the majority decided to negotiate with the Allies' commander-in-chief, and ask the United States Ambassador to ascertain the conditions for the surrender of the Dardanelles and Constantinople.

At the last moment General von Sanders, the German commander, broke into the Cabinet, and furiously expostulated. He threatened with instant arrest the peace majority, and vowed to shoot any member communicating with the Allies. He thus bludgeoned the Government into submission.

U29 SUNK.

WITH ALL HANDS.

LONDON, March 25.

The Admiralty announces there is good reason to believe that the German submarine U29 has been sunk with all hands.

The U29 had been active off the Scillys. It is believed that it was her commander, Captain Weddingen, who sank the Aboukir, Cressy, and Hogue.

The German submarine U29 came into prominence early in the present month, when she sank several merchantmen, among her victims being the British steamers Indian City, Andalusian, Hartdale, Florazan, and the French steamer Auguste Conseil.

TORPEDOED.

DUTCH STEAMER LOST.

LONDON, March 26.

The German submarine U28 sank the Dutch steamer Medea, 1235 tons, south of Beachy Head.

The crew were rescued.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

BOYCOTT MOVEMENT.

PEKING, March 26.

Certain sections among the Chinese in Shantung have adopted a bellicose attitude towards Japan. The President, Yuan Shih Kai, is urging the people to refrain from overt actions.

A boycott against the Japanese is afoot in Shanghai.

THE RUSSIANS.

ANOTHER SUCCESS.

IN THE CARPATHIANS.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE.

BUCHAREST, March 25.

It is semi-officially stated that the Russians have scored a great victory at Staro-Styna, Hungary, between Lupkow and Uszok passes, after a three days' battle against the extreme Austrian right.

The Russians brought up large forces, surprising and driving back the Austrians from Uszok, with enormous losses.

The Russians lost heavily, but are continually bringing up fresh troops.

Fighting continues.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

PETROGRAD, March 26

A communique states: We carried by assault an important and strongly fortified armoured position in the Lupkow Pass.

The Austrians furiously counter-attacked, but our fire and bayonet charges partly annihilated them. The remainder retreated on certain positions.

PRZEMYSL'S PLIGHT.

THE LAST SORTIE.

In the last sortie from Przemysl three Slav regiments were sent ahead, followed by four Hungarian regiments. On meeting the Russian fire, the Slavs turned back, whereupon the Hungarians fired upon them.

The outskirts of Przemysl were converted into a vast cemetery, containing the graves of over 40,000 of those who had been killed or had died during the siege.

The sanitary condition of the town was unspeakable.

REJOICING IN PETROGRAD.

When the news reached Petrograd dense crowds thronged the streets, the Russian National Anthem rising in thunderous cadences. People knelt on the pavements in the snow, offering thanksgiving prayers. The Nevsky Prospect was blocked by thousands of kneeling people.

GARRISON'S PRIVATIONS.

VIENNA, March 25.

Five airmen, who escaped from Przemysl, state that the hospitals were crowded during the last weeks of the siege. Nearly half the garrison were sick, and suffering privations. Two tins of food were distributed at each sortie, but in many cases the exhausted stomachs of the men were unable to digest it, and some died.

Except horseflesh, the only meat remaining was carrier pigeons. A bird was offered to General Kusmanek, but he refused it, and sent the pigeon to the hospital.

The Austrians blew up the forts, batteries, magazines, and bridges. The airmen hovered above, watching the destruction, and then flew off to Cracow.

CRACOW.

CIVILIANS TO LEAVE.

VENICE, March 26.

The authorities have ordered civilians to leave Cracow forthwith.

EAST PRUSSIA.

RUSSIANS CROSS FRONTIER.

PETROGRAD, March 26.

The Russians have crossed the East Prussian frontier, and are now in close touch with the enemy beyond Jurburg (on the Niemen, 10 miles from the frontier).

AIR RAIDS.

THE BRITISH EXPLOIT.

AMSTERDAM, March 25.

Four workmen were killed at the Hoboken works during the British air raid, and 16 were seriously injured. Many others were slightly wounded.

Lieutenant Crossley Meates states that he also dropped bombs, but when returning lost his way in a fog; and was greatly surprised to find that he had landed in Holland, as he believed he was in France.

ATTACK ON HEYST.

The Allies' airmen bombarded the brass works at Heyst. Several Germans were killed and many wounded.

ZEPPELINS.

GUIDED BY CYCLISTS

PARIS, March 25.

Three cyclists were arrested between Dunkirk and Calais, signalling for the guidance of the Zeppelins engaged in the raid on Calais.

The cyclists were seen travelling beneath the Zeppelin waving lanterns.

Evidence is accumulating that most of the Zeppelin and aeroplane raids have been accompanied by similar efforts of German paid cyclists and motorists, who sometimes carry pigeons.

FRENCH SCANDAL.

PAYMASTER SENTENCED.

PARIS, March 26.

Desclaux, M. Caillaux's ex-secretary, and chief army paymaster, who was tried by court-martial for misappropriation of army supplies and provisions for the benefit of a woman, Bechoff, has been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment and military degradation. Bechoff was sentenced to two years.

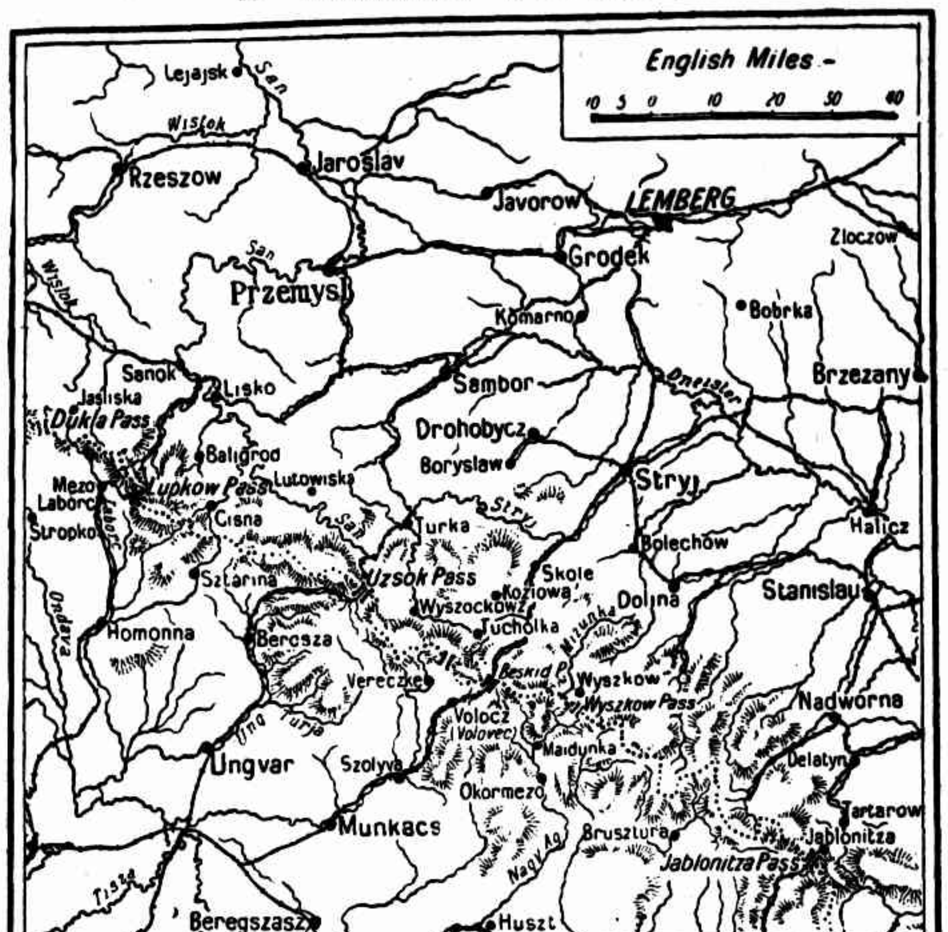

AUSTRALASIAN TROOPS.

EXCELLENT TRAINING.

LONDON, March 26.

The Cairo correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" pays a tribute to the excellent training the Australians have undergone. They are all sound marchers. The New Zealanders, he says, are especially fit, and are a pattern on which all colonial troops could model.

A RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

It is semi-officially announced that the Russians have inflicted a severe defeat on the Austro-German forces on that portion of the Carpathian front between the Lupkow and Uszok Passes. The success was achieved through the Russians bringing up large reinforcements unexpectedly, and it is evident that these troops were drawn from the army that has been besieging Przemysl. They could be rapidly conveyed to the new scene of operations by means of the railways running south from Przemysl.

ENGLAND THE FOE.

GERMAN INTRIGUE.

OFFER TO FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

PARIS, March 26.

Herr von Richthofen, a German diplomatist, conversing with a neutral journalist in January, stated: "It is against England we are fighting. We offered France and Russia peace on the basis of the cession of German Flanders to Germany, the return of ten thousand Alsatian French to France, we keeping Metz. We offered Russia a statu quo ante bellum. Russia and France were wrong to refuse. We must now impose our will by force.

It will be necessary for Germany to attack Servia in order to seize the Sofia-Constantinople railway, and enable Germany to establish communications in Turkey.

Germany, added Herr Richthofen, has promised to give Macedonia to Bulgaria, and thus paralyse Roumania, while Italy will obtain advantages without fighting.

NEUTRAL WATERS.

PROTEST FROM CHILI.

SANTIAGO, March 26.

The Chilian Government has protested to Britain and Germany against the violation of neutrality occurring in Chilian waters.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

LONDON, March 26.

Brevet Major Harold Sutton Williams, of the Dorsetshire Regiment, a New Zealander, has died from wounds.

WAR MUNITIONS.

INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM.

LIMITATION OF PROFITS.

LONDON, March 25.

It is officially stated that representatives of the Treasury and of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers have adopted an agreement securing a limitation of the profits of firms engaged in manufactures for war purposes. Any benefits arising from the relaxation of trade union restrictions are to accrue to the State, and such relaxation is to be confined to the period of the war.

The Government is prepared, on demand of the workmen, to certify whether such work is required for war purposes; also to use its influence after the war to secure the restoration of labour conditions existing prior to the war.

SUNDAY LABOUR.

The committee of the General Federation of Trade Unions is petitioning the Government to stop Sunday labour wherever possible, owing to breakdowns from overstrain, particularly among girls. The resolution adds that the men must put aside industrial disputes.

LIVERPOOL DOCKERS.

The executive of the National Union of Dock Labourers in a manifesto states that the refusal of a minority of the Liverpool dock-labourers to work week-ends is adding to the congestion, and actually prevented the distribution of munitions to the troops in the trenches during the past week. Unless the disaffected members fall in line with the majority, a body outside the union will adopt drastic measures to the Union's detriment.

PORT OF LONDON.

The Port of London Authority has informed the Government that it is prepared to refer the waterside workers' demand for an increased war bonus to arbitration, provided the Government reimburses the Port Authority for the increase; or the Authority is willing to hand over control to the Government if guaranteed an income equal to that of 1914.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

COPENHAGEN, March 26.

Fifty thousand tons of grain are ready in Archangel for shipment to Britain and France.

AMSTERDAM, March 26.

Dr. Liebknecht, the well-known Socialist, has been ordered to join the Landsturm in Lorraine. His friends do not expect him to return alive.

WAR NOTES.

THE CARPATHIANS.

The most important item of news from the eastern front this morning is that which tells that the Russians have gained a victory after a three-days' battle in the region between the Lupkow and Uszok Passes, in the Carpathians. Stubborn fighting has been going on in this particular district for many weeks now, and neither side has been able to make much headway, but, according to this morning's messages, the Russians suddenly brought up large reinforcements, with the aid of which they were able to give the fighting a definite turn. As far as can be gathered the Austro-German lines here have been driven right back into both the Lupkow and Uszok Passes. This sudden Russian reinforcement is very evidently the outcome of the fall of Przemysl, which released a considerable force for service elsewhere. The newly-released force could be flung into the Lupkow-Uszok line very rapidly, for a railway runs due south from Przemysl as far as Chyrow, whence two lines diverge, one to Lupkow, and the other to Uszok. General von Schoenik, late Austrian Minister for War, stated after the fall of Przemysl, that "everything now depends on the result of the great battle raging in the Carpathians," and added: "If the Austro-German forces are successful, Przemysl will be merely an episode." This statement was made with the object of minimising the importance of the fall of Przemysl. It was quite true in a sense, for if the Russians were crushingly defeated in the great Carpathian battle then the enemy could well afford to overlook the fall of Przemysl. But what Von Schoenik did not take into account was the bearing the fall of the fortress had upon the result of the Carpathian battle. This morning's cables suggest that it was a very vital consideration. At the same time, it must be emphasised that the great Carpathian "battle," as a whole, has not yet been decided. The success now reported is to some extent a local success, for the Carpathian operations extend over a far wider front than from Lupkow to Uszok. Critical fighting is still in progress throughout the greater portion of that front, right down to Bukovina, and, although the present success may have a very considerable effect on the ultimate result of the major operations, still it cannot yet be said that it has been great enough to give the Russians a complete victory.

THE ADVANCE ON TILSIT.

The only other development of interest in the eastern theatre is the Russian advance across the East Prussian frontier in the Jurburg district. Jurburg is on the Niemen, almost due west of Kovno, and opposite it in German territory is a place called Schmalleningken, which is the terminus of a branch railway from the important town of Tilsit. The lastnamed town may be regarded as the key to the northern portion of East Prussia, and this latest Russian advance must be read in conjunction with that other advance, already reported, from the Tauroggen district, just to the north-east of Tilsit. The Russians here have crossed the border and secured possession of Langsargen, the terminus of another branch railway. Thus they are within about 30 miles of Tilsit on the east, and no more than 15 miles from it on the north-east. Unlike the advance on Memel, which was largely a raid with political objects, this movement against Tilsit may be regarded as a serious attempt to once more gain a foothold in East Prussia. At the present moment it would, of course, be idle to say that the attempt will succeed; but we can be quite certain of this—that a big German force will be hurried northward to confront the invaders of the darling province of the Emperor, and some severe fighting will take place. Whether the Russian movement succeeds or not, however, it will have the effect of greatly extending the German front, and the strengthening of this northern portion must be done at the expense of some other section, a fact of which we may expect the Grand Duke to take full advantage.

THE BATTLESHIP.

"Curious" (Mosman) asks: "Could every ship that goes into battle rightly be called a battleship, whether it be a submarine or armed merchantman, or battle-cruiser, or any other type of warship?" The answer is, of course, in the negative. The old name for the battleship was "line-of-battle ship," which more clearly indicated the vessel—i.e., a ship designed to fight in the line of battle. (In those old days the class excluded all vessels carrying less than 60 guns.) The battleship is the heavy-weight of the fleet—the one that always in the ultimate settles a naval war—and is distinguished from the cruiser by its heavy armour, its bigger guns, and slower speed. A cruiser cannot hope to fight a battleship, and would thus not be found in "the line of battle" in a big engagement. A battle-cruiser, however, which represents the modern developments of armoured cruiser and battleship in combination, and possesses the speed of the former and the fighting power of the latter, could take her place in the line of battle, and may thus be regarded as a battleship. You will note, of course, that a fought-out action in which cruisers, destroyers, and submarines might take part—but no battleships—while it would in the ordinary sense be a "battle," still it would not be so in the full naval sense. All these lesser craft have their parts to play in the events leading up to, during, and following a big naval engagement; but actions in which they alone take part are more in the nature of the outpost affairs, skirmishes, or reconnaissances in force in land operations as against pitched battles between armies.

"W. R. A." (Ashfield) and "Americanus" (Sydney).—The Powers signing the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium were Prussia, Austria, Britain, France, Russia, and Belgium. The United States was not a party to the treaty.

"L. V. C." (Sydney).—The Monmouth carried 14 6-inch guns, and the Good Hope two 9.2-inch and 16 6-inch. Both vessels were over 12 years of age, and their guns of old pattern.

"Nauticus" (Mosman).—It is understood that 74 British ships were seized in German ports, the aggregate tonnage being 170,000.

"T.H.R." (Mandurama): It was not Field Marshal von Hindenburg, but Field Marshal Count von Waldersee who was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the international forces engaged in the suppression of the Boxer insurrection in China in 1900.

"Inventor" writes in reference to the problem of dealing with the submarine, suggesting that the British Government "should offer a substantial reward for their requirements. Then," he adds, "I have no doubt that a true solution will be forthcoming of a practicable nature." In view of all that Britain has at stake in this matter "Inventor" need not have any doubt whatever that he will be amply paid if he can work out any really effective scheme for dealing with enemy submarines. It is as well, however, to remind him that quite a number of technical men in Britain have, from purely patriotic motives, sent along suggestions to the Admiralty, which have been, and in some instances are still being, given serious consideration. In a case like this our "inventors" have something at stake as well as the nation.

KING EDWARD'S HORSE.

A cablegram was received by the Acting Premier from the Agent-General yesterday, stating that, in order to meet numerous applications from Australia for enlistment in the King Edward's Horse, it had been decided to increase the strength of the force by 200 men. There is the proviso that the new men must arrive in England in May, or, at the beginning of June at the latest. By an arrangement with the officer commanding candidates approved by the Acting Premier will be accepted. It will be necessary for those who have applied direct to the Agent-General to make further application to the Premier's office, where full information may be obtained.

LATE WAR NEWS.

INDIA.

VICEROY'S ADDRESS.

THE PERSIAN GULF.

DELHI, March 26.

Concluding the financial debate in the Imperial Legislative Council, the Viceroy said:—"The Finance Minister's interesting recital of financial events brings out convincingly the inherent soundness and strength of the Indian financial position. This country has undertaken some heavy financial responsibilities, but to-day, after eight months of war, these have been fully discharged, and the strain is now sensibly relaxed. If further burdens are thrown upon us we are prepared to meet them. It is said there is every sign of an unusually large surplus this year available for export. The strictest watch has been kept upon our trade with neutrals. Enemy trading has been killed. I gladly testify to the readiness with which the commercial community has submitted to necessary interferences with the ordinary course of trade. All questions of promotion of industrial development are receiving the careful consideration of the Government, and I hope to initiate special inquiries as soon as normal conditions are restored."

Referring to his recent visit to the Persian Gulf, the Viceroy remarked:—"The province of Basrah struck me as one of immense potentialities. Under Turkish misrule it greatly suffered, and the population of the surrounding country is consequently very sparse. At a small expense the city of Basrah might become a splendid port, and a port of exit of all the trade of Mesopotamia and Northern Persia. Merely the fringes of Shat El Arab so far have been cultivated, but the soil is extremely fertile, and only most elementary schemes of irrigation are required to extend indefinitely the area under cultivation. The climate is splendid, and resembles that of the northern Punjab. I cannot conceive a country more suitable for immigration if in future a more stable form of government is established. The country may then really become a Garden of Eden, and blossom like the rose."

He added that, despite the protest of the Italian Consul at Jedda, the Turkish authorities had seized for military purposes a cargo of barley intended for pilgrims to Jedda and Mecca. Until the Government could receive some definite assurance that supplies sent would reach their proper destination, it was impossible to make similar arrangements.

Finally, the Viceroy thanked the Council for their loyal co-operation in recently enacting the measure to secure the defence of India and the public safety. He expressed his pleasure at the introduction of the Hindu University Bill, and said that although the activities of the Council had been limited by the decision to avoid controversial business, the Council had done much useful work.

LAND TAX.

ONE EXEMPTION FOR JOINT OWNERSHIP.

HIGH COURT DECISION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the High Court to-day judgment was delivered on a special case stated by Mr. Justice Powers, under the Land Tax Assessment Act, in the estate of Mr. William Peterson, deceased, and in the estate of Sir Frederick Thomas Sargood, deceased. It was contended, on behalf of the appellant trustees of the estate, that there should be deducted from the unimproved values of the land held in joint ownership under the will of a testator, who died before July 1, 1910, by each joint owner, a relative of testator by blood or marriage, the sum of £5000.

Mr. Justice Powers, in the special case, pointed out that William Peterson and Sir Frederick Sargood were partners in the business of sheep farmers. He asked if all appellants were entitled to any and what deductions from their liabilities under their joint assessment in respect of beneficial interests of four children, and of eleven children beneficiary under the will of Sir Frederick T. Sargood.

By a majority, the High Court held that there should be one deduction of £5000 only, and not four and eleven such deductions respectively. Mr. Justice Isaacs, Mr. Justice Duffy, and Mr. Justice Rich were the majority, and the Chief Justice (Sir Samuel Griffith) and Mr. Justice Barton the minority.

STATE TRAWLERS.

SPECIAL CREWS.

Referring yesterday to the three trawlers purchased by the Government, the Acting Premier stated that the commissioner for the State, Mr. Stead, had engaged crews. These were being brought out under special permission of the Commonwealth Government, which had agreed to the contract arrangement made with the members of the crews, who were all specialists at this particular class of work.

In a letter to the Acting Premier Mr. Stead describes the three crews as the finest of the many fishing crews he had seen in the numerous fishing ports of Great Britain. The skippers were all men of resourcefulness. They were married men with young families.

WHEAT YIELD.

VICTORIA'S LOSSES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The actual returns of the Victorian wheat crop are now available, the official figures showing an aggregate yield of only 3,940,947 bushels, which gives an average off-take per acre of only 1.38 bushels. The pre-harvest estimate of the statist was 4,084,865 bushels, to average 1.46 bushels to the acre. Last year the yield was 32,936,245 bushels, and the average 12.84 bushels per acre.

THE DOG IN THE TRENCH.

The following story of the adventures with the French army of a dog that rejoices in the name of Fend l'Air is quoted by the "Morning Post" from the Paris "Figaro":—Fend l'Air was born in Algeria of unknown parentage, a street arab that fended for itself from puppyhood. Intelligent and affectionate, he devoted himself passionately to the master that chance gave him. The war called his master to serve under the colours, and the dog managed to get on board with him. From Marseilles he crossed France, and went to Belgium, taking part in the grand retreat. He was in the victory of the Marne, shared the life of the regiment in the trenches, and one night the trench which his master was helping to guard was blown up by a shell. Fend l'Air's master was buried, wounded. The dog scented out the exact place where he lay, and started digging, until at last he got his master's head clear, and then he started to bark, barking continually until at last he succeeded in summoning the stretcher bearers, who saved the wounded soldier from what seemed certain death. The man has been taken to the American hospital at Neuilly, and is recovering, while the hospital rules have been relaxed so as to avoid the separation of the two friends.

WAR PENSIONS.

REGULATIONS ISSUED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At a meeting of the Federal Executive Council approval was given to the regulations under the War Pensions Act providing for payment of pensions. In a number of cases where deaths have occurred in the expeditionary forces provisional payment has already been made to dependents based upon delegations left by the soldiers before leaving, but in no case did this payment exceed the amount to which recipients would be entitled under the schedule fixed in the Act, which was as follows: Scale of pensions payable to widow on death of member of forces or to member upon total incapacity.

Per day to member.	Pension payable to widow.
6/	£52 per annum
7/	£56 per annum
9/	£64 per annum
10/	£66 per annum
10/6	£70 per annum
11/6	£73 per annum
12/	£74/10/ per annum
13/	£77/10/ per annum
17/6	£99 per annum
22/6	£101 per annum
30/	£116 per annum
37/6	£131 per annum
45/	£146 per annum
50/ and upwards	£156 per annum

Where the rate of pay of a member of the forces exceeds a rate shown in the schedule, and is less than the next higher rate, the rates of pensions payable will be proportionately adjusted.

In framing the war pensions regulations, the Treasury has taken advantage as far as possible of the machinery in operation for the administration of the Invalid and Old Age Pensions Acts. All persons, whether members of the forces or dependents of members who claim pensions under the War Pensions Act, must lodge a claim in one or other of the prescribed forms. There are three forms of claim, known as X, Y, and Z respectively. Form X is for use in cases where a dependent or dependents is or are under the age of 16 years. Form Y is for the use of a dependent above the age of 16 years, while form Z is for the use of a member of the forces claiming a pension on the ground of incapacity.

Pensions will be payable at post-offices fortnightly, and the amount of every fortnightly instalment will be one twenty-sixth of the annual pension. The pension fortnights will commence on a Thursday and end on a Wednesday. Arrangements have been made to guard against over-payments, as, for example, the case of widows marrying again, and in the case of deaths; also for the issue of duplicate pension certificates in the case of loss of the original, and for the transfer of pension from place to place. Claim forms will be available in a few days at the Commonwealth Treasury, Melbourne, also at the offices of the Deputy Commissioners and Registrars of Invalid and Old Age Pensions.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

FURTHER PROROGUED.

The Acting Premier stated yesterday that it has been decided to prorogue the State Parliament from April 9 to April 30 next.

Mr. Cann remarked that there was a probability of the Premiers' Conference sitting at a later date than was originally intended, and the result might be to prevent the Government carrying out its intention to call Parliament together in the early part of May. It was likely that the Premiers' Conference will open about May 10, and this would prevent Parliament meeting till the business of the conference was disposed of. Several Ministers would require to be in constant attendance at the conference, and this would not permit of Parliament being in session concurrently.

FLOUR EXPORT.

PROHIBITION LIKELY.

OFFICIAL INQUIRIES.

The State has now just enough wheat for its own requirements, and there is every probability of a prohibition issuing in a few days preventing the export of flour.

Mr. G. Valder, the chairman of the Wheat Acquisition Board, stated yesterday that the estimated crop of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat would just about be realised. The board had been making estimates from the data in its possession, and it appeared that already 3,000,000 bushels had been consumed in the State, the consumption being at the rate of 1,000,000 bushels per month. The present supply in the State was, approximately, 10,500,000 bushels. This left 1,500,000 bushels to be accounted for. Although each consignment could not be definitely traced, it was believed by the board that before the wheat was commandeered by the State about 1,500,000 bushels had been taken over the southern border into Victoria.

The result to-day was, Mr. Valder added, that the State had now just enough wheat on hand to supply its own requirements.

The chairman was asked if he thought it would be necessary for the Government to prohibit the export of flour.

Mr. Valder replied that it seemed likely that the State would probably have to protect itself by means of a prohibition against the export of flour, but an exception would, no doubt, be made in the case of exports to Queensland and the islands. Mr. Valder explained that flour millers and merchants, in order to fulfil their orders with Queensland and the islands, had been compelled to import wheat to meet their engagements in these markets, and no obstacle could, in fairness, be placed in the way of their exporting the flour. The flour trade that the State did with Queensland and the islands necessitated the use of 2,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. The general prohibition against the export of flour from New South Wales might come into operation early next month.

The opinion prevails in the flour trade in Sydney that the official estimate of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat from this season's harvest in the State was excessive.

PRICES IN THE WEST.

PERTH, Friday.

The Flour Millers' Association, which has taken over for the grain and foodstuffs board the agency for the distribution of the local stocks of flour, has fixed the price at which it can be purchased by bakers and storekeepers at Perth, Fremantle, Guildford, and Cottesloe at £17 per ton; at York and Northam £16/15/ per ton; and at Narrogin and Katanning £16/12/6 per ton. Where flour is required in 50lb bags 5s 1s to be added to the prices set out above, and where it is required in 25lb bags 12/6 is the extra amount to be added.

GREECE'S PART.

BALKAN SOLDIER'S RETURN.

"Greece is bound to come into the war against Germany," said Mr. D. Raftopoulos yesterday. Mr. Raftopolous, who returned by the Orontes yesterday, has been in Greece for the past three years. He went home for a trip, and shortly after his arrival the Balkan War broke out. He at once volunteered for service, and was fighting for 18 months.

"Greece is only remaining neutral to see what Italy and Bulgaria do," he said. "The fact that the Turks have come in against the Triple Entente will be another determining factor. Greece has been fighting Turkey for 500 years. There is no love between these two nations. All the young men are being kept in the country, and nobody under the age of 32 years is allowed to leave. I think that you will very shortly hear that Greece has sent soldiers to the Dardanelles. Nothing seems more certain than that the Greeks will be fighting with the Allies in the summer. They were not anxious for a winter campaign so soon after the last."

Mr. Raftopolous brings back to Sydney with him two medals which he won in the campaign against Turkey. One has three clasps, showing that the owner fought in Macedonia, Hpros, and the Aegean Sea; and the other is a specially-struck medal, with one clasp, issued to those who fought at Pesta, near Janina.

OUR TROOPS.

AN AMERICAN RECRUIT.

VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS.

Many avocations were represented by the applicants for enlistment at Victoria Barracks yesterday. There were two vaudeville artists, two stage hands, scene-shifters, an orchardist, another poultry farmer and several city clerks. There was also a young man who had been in the Light Horse in Egypt. There he fell sick and was sent home. He had regained his health and had put on so much weight that, when he came up yesterday, he was not eligible for the Light Horse, having passed the 11-stone limit. This annoyed him so much that he refused to join the infantry—the only opportunity left him.

The purser of a well-known North Coast packet offered his services, and as he was in fine condition, and as hard as nails, he was gratefully accepted.

An interesting prospective recruit was an American. He had served three years in the U.S.A. cavalry, and since obtaining his discharge he had been a commercial traveller. He came along and asked how long it would take him to get naturalised. "Six months," he was informed. "Gee whiz!" he remarked, "and I've only been here six weeks. It's rough luck, as I've taken the trouble to come over here in the hope of joining you folks as a section of the Allies, and having a smack at the kultured crowd. My luck's sure out. Guess I'll have to wait on."

Among the recruits were several men who had been in the naval contingent in New Guinea. After having had their blood tested to prove that they had no malaria germs in their systems, they were allowed to offer their services, and were taken on.

RETURNED TROOPS.

Some 300 men were returned from Egypt by the Kyarra, and a great number of them have a grievance, and a well-founded one, too. They state that there were three classes of men returned:—(1) Those who had been sent back owing to illnesses, which anyone might have contracted, such as pneumonia, asthma, and similar complaints, which the dust and sand of Egypt only aggravated; (2) those who were returned through having contracted venereal diseases; and (3) those who were sent back owing to misconduct. The trouble was that the men returned for misconduct and those (a very few) who had contracted venereal diseases were lumped together and this the men returned on account of ordinary ailments most strongly resent. They do so on the ground that the names of those suffering from diseases, contracted through their own fault, have not been separated from those who have just been referred to as "returned owing to illness." This they say has reflected upon them, and as the exact figures of the "misconduct" men have been published, with their names, it is only fair that the names of the men, who, through their own fault have been discharged owing to having contracted venereal diseases, should be published also, and thus clear those who have been sent back through no fault of their own. One of these latter explained to-day that his life was being made a perfect misery from the fact that he had been returned "owing to illness." His friends all looked askance at him, in spite of his "V.G." papers.

PLEA FOR SMALL MEN.

There is a good story in the "Territorial Service Gazette," just to hand, on the "Bantams," otherwise the men under 5ft 4in. In this article Lord Rosebery is reported to have remarked that he was strongly in favour of the 5ft man from the military point of view. According to Lord Rosebery the 5ft man could fight just as well, could shoot just as well; they were much more compact; they were apt to have stronger constitutions, not being overgrown; they were much lighter on a horse, and they offered a much smaller mark to the enemy.

Dealing with the matter of "bantams" in the Usher Hall, Edinburgh, on February 3, Lord Rosebery referred to a pamphlet published in 1733, or nearly 200 years ago, dealing with this very subject. The pamphlet was called "The Humble Remonstrance of the Five-Foot Highians," otherwise the 5ft high people, against the anti-Christian practice of using a standard in the enlisting of soldiers. Lord Rosebery said he was very glad to see the matter placed on a high religious platform, to which he would not have ventured to lift the question himself. The pamphlet went on: "And whereas it is manifest that the laws of England are equally designed for the protection of the subjects of all sorts and sizes, we who are not 5ft 8in high think it proper to give public notice that we look upon ourselves to have as much right to the common privileges of subjects, and to have as quick a sense of resentment when we are not gratified, as any Grenadier in the kingdom. Well, then, is it not a crying profanation and abuse of that erect carriage and uplifted countenance with which Providence has endowed mankind, in order to look up to heaven and contemplate their Creator, to debase it into an engine of State and a political tool by obliging them to hold up their heads and stand upright in order to further their worldly promotion?'"

Continuing, Lord Rosebery said: "Is not courage the principal qualification in a soldier, and we desire to know where is the analogy between courage and a 6ft rule? Was courage to be measured by the yard, or were men like barrels, to be gauged in order to find their contents. Recruiting for 'bantam' regiments gave a splendid opportunity for men who were not up to the standard required by the ordinary recruiting sergeant."

The matter of discarding men with the highest qualifications because they happened to be half an inch below the standard required by the Commonwealth, was brought under the notice of Colonel Wallack, the District Commandant, yesterday. The colonel said that there might be many good men under the required standard, but the matter of allowing them to enlist rested entirely with the Commonwealth Government, and until the Federal Government reduced its standard no men could be recruited in New South Wales for a "bantam corps."

YOUR COUNTRY WANTS YOU.

The colonel also wished to say a word to the thousands of countrymen who would come down to Sydney during the Royal Agricultural Show. "There must be thousands of likely men coming down to Sydney for the show," said the District Commandant, "and what I would say to them is, 'As you have come so far, come a step farther, and visit the recruiting office at the Victoria Barracks. You are good men, and your country wants you!'"

Lieutenant Tim. E. T. H. Hill, youngest son of the late Mr. Augustus Hill, who joined the University and Public Schools' Brigade Royal Fusiliers, has recently received a commission in the 12th Middlesex.

On Thursday evening the Parramatta Squadron of Lancers tendered a farewell to several comrades going to the front—Major Mills, Lieutenant Mills, Lieutenant Antill, Sergeant-Major Frost, and Troopers Macdermott, Edwards, Cowper, and Buchanan. Lieutenant Jacobs presided, and the toast of the evening was proposed by Major Mackenzie, supported by the Mayor (Alderman Graham), the Rev. Hugh Wilson, Alderman Smith, and others. Each of the guests was presented with a suitable souvenir.

THE ARTILLERY BRIGADE.

An artillery officer of the Australian forces in Egypt writes to his friends in Sydney—"We did our brigade tactical practice on Thursday and Friday, and did quite well, and earned a good deal of praise from our new artillery General, Cunliffe Owen—a fine chap, who has put in four or five months at the front, and has come away specially to command the artillery of the Australian and New Zealand army corps. It was a fine show, having three batteries all firing live shell at one time at various and difficult surprise targets, including invisible ones, when we got aeroplane observers to tell us how our shells were falling. We used 'forward observing stations' (in front of our own guns) for the first time, and the shells of all three batteries were whizzing merrily over us."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"B. Armitage."—The following are the rates of pay for senior cadet officers:—C.O. battalion, £7 per annum; O.C. company, £5 p.a.; other officers, £3 p.a. Until an officer is gazetted and appointed to a company he receives no pay.

"A. L. H."—The actual figures you ask for are absolutely secret and confidential, and at any time the censor does not permit of the numbers of men in the forces being published.

"X. Y. Z.," Narromine.—Make your application in writing to the General Staff Office, Victoria Barracks. All the information you require will then be forwarded to you.

"Accountant."—It is essential for you to pass the military medical examination test at the Victoria Barracks; no other is accepted. You can see the doctor on a Sunday or any other morning, but you need not necessarily enrol first. Even if you did enrol and pass the medical test, men situated as you are can always obtain reasonable leave of absence before reporting for entraining for Liverpool. Men wishing to join the Army Service Corps may state that on their application form, and if they have special qualifications may be transferred to that corps on a vacancy occurring.

Arthur Leigh.—The wearing of glasses might not prevent you joining the Army Medical Corps or the Veterinary Corps, but it is generally considered a bar to the Infantry or Light Horse. If a man wore glasses because only one eye was defective, the other being perfectly sound and would not be helpless if he lost his glasses, a point might be stretched to pass him into the ranks, but the deciding factor would be whether he could pass the eyesight test without the glasses.

"Buff."—Certainly you are eligible to try again. See the case of the Russian Finn in yesterday's "Our Troops" column.

The sum of £9876/18/8 has already been expended. Subscribers are informed that there is no diminution in cases of distress needing urgent relief. As will be seen by the figures above, the committee has already expended nine-tenths of the receipts, and the "War Chests" want replenishing. The fifth consignment of warm clothing for the soldiers in the trenches is being shipped by the S.S. Malwa, and consists of four large cases, containing socks, Balaclavas, mittens, mufflers, cholera belts, shirts, etc., etc.

RED CROSS.

The Annandale Branch is still working very hard. The work is being now carried on at the council-chambers every Tuesday and Wednesday, from 2 till 4 p.m. The Mayoress (Mrs. Hogan) has been elected president in place of the ex-Mayoress (Mrs. Colebrook), who has resigned. A meeting of the committee and workers will be held on Tuesday afternoon.

Arrangements are nearing completion for the Royal Show Red Cross stands, which are (1) in the Agricultural Hall, (2) outside the Agricultural Hall and behind the dogs, (3) in the Industrial Hall to the left of the main doors. The Netley Hut model, the diagram model of the taking of the wounded from the battlefield to the hospital, and the motor lorries, are all nearing completion. No sales will take place at any of the Red Cross stalls on Good Friday, though the exhibits will be on view. A little six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kimball, of Woollahra, is coming as a Red Cross nurse, also six-year-old soldier from Campsie, and the well-known bulldog from Her Majesty's Theatre. The little Red Cross nurse dolls, with long skirts for pins and needles, make a present that is appropriate for man, woman, or child. Specimen garments made at the Town Hall will be on view at the Industrial Hall, also a selection from the pictures that are being art-unioned so generously by the artists.

Thin woollen and cotton shirts and articles needed for the Field Ambulance have been made during the week by the Town Hall workers. The sewing-rooms will be closed for Easter, on Tuesday next, March 30, and will open on the morning of the 12th.

To push the sale of admission tickets for the Red Cross carnival, to be held at the Stadium on Tuesday night, April 13, Mr. Reg. L. Baker has organised a selling staff, consisting of ladies connected with the Red Cross movement. Sections of the city and suburbs have been allotted to them, and from Monday next until the day of the carnival their mission will be to call on business men and householders to dispose of the tickets. The price of the reserved seats is 5s, and, as the committee want to sell 2000 of these before the performance, so as to make certain of the expenses to defray the cost of the undertaking, the promoter and the committee of the Red Cross Society appeal to the public to purchase tickets when called upon. There are, of course, cheaper seats, namely, 2s and 1s, but the tickets for these will not be issued for a few days.

Y.M.C.A. FIELD SERVICE.

The management of the Sydney Y.M.C.A. is making a special appeal to bring the fund up to £1500 within the next few weeks. The Rev. James Wilson has been on a visit to the Liverpool camp during the week, and has been making a religious appeal to the men. According to a copy of the "Egyptian Gazette" received by Mr. Gillanders from Cairo, no less than two hundred thousand letters have been written in the Y.M.C.A. tents in Egypt.

The following contributions are gratefully acknowledged:—Amount previously acknowledged, £1121/19/6; Mr. Morrison, 5/; Dr. George E. Rennie, £5/5/; a soldier's mother, sisters, and brother, £1/1/; Mrs. Leask, 5/; Mrs. De Low, 5/; Mr. J. W. Taylor (1st contribution), 15/; Rev. J. H. Toms, 5/; Mr. John Kent, £5; reception hall collection box, 2/1. Total, £1135/2/7.

ULSTER AMBULANCE.

Mrs. Liddell, "Ednvale," Upper-avenue-road, Mosman, acknowledges the following subscriptions towards the Ulster Ambulance:—

Amount already acknowledged, £84/17/6; Mr. Kennedy, £2; Mr. Wm. McCready, £1/1/; Mr. H. Lunny, 10/6; Mrs. Burton, 10/; Mrs. C. Morton, 10/; Mrs. McFarland, 7/6; nett proceeds concert January 22, £20/5/. Total, £96/1/6. Less expenses printing, postage, etc., £5/12/6—£90/9/.

The fund has now been closed, and the above amount forwarded to the Lord Mayor of Belfast, with instructions to procure a field ambulance for the Ulster residents of New South Wales and their friends for one of the Ulster contingents at the front.

COMFORTS FOR SOLDIERS.

Mrs. George Earp will send a parcel of socks and other soldiers' necessaries and comforts from the Queen Victoria Club on April 8 to Colonel Humphries, for our men at Liverpool. She will be very glad to receive gifts at the club, George and Wynyard streets, on April 7; or at any time at her residence, Ug Lodge, Point Piper.

FOOD FUND.

The Chamber of Commerce acknowledge the following subscriptions:—Amount already acknowledged, £100,906/6/1; residents of Hill End, per H. Beeza, £4; M. G. Rudder, Rolland's Plains, milk donation, £1; proceeds of five calfskins given by C. J. Manton, Lawrence, Clarence River, sold by Pitt, Son, and Badgery, 19/8; proceeds of sale of two cases of apples given by W. J. Nearly £500 have been collected, and, on the motion of the Mayor of Jamberoo, it was decided to send the money to Sydney, for transmission to London to assist in the purchase of a motor lorry, to be sent to the seat of war immediately.

OUR TROOPS IN EGYPT.

CAIRO RESIDENT'S EULOGY.

A lady resident in Cairo, the wife of a British official, writes to her mother a eulogy of the Australian troops now in Egypt, and from it we take the following passages:—

The magnitude of Australia's gift to the mother country—this was the thought which immediately leapt to our minds the moment her noble offer was made known to us. And yet I wonder how many of us realised—or realise—the extent of her sacrifice, and what this gift of thousands of trained men actually means to her and to them. I hardly think it is possible until one has come into contact with the men themselves, seen them in a body, in a procession, a march-past, in camp, or talked to them individually and heard of their own personal sacrifices.

It is not the numbers, striking as they are, which fill one with wonder and admiration, so much as the men themselves who have come to strike a blow for the "old country." Never was there a finer lot gathered together for a noble purpose. Splendid types, all of them; in the very prime of their lives, giants in stature, Nature's children in very truth. Australia has sent us of her best—of her heart's blood. Do we realise it—can we appreciate it enough?

"What will it be like without the camp?" one asks oneself quite sadly every time one goes past, for these Australians have come as a double blessing to us, who are necessarily exiled from our country in her hour of trouble. They have been the means of bringing us the great privilege that everyone is claiming with one accord—work—for, after all, service in some form or other for our country and our troops is all we ask for.

In this place the residents have put a "recreation tent" at the disposal of the troops, where the men can rest and write. Arrangements have been amade amongst the residents that there should always be someone in attendance to sell them writing paper, postcards, tobacco and cigarettes, etc., and the appreciation shown by the men for anything that is done for them is most refreshing. They are great writers, these Australians, and seem to supply their friends and relations at home with the most detailed accounts of their doings here.

The musical and dramatic talent amongst them is most marked, and there are concerts every week, at which both the residents and the men themselves perform. They are reciters, violinists, vocalists, pianists, exponents of ragtime and of every conceivable branch of music. The result is that these evenings are always most entertaining to performers and audience alike.

A DESERTER.

TO BE DISCHARGED WITH IGNOMINY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The following statement was issued by the defence authorities to-day:—

No. 163, Private Wm. James Morris, was convicted by a District Court Martial at Broadmeadows a few days ago for desertion from the 9th Light Horse Australian Imperial Force, and fraudulently enlisting again under another name. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment, with hard labour, in the Melbourne gaol, and to be discharged with ignominy from his Majesty's service.

APPLES AND BREAD.

RESULT OF MR. CARMICHAEL'S SCHEME.

Mr. Henley, M.L.A., who has just returned from a visit to Tasmania, where he was much interested in the apple-growing industry, referred yesterday to Mr. Carmichael's effort as State apple purveyor, and Mr. Hall's proposal to establish a State bread monopoly.

"If Mr. Hall cannot do any better than Mr. Carmichael did with his apples," said the member for Burwood, "I think he ought to drop his scheme. Mr. Carmichael had a few hundred cases of apples to sell, and he thought he could supply the whole State. He stipulated that cheques must accompany orders, and I understand that he got so many orders that he found he could only supply a portion of them. The result is that it has cost the department something like £30 to return the many cheques and postal notes that were sent with the overplus of orders."

HOME FOR INCURABLES—AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—To be helpless and suffering excruciating pain is not to be thought of without a shudder, and when accompanied by poverty, how much more terrible must the suffering be? It is a slow and dreary journey through the valley of the shadow of death. It was to relieve these poor sufferers of the middle class that the New South Wales Home for Incurables was founded. Among the incurables there must necessarily be many who claim the strongest sympathy of the benevolent. There are those who are able to procure for themselves all the aid and alleviation of which their cases admit; but there are also very many who—with failing health and strength, and the slow and insidious approach of incurable disease, and its frequent accompaniments of racking pain—have gradually fallen from the comforts and enjoyments of affluence to the utmost destitution and want. No person can read the simple narrative of the distressing cases brought forward from time to time without feeling the deepest commiseration; and it is to relieve this deep and crying misery that the aid of the charitable is now most earnestly solicited.

There are thousands among the middle classes, who, having formerly lived in comfort and respectability, have been reduced by incurable disease to the most distressing poverty, and who are altogether deprived of the means of procuring medical aid, and those necessaries which their suffering condition demands. Such cases when known plead more eloquently in their own behalf than any laboured address, and constitute of themselves a most touching appeal to our benevolence. Without hope—often without the power of performing the most ordinary office for themselves—amidst days of wretchedness and nights of agonising pain, these sad sufferers are, in a truth, a burden to their friends, who frequently are almost as helpless and poor as themselves.

The New South Wales Home for Incurables is intended for those who, having been once in a position of comfort, are now in necessitous circumstances, and so far incapacitated by incurable disease as to be unable to assist themselves, and are either bedridden or greatly dependent on others for the various offices in life. For these the home provides the best medical attendance, good nursing, and all the comforts of a home for life.

Owing to the number of applicants for admission the committee some time ago was compelled to considerably enlarge the accommodation. Plans were prepared and contracts signed for the new building at a cost of approximately £7000. All of this was entered into before the war, the committee feeling sure that the charitable public of New South Wales would see them through the undertaking. Owing to the numerous other calls at present being made, the response has not been so liberal as was anticipated, and to-day the home is in debt to the extent to nearly £4000.

We do not wish to detract from the importance of helping the various patriotic funds, etc., and, indeed, we consider it the duty of every citizen to do what they can in that direction at this present time; but still we feel sure that the public of New South Wales will not allow an institution such as the New South Wales Home for Incurables to be in want. It is a home that the public might well be proud of, and has grown to a place offering accommodation for 77 patients in the course of 14 years. No Government help is received. The Home from its beginning has been supported entirely by voluntary contributions, and accepts patients when suitable, and provided there is a vacancy, from any part of New South Wales.

To the generosity of the public the Home has never appealed in vain, and we feel sure that this appeal will be no exception to the rule.

A brief history of the home and its work will be posted free to anyone who feels interested.

Donations, large or small, should be addressed to the secretary, N.S.W. Home for Incurables, 72B King-street, Sydney, by whom they will be gratefully acknowledged.

I am, etc., F. C. MOORE, secretary,
For and on behalf of the committee.
March 23.

SPECULATORS.

RESTRICTIONS BY STATE.

MINISTER'S VIEW.

COONABARABRAN, Friday.

Speaking here last night, Mr. Grahame, Assistant Minister, said people who took exception to the Wheat Acquisition Act did not realise that the Government was facing a position unequalled in the history of the country. Owing to war and drought drastic steps had to be taken in the interests of the people. When the Government found they had a surplus of wheat in this State and Victoria had a shortage, the Government approached the Victorian Government, and said they were prepared to pay a share to import sufficient wheat to meet the requirements of the people of Australia. The latter refused to do so, and the Ministry in this State would have been false to its trust to allow breadstuffs to get into the hands of the speculators, when the people would suffer. If the Victorian Government failed to do its duty, there was no reason why the New South Wales Government should fail. He considered the Wheat Acquisition Act the best Act the Government ever passed, and he looked with more pleasure upon that Act than anything the Government had done.

Referring to speculators, Mr. Grahame said the Government wanted to purchase a large quantity of chaff for the farmers, and speculators asked £9 per ton for chaff. It was not worth that money, and he told them if they were not prepared to sell for less, he would take the matter before the Necessary Commodities Commission, and see what was a fair value. The result was, just before he left Sydney, they sold him 4000 tons of chaff at £7 10s. The Government was sending that chaff to distressed farmers, and if it had been left in the hands of speculators and gamblers, the ground could not have been cultivated and seed sown. The people would have no crop next year. They bought that chaff to give to people in drought-stricken districts on five years' credit, to help them to recoup. The Government had stood by the people in the city to get cheap bread, and stood by the people on the land in helping them to feed their horses and put crops in. The only man who lost anything was the speculator or middle man.

RAILWAY WORKS.

COONABARABRAN, Friday.

At a social gathering to Ministers, held last evening, Mr. Pope, president of the Shire Council, referring to the Norton Griffiths contract, said he did not understand it, but hoped it was all right, and did not mean that the railway extension to Coonabarabran would be delayed or construction stopped.

Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, said that however slow it may seem, the railway was coming into Coonabarabran. They had a large body of men working in the vicinity of the town at the present time. It was the desire of the Government to continue the railway to connect at Burren Junction.

Mr. Grahame, assistant Minister, said the Norton Griffiths contract would not make any difference in the railway to Coonabarabran. If the Government remained in power it would carry the railway through to the junction.

Mr. Black, Chief Secretary, said the railway was coming to Coonabarabran and going on to the junction, and he did not know when, but in time they would have another cross-country railway through the Pilliga scrub. If the Government remained in office a great portion of the Pilliga scrub would be thrown open not only for new settlement, but in some cases for giving additional areas. The district was going to be recognised as one of the greatest producing centres, also as the forestry nursery of the north-west.

MOTORING FATALITIES.

TWO MEN KILLED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Two sensational accidents, which have resulted fatally, occurred early this morning. A motorist, John G. Guest, of Glenelg House, Casterton, motor driver, was driving a motor car into the city at an early hour, when it collided with barriers erected where road repairs are being done in Hoddle-street, Collingwood. The car crashed through the barriers and somersaulted. Guest, who was travelling fast, had his right thigh fractured and one leg nearly torn off, and the skin torn from one arm from hand to elbow. He was taken to Melbourne Hospital and died some hours later. Guest was aged 30, and unmarried.

In the second case a soldier, Thomas Agnew, aged 21, of the 9th Light Horse, was returning to Broadmeadows camp, with other soldiers early this morning, when he fell off and rolled under the wheel of the motor 'bus, which inflicted fatal injuries. Agnew died at Melbourne Hospital. Agnew was unmarried.

SMALLPOX.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Smallpox having broken out, the inward mail steamer Morea, which is expected to arrive in Adelaide on Sunday, she is coming along the coast under quarantine. Amongst the passengers are the Chief Justice of Victoria, Sir John Madden, and Lady Madden. When the vessel arrives in Melbourne the passengers will be quarantined, but those who have satisfactorily complied with the quarantine conditions will be released.

PROPOSED SOLDIERS' CLUB.

The Minister for Defence has been invited to address the meeting called for Tuesday afternoon next, at the Town Hall, for the purpose of establishing a club for soldiers. Mr. H. Y. Braddon, Professor David, and Dr. F. Antill Pockley will be among the speakers.

SUNDAY TRADING.

The Rev. James Buchan, M.A., of the Evangelical Council, states that the Churches are considering the question of making a public protest against Mr. Black's action in permitting refreshment shops to trade on Sundays. It is probable that a public meeting will be held at an early date in connection with the matter, the strong appeals that were made to Mr. Black to reconsider his decision having failed. It is pointed out that Mr. Black's action, involving an important point of public policy, was taken at a time when Parliament was in recess, and without the existing laws being repealed. No public outcry, Mr. Buchan says, has been made to justify this extraordinary action.

CARTRIDGES WASHED ASHORE.

GERRINGONG, Friday.

About five miles along the Seven Mile Beach from the Gerringong end there have been picked up 125 cartridges, packed in a kapok mattress, and marked with a broad arrow.

STRATEGIC RAILWAY.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Mr. H. Coombes, Commonwealth Inspecting Engineer of Mr. Fisher's proposed strategic railway, was in Broken Hill yesterday on work in connection with the railway. He said he was inspecting two routes, both of which pass through Broken Hill.

COASTAL LIGHTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

At a meeting of the Federal Cabinet, which was held yesterday, consideration was given to a suggestion made by the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor) that the taking over of the coastal lights, which has been fixed for April 1, should be deferred until July 1. Mr. Tudor's recommendation was endorsed.

Mr. Tudor stated that it had been decided to amend the legislation in the direction of giving the Commonwealth power, where necessary, to acquire the lighthouses compulsorily.

SURF VICTIM.

SOLDIER DROWNED.

At about 1.30 p.m. yesterday George Parle, 22, a native of Liverpool, England, and a member of the 5th Reinforcements of the 1st Battalion of the Expeditionary Forces, now in Egypt, went into the surf at the southern end of Maroubra Bay with a number of comrades for a swim. Parle got into difficulties, being caught in the undertow. His mates swam to his rescue, and succeeded in getting hold of him. Then they tried to swim to the beach, but were in turn themselves caught by the undertow. They struggled bravely for a time to help their drowning comrade, but, becoming exhausted, they had to let him go to save themselves. Parle was carried further out by the undertow, sank, and was not seen again. After a great struggle the others managed to reach the beach safely, but very exhausted.

THE IDEAL IN ART.

ADVICE TO ARCHITECTS.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

In the course of his presidential address to members of the Institute of Architects, in the Royal Society's House, on Thursday evening, Mr. A. W. Anderson, F.I.A., remarked that the members of the institute were doing their share in active service, in supporting the patriotic and relief funds, in the rifle clubs, and in carrying on the business of the country as far as lay in their power. "We cannot but regret," he said, "that a nation possessing such high standards of education, such complete organisation in its municipal government, and displaying so many advances in the development of its commerce, science, and industrial life, and claiming so much culture, should carry on war in so barbarous a manner, destroying not only the property of its opponents, but also those priceless treasures of bygone ages in art and architecture, which were the property of the civilised world, and causing irreparable damage to such buildings of Reims Cathedral, Louvain's Library, and Ypres Cloth Hall, to say nothing of many other minor but scarcely less interesting and valuable specimens of the arts and crafts of centuries past."

Referring to the formation of a Federal council of the institutes of architects throughout the Commonwealth, which has become an established fact, the president said: "The council will be the medium of communication between the Federal authorities and the profession, and, as it will represent the whole of the architects in the Commonwealth, no doubt its representations will carry much more weight than those of individual institutes. It will be a means of bringing about uniformity in conditions of contract, the conduct of competitions, building regulations, and general practice throughout the Commonwealth, and will uplift the professional status. The ultimate aim is a federation of the institutes, if not an Australian institute to embrace the continent; but there are many obstacles to overcome, and many differences of opinion to reconcile before that aim is realised."

Proceeding, he said: "Consciously or unconsciously, we all have our ideals, and whether we notice them or not they influence our whole life. Perhaps the most striking example of the influence of such an ideal is the German Empire. The ideal which for the past two centuries has been moulding that people is the supremacy of the State over the individual; hence the subordination to military rule and cast-iron regulations affecting the petty details of daily life. The machine-like order and the Government interference and regulation of many details, which to us would be intolerable, as interferences with the liberty of the subject, have held sway until the whole people seem to be part of a soulless machine, moving or stopping under the control and at the will of those who represent the State. While there is, perhaps, much to be said for the realisation of such an ideal, it does not correspond to our ideal of voluntary sacrifice for the benefit of the community, which, while not always manifest on the surface is, I believe, the underlying principle in our British constitutions and methods of government.

"We speak of the beautiful, but how hard it is to set down in words what we mean by this expression. I suppose if we could set down in cold type what we mean and compare our definitions we should find many and wide divergencies of opinion, especially if we applied the term to our art. Yet we all aim at producing something that shall be beautiful. Then there is the ideal of utility, wherein we subordinate the artistic to the useful. Utility in art is commercialism carried to excess, and one must rejoice that even commercialism is beginning to realise that beauty has a value. The pleasanter, brighter, more varied, and, in a word, the more beautiful the surroundings, the more efficient the worker, is becoming recognised, and hence Bournemouth and similar factory settlements.

SOUTHERLY CHANGE.

RAIN IN CITY.

After a long spell of dry weather, rain fell in the city last evening, 29 points being registered up to 9 o'clock.

Early yesterday morning a mild southerly breeze was blowing, and this gradually increased in force as the day advanced. As the wind became stronger it brought up large areas of cloud, which swept across the city, giving promise of an early downpour. These clouds, however, did not become threatening until shortly before 5 p.m., when flashes of lightning and rumbling thunder preceded rain. Steady showers fell during the early part of the evening, but later on finer conditions prevailed, with occasional light showers.

The cool change is expected to last, and further thundershowers are predicted on the coast and in parts of the northern districts.

WATER FAMINE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

BARADINE, Friday.

At Bugaldi this afternoon, Mr. Black, Chief Secretary, and member for the district, introduced a deputation of local residents to Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands.

The deputation stated that the annual leases held by Dr. Fall contained the spring giving the only supply of water to the new township. Dr. Fall had sublet the lease to J. Campbell, and it was alleged that the latter asked local farmers to pay £12 per month for watering 40 head of cattle. The public was not allowed to water stock. Owing to the water famine, stockowners had to travel cattle 12 and 16 miles a day to give them water. Mr. Ashford stated that he fully recognised the urgency of the cases, and would give immediate attention on his return to Sydney. Meantime he would telegraph Dr. Fall to officially report if the lease had been sublet, and that the above was sufficient ground for its cancellation.

Subsequently Mr. Ashford ascertained from the district surveyor that he recommend that the lease be cancelled, and be made available as a public watering place.

CANE-GROWER'S THREAT.

BUNDABERG (Q.), Friday.

Mr. Fisher arrived at Bundaberg to-day. While proceeding along the platform at Bundaberg the oldest cane-grower, Mr. Martin Wessell, met the Prime Minister, and asked him if he was not going to increase the price of cane.

Mr. Fisher replied: I can't do it.

Mr. Wessell said: Then you shouldn't be Prime Minister.

Mr. Fisher replied: You are getting more for your cane now.

Mr. Wessell said: Yes, but you made us pay three times that amount for labour, and we won't forget it.

ACCIDENTS TO FARMERS.

WAGGA, Friday.

A well-known farmer named Phillip Menz was killed at O'Brien's Creek yesterday. When crossing the creek with a team in which was attached 11 horses Menz applied the brakes to the wheels. The horses swerved and crushed Menz against the bank. He fell in such a position that a wheel went over his right leg and body, crushing him very seriously. The injured man was brought to Wagga Hospital, where his leg was amputated. Menz did not rally, and died from shock. He was 52 years of age.

William Munro, a young farmer, when crossing the bridge at North Wagga with a waggon, attempted to jump on the shaft of the vehicle. He slipped and fell, the front wheel passing over his thigh, and causing a fracture, which necessitated his admission to the hospital.

A FIREMAN'S CONTRACT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

A most unusual case occupied the attention of the magistrate at Wellington, when Cotterel, a fireman on the Tainui, applied for an order rescinding his contract with the master of the vessel. This is said to be the first time such an action has been before a New Zealand court, and no similar English case is reported. Cotterel had signed on for the round voyage from London, but owing to family reasons it is imperative that he should leave the vessel. The hearing was adjourned to allow a man to sign on in Cotterel's place.

FATAL BICYCLE RIDE.

About 10 a.m. yesterday Aleck Atkinson or Hawkinson, 26, a coal-lumper, residing in Argyle-street, Milson's Point, was learning to ride a bicycle in Kent-street, when he lost control of the machine, which rushed down into Windmill-street, where the rider was thrown hard against a post. He was admitted to Sydney Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He died two hours after his admission.

CAMDEN COLLEGE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Camden College 51st annual meeting was held at the Y.M.C.A. lecture hall last night, the president (Dr. G. E. Rennie) presiding.

The annual report stated that the year had been made memorable by the erection of the new building for the accommodation of resident students. The ground floor contains a lecture room, capable of seating about 100 persons, a library, a students' common-room, etc.; and upstairs the accommodation includes study-bedrooms for eight students. The whole of the fittings are replete with the most up-to-date conveniences, including electric light. The cost of the building was £4050, towards which £1800 was promised, and already £1722 of the amount has been received. At present there are seven resident students at the college.

Mr. W. Owens, B.A., with the permission of the council, accepted an appointment as Y.M.C.A. secretary for New South Wales with the First Australian Imperial Expeditionary Force, and is now on active service. During the year Mr. C. H. Myles, who had served the college for many years as a Fellow, was compelled to resign owing to ill-health, and for the same reason the Rev. R. A. Thompson retired from the secretaryship, and was succeeded by the acting-secretary, Mr. C. H. Slayter. The Rev. Mr. Thompson, however, was appointed general secretary, and Mr. Slayter also took up the duties of financial secretary.

The council had to thank Miss Amy S. E. Fairfax and Miss A. Caroline Fairfax for gifts of 29 volumes of Dickens' works, and 100 volumes of Scott, specially bound, which make a handsome addition to the library.

The following, who retired from the council, but were unopposed, were re-elected:—Rev. W. Mathison, B.A., Rev. Dr. Roseby, Sir J. R. Fairfax, Sir P. Sydney Jones, Messrs. H. C. Kent, M.A., and W. Roberts.

The Rev. R. A. Thompson moved the adoption of the report, which was seconded by the Rev. Dr. Roseby and Mr. E. K. Satchell. Dr. Roseby was pleased that the college had done its share towards assisting the Empire. He said that the outstanding feature of the report was the realisation of their efforts to possess a residential college; and the response made by the churches in support of the movement had been highly satisfactory. The report and financial statement submitted by the treasurer, Mr. A. L. Mullins, were adopted.

The Warden, the Rev. Principal Thatcher, M.A., B.D., said that the occupation of the new quarters had been, what might be termed, a mixed pleasure. There were many things to be done before the maximum of comfort was attained, but the newcomers were settling down earnestly to work, and he was confident that, before long, when all the furniture and accessories fell into place, they would be a very happy family.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson announced that the council had submitted a preliminary scheme to a sub-committee with the idea of holding a "house-warming" at the college, and which would take the form of a social and intellectual entertainment. He also read an apology from the president of the college, the Rev. Geo. Campbell, who is absent in the country.

SCHOOL CHILDREN.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

The annual report of the medical branch of the Education Department deals with infectious diseases affecting schools. Outbreaks of ophthalmia occurred in some schools, 18 out of 54 children attending one school being found to be affected. As usual, the history of the outbreaks show that the cases became more numerous as flies became more prevalent. Figures show that 8.1 per cent. of the total enrolment was affected by some contagious disease that necessitated compulsory exclusion from school. Whooping cough headed the list, and then followed chickenpox, measles, and diphtheria.

In addition to children actually suffering from infectious diseases, 7651, or 3.3 per cent., of the enrolment, were excluded because they were contacts. "The interference with school attendance by infectious diseases," says Dr. Willis, "appears to be much greater than it should be. The lax way some local councils have of notifying cases of statutory infectious diseases prevents teachers dealing with the cases as promptly as they should. Teachers have frequently excluded children unnecessarily."

Last year, out of 94,198 children examined by the school medical branch 33,109, or 35.1 per cent., had been successfully vaccinated. The proportion of children vaccinated decreases rapidly from the metropolitan area to the back country.

Dr. Willis, principal medical officer, mentions that the treatment of school children by the medical officers of the Education Department has been criticised by the medical profession on the grounds that it is interfering with their livelihood. "This appears an untenable attitude to take up," he says. "The children treated by the department would be those children found physically defective at a school medical inspection. Most of these pupils would not have obtained treatment except as a result of medical inspection, since the defect would not have been known to the parent. If this were not so school medical inspection, found necessary all over the world, would not be required. Again, even if free treatment were offered in all cases, a proportion would still prefer to go to someone else, and this proportion would be equal to, or even greater than, the number that would have obtained treatment, irrespective of medical inspection." The question, he thinks, is more a national than an individual one.

PATENT CASE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The High Court to-day gave judgment in an appeal in a patent case. In the original action the Aktiebolaget Separator, a corporate body, established under the laws of Sweden, was plaintiff; and Alfred Ballantyne and William Arthur Laing, trading as the Pump Separator Agency, were defendants. At the hearing Mr. Justice A'Beckett said the plaintiff corporation sought to restrain the infringement of a patent form of cream separator. The alleged infringement was by the importing and sale by defendants in 1912 and 1913 of cream separators, known as the Herkules separator. His Honor found that there had been an infringement.

Defendant appealed to the High Court, which held that the decision of Mr. Justice A'Beckett was right, and dismissed the appeal.

A PLEA FOR THE POLES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—May I be allowed through your journal to say that, at this horrible time for a gifted and once great nation, I think everyone who bears the name of Christian should call to mind the fact that but for a Pole Europe might now be under the heel of the Turk, and living in the faith of Islam.

Truly did Solyman the Magnificent boast that he ruled over three continents for the little tribe of nomad Turks (who, driven forth by the Mongols, had settled in Anatolia), within the space of 300 years overthrew Servian, Bulgarian, Hungarian; conquered Arabia, Syria, Egypt, Mesopotamia, Northern Africa; destroyed the Roman (Byzantine) Empire; ruled from Hungary to the Persian Gulf; and in 1683 sat down before the walls of Vienna; the destruction of the Hapsburgs was imminent. Who alone was able to stay the march of this ever-victorious army? John Sobieski, the Pole, and for the first time the Turks were overthrown in a series of crushing defeats.

This happened before the present oppressor of the Poles, the Prussian, had established his monarchy (1701). How badly Frederick II. requited the services of John Sobieski. In 1772 he was the first to propose the partition of Poland; and again in 1792, under Frederick William, his successor, notwithstanding Prussia's treaty guaranteeing Poland (what was left), Poland was again attacked (how history repeats itself!), and the second violent partition made, the protector taking another big slice from his protegee.

Does William II. ever reflect when his armies are devastating Poland, as they have done Belgium, that but for a Pole the Hohenzollern dynasty might never have reigned in Germany? Does he remember the escape of Christianity in Europe from being overwhelmed by Islam when he seeks to induce the Sultan to institute a holy war against Christians to-day?

To think that this gifted nation of born poets and musicians, the nation of John Sobieski, should be suffering all the horrors of war as made in Germany. Do they not deserve pity—help—as much as Belgian, Servian, or any?

I am, etc., G. P. HARP.

WAGES BOARDS.

NO INCREASES DURING THE WAR.

SPECIAL CASES EXCEPTED.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the sitting of the Industrial Court to-day the Colliery Mechanics' Mutual Protective Association made application for a new award and the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association asked for an award governing the employees of East Greta and Hebburn companies' lines.

Mr. Justice Edmunds said that the Industrial Arbitration Court had laid down certain general rules with reference to the effect of the war, and applications for increases of rates of pay during the war. Those general rules must be formally observed during the continuance of the war. They were to the effect that, generally speaking, where there was no special consideration affecting the claims application for increases of rates of pay during the currency of the war could not be entertained. He need not go into reasons for that decision, for those could be ascertained on reference to the judgment. Consequently, if such an application were made, it needed to be supported by evidence of special circumstance, showing that the case did not fall within that general rule. Cases that did not fall within it were those in which the industry had not been injured as to profits by the occurrence of the war, and where the increase of wages would not result in detriment to the general community by increasing the cost of living during the war. What the Court had laid down was a preliminary inquiry, which must be entered into by every board, and so he had called this meeting to give Mr. Waller an opportunity of presenting his case on the preliminary matter.

Mr. Waller said that the coal trade had not been affected in any way. In view of the conditions now prevailing at the collieries, the Mechanics' Union contended that the war had made no difference.

Mr. Thompson, on behalf of the Railway and Tramway Association, said that he had noticed in the papers that the East Greta Company had paid a 10 per cent. dividend. He contended that the war had not affected the conditions.

Mr. Justice Edmunds said that they could apply for a renewal of the old award and the agreement for a short time as a matter of urgency. If they wished to press the claims for increases, then that preliminary inquiry to which he referred would have to be entered upon.

NO SUSPENSION.

NEW ZEALAND DECISION.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

The Arbitration Court decided that the hearing of industrial disputes should go on during the war. In giving judgment the Court said it was never intended that the entire machinery of the Act should remain inoperative for the whole period of the war. The object of the Court was to refrain from making awards until a reasonable time had elapsed after the commencement of the war in order that the effect of the war upon commerce and industries might be properly understood and appreciated. After nine months it was safe to say that the general consensus of opinion of those best qualified to know was that, although certain industries were suffering from the effects of the war, the Dominion as a whole was singularly free from any ill-effects, and enjoying a degree of prosperity quite remarkable in the circumstances, largely due, doubtless, to the exceptionally high prices being obtained for all our primary products. That being the case, the Court could see no reason for refusing to resume its functions. The Court would in no case make an award without reserving to itself the right at any time, in the event of exceptional conditions arising, to cancel, suspend, or amend such award on the application of either of the parties or of its own motion.

MARIST BROTHERS AT THE FRONT.

A Sydney Marist has received a letter from one of the Brothers in Italy, in which he says: "The Marist Brothers in Belgium and France, where 500 are at the front, and those in Turkey, Syria, and Mexico are in the midst of severe trials resulting from the war. Some have fallen in the trenches. The Brothers in those countries all require financial aid."

Another insult to the United States flag in Mexico has aroused bitter feeling. Zapatistas murdered M'Manus, and looted his house.

FINANCIAL.

SYDNEY AND SUBURBAN HYDRAULIC.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the above company was held yesterday, Mr. James Angus occupying the chair. Resolutions were carried appointing Messrs. James Angus and Frank Grimley directors of the company to overcome any invalidity in their elections at the ordinary general meeting.

Mr. E. Vickery suggested that as a large number of shareholders was present to find out the positon of affairs, some statement would not be out of place. There was a belief current that if there was any strong competition between hydraulic and electric lifts, the former would go to the wall. He wanted to see if something could be done for those shareholders who had placed their all in the company, believing it to be a safe investment. Personally, he favoured amalgamation.

Mr. Grimley said that he thought a discussion on the comparative merits of hydraulic and electric lifts would be out of place, and would lead nowhere. A suggestion for amalgamation had appeared in the press. That particular scheme he did not favour, but the directors would be open to receive any suggestions.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The oil market was steady yesterday, but linseed was rather uncertain owing to the apparent slowness of B.S. and Co.'s oil to respond to the advance in spot pipes, now quoted at the equivalent of 2/9½ per gallon. No word had been received altering the quotation of the proprietary line from 2/9½, announced at the commencement of the week. Turpentine was strong at 3/9 for Pinetree, and 3/10 for Pratt's. Judging by inquiries, there was a strong demand for the spirit. Whitelead had sales at £44. Redlead was worth £38. All Eastern oils were quoted higher, with a tendency to advance. Copra was stagnant owing to freight difficulties still standing in the way. The quotation was purely nominal at £20/10/ per ton for sundried in bags f.o.b. export steamer.

Shipments of bran, pollard, and oats were announced as being on their way from Japan, and it was stated that the shipments would be heavier were freight available.

Another substantial rise was cabled in caustic soda, the third since the outbreak of war. Again there is increased freight to be taken into consideration. Caustic soda landed this week cost 35/ freight. Later on the cost for freight will be 40/, and on shipments now being loaded at Manchester 50/ per ton will be paid. There was a keen inquiry for bluestone from Queensland and from the west.

In metal lines tinplates were firmer. One hundred boxes of 28 x 20 sold at 42/6 per ton. For 20 x 14 cables quoted 19/4½ c.i.f. and e. There was inquiry for barbed wire for export. Imported wire-netting, 36 x 1½ x 18B, had some good sales equal to the trade rate for the Australian manufactured netting.

In grocery lines Maconochie's fresh herrings and herrings in tomato sauce were sold in fair-sized parcels, fresh realising 6/7½ per dozen, and in sauce 8/1½. For halves in sauce 5/ to 5/3 was paid. Canary seed was quoted higher from London. Morocean seed offering at £31/10/ c.i.f. and e. Stocks were said to be low.

The tea market was strong yesterday. At the auction sales, two being held, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, competition was good, and for the Ceylons prices paid were a shade higher than those realised at the auction a fortnight ago. Four hundred and thirty packages of Ceylons were sold at from /10 to 1/1. Seventy-five packages of Chinas excited keen competition up to /8½. The whole of the Javas offered were cleared up to /11.

Cables from London stated that ordinary pekoe was selling at /11 per lb, and commonest tea of all descriptions at /10½.

Some further improvement was apparent in cornsacks. Melbourne was again endeavouring to exploit the Sydney market by attempting to break 6/ net, but with little success. It appears that all Melbourne cornsacks outside of those held by the Calcutta pool have been sold. Branbags were firmer at 5/ net. Woolpacks were offered at 3/4 net on spot, and 3/ net season's shipment. A little business was done in orebags, 16oz being worth 4/4½, and 20oz 4/9, usual terms.

Silk was cabled from Japan as higher, with the tendency still upwards.

MONDAY'S HOMEBUSH OFFERINGS.

The number of sheep and cattle listed for Monday's sales at the Homebush yards is as follows:—
Sheep (including lambs) 48,339

BREADSTUFFS.

PROHIBITION OF FLOUR EXPORT.

In view of the general opinion of the trade that the actual yield of the harvest was not up to the estimate, and that it will prove to be below the requirements of the State, the prohibition of the export of flour next month was generally anticipated. The order will not be made a moment too soon, considering that the Government has destroyed all natural trade in wheat and flour and offals, and has forced it on abnormal lines by fixing maximum prices which are far below the true values. Any importation which is done will have to be done by the Government. No miller will import wheat at prices above the artificially fixed rate here, because if he sells at what the flour costs him he will sell at a loss, and dare not sell above the fixed price. Perhaps he may mix a little maize meal with his flour, and call it by some other name, following the example of a produce merchant who mixed oats with chickwheat when prices were first fixed, and declared that he could not be successfully prosecuted because the price of mixed wheat and oats had not been fixed. Flour sold yesterday at £11/17/6 per ton, pollard at £8, and bran at £7/10/. Bran and pollard are on the way from Japan.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 267 tons of wheat and 70 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

BACON GETTING EASIER.
EGG MARKET SETTLES DOWN.

The egg market was beginning to settle down yesterday. On Thursday it was found that many buyers refused to pay 2/2 for the choicest new-laids, and, as a result, several houses had something of a surplus. Again, in a few isolated instances, 2/2 was secured for really excellent graded goods, but generally the market was a 2/ one. The market for case eggs was also firmer. The Clarence River boat only brought small supplies, and river eggs were quoted at 1/5 to 1/6. The Manning River boat is still barbound, but is expected in time for Monday's market. Railways were selling well at 1/6 to 1/7.

One house reduced the price of ordinary brands of bacon by ½d, making quotations as follows:—Sides /9 to /9½, flitches /8 to /8½, middles /10 to /10½.

The poultry market was again over supplied with old hens and young chickens.

Quotations were:—

Eggs were in good demand. The poultry market was glutted and over-supplied, consequently prices were low, especially for young turkeys and old hens.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

STRONG MARKET FOR MAIZE.

There was a particularly strong market for maize in the forage and grain section of Sussex-street yesterday. The consignments which arrived by the Kyogle, from the Clarence River, were on the market, but a large proportion of the shipment had been booked up prior to arrival. The price was fixed at 5/9, but it was stated that one or two holders were refusing to sell their produce at this figure. Buyers, generally, were in a perturbed state of mind on this account. Fresh shipments are expected on Monday, when it is likely a further alteration in the price will be made. There is a considerable demand at present from Victoria and from the Southern Riverina, in the latter case for the purpose of feeding starving stock. Prices in Melbourne, at present, are at 6/3 to 6/4, and, thus, if the quotation here on Monday went to 6/—as it seems reasonable to suppose it will—export would not be feasible. A small consignment of maize from Java arrived during the week, but the amount only represents a small proportion of what there is a demand for. Most of it was disposed of immediately at 5/2.

The market for oats was again firm. Giants generally were quoted at 5/4, but a few parcels of prime quality changed hands at 5/5. Next week, however, is likely to see another advance of 1d. In New Zealand prices have continued to advance for some time, and the suspension of duty in Victoria caused a sudden jump of /3 per bushel. Now, however, the Government prohibition of export has unsettled the market, and it is thought that prices will ease.

The potato market was unchanged. The Tasmanian shipment on Monday will be about the same as last week, and quotations will probably remain unchanged. The New Zealand market is higher than was expected, and it is believed that in most districts crops will only be fair.

At the firewood auction sales 13 trucks were offered. Prices generally were slightly lower.

RAILWAY MARKET.

A fair yarding of produce was offered at auction to a moderate attendance of buyers at the Sydney Goods Shed yesterday morning. MINING.

STILL UNSETTLED.

There was not much character about the market yesterday. The most noticeable feature was a continuance of the retrograde movement in share values.

Various explanations were ventured as to the cause of the sudden pronounced decline in the price of Barriers. It was a case of "You pays your money and you takes your choice" as to which explanation is the most feasible. One statement was to the effect that a hitch has occurred in London over the negotiations for an amalgamation of the interests of the Broken Hill Proprietary, Broken Hill South, Broken Hill North, Zinc Corporation, British Broken Hill, and Broken Hill Junction North, under which arrangement the zinc concentrates produced by that important group of mines would be smelted at Port Pirie.

But a leading operator remarked, "I do not guarantee there is any truth in the rumour. It does not appear to have crystallised into a definite statement from any one of the numerous body of directors interested in the list of companies you mention. To my mind the cause of the decline is due to the fact that the market wanted values back, and back they had to come. There may be something in the statement that the last mail from London brought out some scrip that had to be taken up locally. London since the start of the war has been a seller—never a buyer. Now that the stringency in scrip is over, values are bound to come back, and that is just what happened."

In the copper division, Corellas were a shade easier, probably in consequence of the receipt of information that owing to the difficulty of transport, due to a breakdown of motor lorries, the smelter will run half pace for a few days, pending the coke supply being replenished. Hampdens commanded steady support at the previous day's ruling rates. A pronounced improvement in the demand for Mammoth Copper failed to draw sellers; but there was no vigour in the call for Mount Morgans and Wallaroo and Moontas, whilst Mount Lyells were a shade easier.

The outstanding feature of the Barrier division was the persistent selling of Broken Hill Proprietary, which receded from 40/6 on Thursday morning to 39/3 yesterday afternoon—a marked change from the 42/6 recorded earlier in the week. The balance of Broken Hill stocks was adversely affected by this retrograde movement in the parent mine.

The tin division was still on the weak side, with the volume of business likewise very much affected.

MINING NOTES.

A recovery of 138oz of gold in 251 hours is reported by the managing director at Bright of the Buckland River Gold Dredging Company.

Reporting on March 23, the manager of the Black Range mine (W.A.) states:—"No. 2 south level: Extended 15 feet in vein matter, but carrying no payable ore. Making little water. No. 3 south level: Extended 20 feet, still in country rock; expect intersect reef in further 80 feet of driving."

During the fortnight ended March 17 1258 tons of ore, of an average value of 10dwt 1gr of gold per ton, were raised at the Occidental gold mine, Cobar, and sent to the battery. The quantity of ore won shows that stoping was carried out on a fairly extensive scale, and the result was satisfactory, both as regards the size of the ore bodies, and their average gold values. The battery ran full time, and produced 14 tons of concentrates, containing approximately 155oz gold. The cyanide works treated 1467 tons, containing 567oz, and recovered 484oz of fine gold.

The Great Britain Sluicing Company reports that the Britain tributers cleaned up, after sluicing 113 hours, for an estimated yield of 4 tons tin oxide.

The Black Range West Gold-mining Company, N.T., has been placed on the official list of the Sydney Stock Exchange. The authorised capital is £15,000, in 60,000 shares of 5s each; whilst the subscribed capital consists of 60,000 shares, paid to 6d each.

The manager of Potter's silver mine, near Condobolin, reports for the week ended March 20, as follows:—"No. 4 level has been driven 5ft 6in, making a total of 98ft, ore in face 9in, fair quality. Stoping all on good-grade ore of 8in. Ore bagged for week, six tons."

Reporting for the fortnight ended March 20, the manager of the Mudgee Slates, Ltd., reports:—"Cleared the overburden of soil 6ft deep from the top of the slate for 15ft and 12ft wide, and drove top of cut 6ft. The slate we went through is very much the same as what we met with the other fortnight." Things are looking very bright.

The master of the New Associated Gold Dredging Company reports only a short week's run, owing to bucket troubles. The wash-up was 9oz 11dwt.

The Victory mine (Charters Towers) reports a crushing of 223 tons of ore for 200oz of gold. The value of the product, which also included some concentrates, is £906/15/5.

Details of the scheme agreed upon will be submitted at an early date to shareholders of the B.H. South Silver-mining Company and the North Broken Hill, Ltd., for their ratification.

MINING IN THE STATE.

LITHGOW, Friday.

Reports from Mount David show that the new find on the company's leases is situated just behind the manager's house, and is believed to be the true reef of the mine, the discovery of which has hitherto always baffled those seeking for it. A Sydney director has been at Mount David during the week making further investigations, and a decision as to the policy to be pursued is awaited with much interest.

PAMBULA, Thursday.

Considerable interest has been aroused here lately by the alleged discovery of a rich molybdenite lode at South Pambula, on what is known as Whitby's Hill. In all about 70 acres of land have been pegged out in hopes of it proving valuable.

COLONIAL SUGAR COMPANY.

THE RECONSTRUCTION PROPOSALS.

SCHEME DESCRIBED.

A special meeting of the shareholders of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, Ltd., was held yesterday, when the chairman explained the resolutions, which have already been published.

The chairman said they adopted, many years ago, the practice of leaving in the business the large amounts which would otherwise have been set aside for depreciation of the plant. The consequence has been that the amounts so made available for extending the scope of their operations were equal to the book value of their assets in New Zealand and Fiji. For what had been done in this way there was no need to offer any justification, except by saying that in Great Britain this system was a recognised one, and, if their business were domiciled there, a change in their constitution like that now proposed would not be regarded as necessary, or even expedient. Here, however, circumstances were different, and it was to meet existing local conditions that they proposed a step from which the company could derive no advantage beyond that of disclosing to all concerned the outlay on their ventures in and outside of Australia.

The half of their business outside the Commonwealth would, on March 31, represent about £3,250,000, and their proposal was that the new company would have preference shares of that amount; while £250,000 in ordinary shares would be subscribed by the parent company to provide the necessary working capital. The preference shares would be distributed among their shareholders rateably, each receiving one of £20 for every share then held. The shares thus allotted in the new company would carry a 6 per cent. cumulative preference dividend, which would, of course, take precedence of any dividend on the ordinary shares held by the Australian company, and, as to the latter, they proposed that the dividend should not exceed 6 per cent. until a reserve equal to one year's dividend on the preference shares had been set apart and invested outside the business. But it must not be thought that this 6 per cent. preference dividend would be an addition to their present income from the company. On the contrary it would come out of this, and, as he had said at the outset, they had no reason to suppose that the proposed division of their assets would bring more profit to distribute. Nor would there be any alteration in regard to the control of the business. It was their intention that the same board and management should work the separated businesses, and that, as far as was possible, everything should go on in this way as at present. For this reason the investment should be regarded as a whole. Accordingly, if any of them wanted to sell their holding, it would be better to sell the shares in both companies rather than the holding in one.

As the interests of the new company in Fiji would be much larger than those in New Zealand, the registration would be in the former colony, but provision would be made for share registers in Sydney and Suva and Auckland, while the dividends would be obtainable at any of their Australasian branches. The allotment of the shares would be made in May or June. These were all the details that he could give until they could place the accounts before shareholders, and he had now to move the adoption of the resolutions of which notice had been given. The first was for the amendment of the clause relating to the payment of dividends, and the object of the alteration was to make more simple the distribution of the shares of the new company, while still retaining for the shareholders the power they then had to declare the dividends to be paid. The second resolution was worded so that a general meeting might decide that shares, or other assets, received for the sale of the company's property might be distributed rateably among the proprietors. They could, therefore, allot the shares in the new company to shareholders without any cash passing, if this addition be made to their deed. The first paragraph of the new clause was so simple that explanation was not necessary. The second paragraph had nothing to do with the present business. It was proposed to add the provision because this might be wanted if the English Companies Act be adopted in Australia. One of the clauses of that Act dealt with contracts in regard to dividends, and it was desirable that the board should have the power of appointment to sign such contracts; so their solicitors had advised them to ask shareholders to pass the clause as drawn.

The resolutions were agreed to.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

An advertisement for lodgers led to the arrest of David John Wilson, a cook, 60 years of age, at Carlton yesterday, and he was subsequently charged with bigamy, and also with having sent a letter to his wife in August, 1894, threatening to murder her.

When a warrant on the latter charge was issued about 20 years ago Wilson could not be found.

Recently he came to Melbourne. A brother-in-law, J. Neville, inserted an advertisement in the newspapers for lodgers. It was answered by a man who gave the name of Muir, and about a week ago the man moved into a room with a woman, who he had said was his wife, and one child. Neville met his lodger for the first time on Wednesday night, and he immediately suspected that he was his brother-in-law, against whom a warrant had been issued 20 years before. He informed the police, and Wilson was arrested.

From tickets found in his pockets it appeared that he had been travelling for many years through New South Wales and Victoria, earning his living as a station cook.

It is alleged that he married a woman in 1909, his wife being still alive.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Another rapid movement has taken place in the different pressure systems. The Antarctic disturbance, which on Thursday was centrally situated to the west of Tasmania, has moved during the 24 hours ended at 9 am. yesterday at least 900 miles, and is at present situated over the Southern Tasman Sea.

The eastern high pressure has moved a little to the north-east, and has lost slightly in barometric values, but the western one still maintains the same weight as on Thursday, and is rather more favourably situated, the centre being well to the south of the Bight.

Other good features in the isobaric conditons yesterday morning were that the monsoonal tongue had moved further south, and had also become more definite; also that cloudy weather existed over the whole of North-west Queensland, whereas yesterday the skies were all clear.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally southerly winds on the New South Wales coast; moderate south-east on the North Queensland coast; stormy indications on the north-western coast of Western Australia.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Metropolitan sporting folk will this afternoon have the choice of horseracing at Clarendon, under the auspices of the Hawkesbury Race Club, and trotting at Victoria Park, under the management of the Australian Trotting Club. The Maitland Jockey Club holds its March reunion at Rutherford, and at Goulburn the local Eight-Hours Association brings off a race meeting. Melbourne sporting folk assemble at Aspendale Park, and South Queenslanders are catered for by the Ipswich Jockey Club.

The New South Wales Trotting Club holds its Easter Meeting on Monday next on the Epping Racecourse, and a high-class programme forshadows good sport. Included in the bill-of-fare is the Seventh Sires' Produce Stakes, a classic race for two-year-olds, run in two divisions—hoppled and unhoppled. The horses engaged in the other events include the best talent in commission. The customary means of transit from the city to the convincing ground will be in vogue; while a special train conveying horses and passengers leaves Richmond at 8.45 a.m. on the day of the races, returning the same evening.

The Australian Trotting Club holds a meeting on the Victoria Park Racecourse this afternoon, in aid of the funds of the Mater Misericordiae Hospital, North Sydney, and the bill-of-fare promises interesting sport. A number of high-class trotters are engaged, and the track is excellent going. Special trams land visitors at the racecourse gates, and the ordinary service to Zetland will also be available. The first event is timed to start at 2.30 p.m.

Up to 4 p.m. on Monday next the secretary, Mr. Edwin Woodbury, will receive nominations for the half-dozen events on the programme for the meeting of the Wyong Park Racing Club on the 6th prox. The prize-money aggregates 275 sovs, of which 65 sovs goes to the Wyong Park Handicap, 50 sovs to the Flying Handicap, and 40 sovs to each of the other events.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that Philio and Hush Money will be sent to Sydney by boat to-day, for the A.J.C. Meeting. They ran half-a-mile in 52s on the tan at Flemington yesterday, and will work again this morning before leaving for Sydney.

Business in the local betting market was pretty quiet yesterday. Woorak held his place at the head of the quotations for the Doncaster Handicap four points ahead of Giru and Hush Money; Spurn, Merrimee, and Traquette were a couple of points further back, and a like number in advance of Eugeny, Garlin, Aleconner, and Portrush. Ulva's Isle was still a short-priced favourite for the Sydney Cup four points in front of St. Spasa, who was a similar number of points from Cisco, Carlita, and Moonbria; Onaser was two points further off, and a like number in advance of Sir Alwynton, Wishing Cap, and Wallachia.

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB.

AUTUMN MEETING.

ANTICIPATIONS.

Metropolitan racegoers will this afternoon assemble at the Clarendon racecourse to assist at the autumn reunion of the Hawkesbury Race Club, and the bill of fare to be discussed should attract a large gathering. A large number of horses holding important engagements at Randwick next month will be out under colours, and the sport promises to be more than ordinarily interesting on that account. The management has made all possible provision for a pleasant outing, especially in the catering department, and the track is reported to be excellent going. The transit arrangements by rail include seven specials, starting from the Central Railway Station at 10 (horses), 11, 11.22, and 11.56 a.m., and 12.27, 12.29, and 12.56 p.m. It may be noted that the 12.56 p.m. train will not arrive at Clarendon until after the first race. Motor cars will be admitted to the reserve by the new entrance from the main Richmond road.

The sport commences at 2.15 p.m. with the Flying Handicap, in which Gigandra, Brattle, Eugeny, Portrush, and other well-known sprinters hold engagements, and they should have the settlement of the question among them. Gigandra should act well under 9st 12lb, while Brattle, Portrush, and Eugeny also appear to have good prospects, and a highly interesting contest may result in Gigandra, Eugeny, and Brattle passing the post in that order.

A large field is promised for the Two-years-old Handicap, and the race wears a very open appearance. Lord Malt, Wedding Day, Halbronn, and Corrikie should be in the fighting line towards the finish, and the numbers may be hoisted for Lord Malt, Corrikie, and Halbronn.

Gay Gun, Infantine, and Grab Apple may get home as named in the Park Stakes.

A good race is foreshadowed for the Autumn Handicap, in which the most prominent parts may be played by Wishing Cap, Taunter, Frasca, King Mostyn, and Secret Service, and the judge may declare for Wishing Cap, Secret Service, and Taunter.

The Highweight Handicap brings the meeting to a close, and the finish may be fought out among Balustrade, Sanguine, Pedestrian, Hobble Skirt, and Toast, and the places may be occupied by Hobble Skirt, Sanguine, and Toast.

MR. C. MURRAY-GIBBES' CONCERT

Mr. C. Murray-Gibbes, a young Sydney baritone, who has been away since his early student days, for five years in London and Paris, made his reappearance at St. James's Hall last night, when his many friends braved the wet weather in order to welcome his return. In a group by Oliver, Quilter, and Widor, he revealed a baritone of pleasant quality, somewhat restricted in effective range, but generally employed with musical taste. These qualities won him an encore, which took the form of the gaily, sparkling little song "Down in Lovers' Lane" (Marshall). The baritone was especially well suited by Sanderson's "Until," as encore to which he accompanied himself in his own new popular love-song, "A Red Rose Bud." Tenderly rendered, this quite caught the fancy of the house, and there was a double encore. Several other compositions by Mr. Murray-Gibbes were brought forward. The principal success was "Just Memories," a melodious song of sentiment in which Miss Vera Watt's rich contralto voice was used with warmth and enthusiasm. Mr. Sid Macdonald was heartily encored for the same composer's "Why do I Love Thee So," to which he responded with "Mairie, My Girl." Satiety, arising from "something too much of sweets," was caused by the character of the programme, but happily Mr. Frank Hutchens, a pianist of merit, was at hand with the more inspired strains of Chopin, Schutt, and Henselt, and the musical monologues of Mr. Harry Thomas further varied the entertainment. Miss Vera Barnett accompanied with much taste.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

"Cinderella" every evening at 7.45, and with its bi-weekly harlequinade matinees for children on Wednesdays and Saturdays, is drawing vast audiences to Her Majesty's Theatre. Messrs. Lupino and M'Ardle keep up the fun briskly as principal comedians, with Misses Love, Castles, and Ghilioni as indispensable characters in the fairy fable. Beautiful ballets and dazzling marches busy up the entertainment.

CRITERION THEATRE.

At the Criterion Theatre George Broadhurst's play upon one aspect of the marriage problem illustrates, under the title of "Bought and Paid For," a painful situation that may possibly arise. This is treated dramatically by Mr. Chas. Millward and Miss Sylvia Bremer, whilst important comedy roles are amusingly sustained by Mr. William Harrigan and Miss Dorothy Davies.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"A Royal Divorce" enters this evening upon its last six nights at the Theatre Royal, where the final matinee will be given on Wednesday. These will prove Mr. Julius Knight's farewell appearances as the Man of Destiny. Miss Irene Browne imparts a touch of indomitable resolution and enthusiasm to the character of Josephine in the big scene with the traitorous Beaumont. War tableaux and picturesque scenery mark the production.

"THE LIFEGUARDSMAN."

Next Saturday Julius Knight will appear in a new character in Walter Howard's dramatic play, "The Lifeguardsman." This piece will form the Easter attraction for his fast-closing season, and will be elaborately staged. The scene of the new drama will be in the imaginary Kingdom of Lividia, of which Dorine is the hereditary princess, in which character Miss Irene Browne will make her farewell appearance. Mr. Knight's farewell will be as Alexis, Prince of Calvaria ("the Lifeguardsman").

LITTLE THEATRE RE-OPENING.

The Little Theatre will re-open its doors on Saturday night next when Miss Violet Paget, new to the reins of actress-management, will bring her company back from Brisbane. "Liberty Hall" will be the first offering as the Easter attraction at the comfortable little Castlereagh-street house, where Mr. W. Noble will again be in charge as business manager. Mr. Arthur Cornell will take the leading character part. Miss Paget intends to have fortnightly changes of the bill, and the best seats will be reduced from 5s to 4s. The reappearance of Miss Paget, supported by many artists who made a name with her last year, should be warmly welcomed.

ADELPHI.—"SINBAD THE SAILOR."

This afternoon at 1.45, and again at 7.45, the George Willoughby direction will stage William Anderson's pantomime, "Sinbad the Sailor," at popular prices, with a new English artist, Olive Marston, as principal boy, and the favourite Irish humorist, Maggie Moore, as the Widow Sinbad. A long cast will also include D'Arcy Kelway and Frank Crossley as comic sailormen, Edwin Campbell as Hassan, John Ralston as King Kopaz, Eugene Osipoff as the Demon King, Nellie Holroyd as Zoe, Rita Renas as Badoura, Aimee Kelly as Fairy Queen, Florence Faning as Princess Araminta. The Deck of H.M.A.S. Sydney, the Forest Underneath the Sea, and the transformation, "The Might of Britain," will be included in the many scenes.

THE ALLEN DOONE SEASON.

On Saturday evening next Mr. Allen Doone will open his season of romantic Irish plays at the Palace Theatre, where he will first stage the picturesque costume comedy-drama "Barry of Ballymore." This piece drew large audiences about two years ago, and, as before, there will again be a charming scene at Bannon Hall, when a group of trained children will join in the dance, which forms the dainty background to the Irish tenor's song, "Eyes of Irish Blue." Miss Edna Keeley will be seen as Lady Mary Bannon, the vivacious heroine of the love-story. The plan will be at Paling's, as notified.

ROYAL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

On Thursday, April 15, the Royal Philharmonic Society will perform two new modern works at the Town Hall, namely Elgar's "The Music Makers," and Hamish McCunn's "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." Mr. Joseph Bradley will conduct an orchestra (leader, Henri Staell) and chorus of about 400 performers in these fine works, in the first of which the only soloist will be Miss Ella Caspers. This favourite contralto will be associated with Miss Pauline Bindley (soprano), Mr. Phillip Wilson (tenor), and Mr. Malcolm McEachern (basso), in the musical setting of Scott's poem. The plan will open at Paling's on Thursday, April 8. New subscribers for the year may now join.

TOWN HALL—THE IRISH PIPERS.

The Irish Pipe Band from Melbourne will make their first appearance in Sydney this evening in the Town Hall, at the first of two Irish concerts, arranged by Messrs. J. and N. Tait. The band will be supported by Irish singers and dancers. The programme to-night will include pipe band selections, "Let Erin Remember the Days of Old," "The Rakes of Mallow," "The White Cockade," "St. Patrick's Day." The list of artists will include Miss Vera Carew (soprano), Mr. Ambrose McMahon (baritone), Mr. Pat. Coleman (tenor), and other artists. The plans are at Nicholson's.

CLARE SCARR'S BELGIAN CONCERT.

Warringah Hall, Neutral Bay, was well filled on Tuesday night last, when Miss Clare Scarr gave a concert in aid of the Belgian Relief Fund, by which between £30 and £35 (net) will be realised. The Paris-trained contralto sang "The Birds Go North Again," and "In May Time," with Bizet's "Habanera" as encore. Her dramatic rendering of Carmen's seductive air excited fresh enthusiasm. The whole entertainment was enjoyed, as generous help was given by Miss Lynn Mills, Mrs. Mowat Carter, Messrs. Frank Hutchens, F. Mowat Carter, Charles Smythe, and Ernest Woodgate.

SYDNEY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

This institution will celebrate its twenty-first anniversary in August next, and the council has decided to mark this event by disbursing the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds, in the form of special prizes, to each of the local centres in connection with this college. The competition will be open without fee to students holding an S.C.M. certificate, and will be conducted entirely apart from the usual College examinations. Details will shortly be advertised in the daily press.

It may be of interest to mention that when the Council loses an official member it is customary to perpetuate his memory by a medal awarded annually, each medal bearing a characteristic "in memoriam" feature. The list to date is as follows:—Neville Barnett (theoretical work), Frederick Hallewell (singing), Montague Younger (organ), Guglielmo Lardelli (composition), John Delany (violin), Alexander Rea (piano).

SYDNEY AMATEUR ORCHESTRA.

This evening the Sydney Amateur Orchestra, under Mr. Francis Knowles (hon. conductor), will give their second popular concert at St. James' Hall, when the "Raymond" overture (Ambroise Thomas), and German's "Henry VIII." suite of incidental dances, will be rendered. Misses Vera McDonald, Winnie Bernard, Messrs. W. B. White and Aston, will assist, and, in comedy, Harry Leston and Althea Glasby.

"COOINOO" BELGIAN FETE.

In aid of the Belgian Famine Fund a juvenile entertainment will be given this afternoon (3.15) at "Cooinoo," Turramurra, where to-night (8.15) Mrs. J. R. Wood (Essie Jenyns), Graham Moffatt (author of "Bunty"), Walter Bentley, Roland Foster, Vost Janssen, Amy Murphy, Vera Watt, Gypsy Middlehurst, and Bertram Flonn, will assist in the same good cause. Tickets at Paling's, the Flonn Studios, and Circular Quay Bookstalls.

WALTER BENTLEY PLAYERS.

On Wednesday next the Walter Bentley Players will make their first appearance this year at the Repertory Theatre. Half the proceeds will be given to the Belgian Fund. The pieces to be performed are "Cleopatra Reigns," "He Pays His Debts," "A Japanese Love Story," "The Minister's Daughter," in which Mr. Bentley appears as Jacob Fletcher, the Minister.

"NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTER."

The last four nights of the remarkable film, "Neptune's Daughter," at the Palace Theatre are announced. The chief actress in the production is the famous Annette Kellerman, whose swimming and diving have gained her world-wide renown. The beauty and originality of the story, as well as the clearness and ease with which the story may be followed, are features which combine to make a visit to the Palace very enjoyable.

On Good Friday afternoon and evening the great sacred picture-drama "From Manger to Cross" will be screened.

WIRTH'S CIRCUS.

Good houses have marked the week at Wirth's Circus in Prince Alfred Park. Extraordinary popularity has greeted the new artists, especially M. Mitch Mamiev, the Russian Cossack, in his dashing riding act. The Three Hassans appear in a refined tight wire act. Their feats include tricks with an ordinary cycle on the wire, and M. Hassan is said to be the only artist in the world to ride a monocycle 8ft in height across the wire. A benefit matinee on behalf of the Belgian Relief Fund is being arranged.

PICTURE BLOCK THEATRES.

The feature of next week's showing at the Crystal Palace will be an adaptation of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks." Added to the original story is a specially written prologue by the authoress. The production is complete in detail, and the romance loses little of its force in the screening. At the Lyric "The Escape"—a powerful drama of the underworld, heads a list which includes also some interesting gazettes and topical budget. "Anne of the Mines" is the feature film at the Empress Theatre. It is a story of love and hate by the Vitagraph Co., and should appeal to picture devotees. "Fatty's Echo," "His Prior Claim," and "Love Speed and Thrills" are also on the programme. A remarkable detective story called "Mystery of the Tea Dreams" is the leading film of a good programme at the Colonial. There are many others that will interest and amuse.

WEST'S PICTURES.

There will be matinees this afternoon at both West's, Glaciarium and Olympia theatres. "Rose and the Thorn," a Vitagraph star, will be screened this evening for the last time. On Monday this will be replaced by the fifth instalment of "The Adventures of Kathlyn" series, in which the graceful Kathlyn Williams may be seen to advantage. Crowded houses have followed the adventures of this artiste, and the sixth instalment completes the drama. With this drama on Monday is included the latest English Gazette, a Keystone comedy entitled "Dark Love's Play," and other dramas and war specials.

SPENCER' PICTURES.

The new feature for presentation at Spencer's Lyceum on Monday is a four-reel film biography entitled "The Hundred Days," a vivid and accurate record of the second dawn and eclipse of Napoleon's career. The picture portrays the life of the Man of Destiny from his flight from the Isle of Elba up to his final effort on the field of Waterloo and the banishment to St. Helena. The battle is portrayed with wonderful realism, and among the many historical incidents shown are the charge of Chain, the heroic Square and the ridge of Hougemont. The film is a succession of beautiful tableaux. Supporting subjects comprise Pathe's War Gazette, "Love, Speed, and Thrills" (Keystone comedy), "Heroes of the Sea," and "John Bull on Top" (cartoon).

THE ROBERT PARKER SEASON.

Messrs. J. and N. Tait, announce in another column that Mr. Robert Parker will make his reappearance here at the Town Hall in a brief series of concerts, two or three weeks hence. This operatic baritone was a foremost figure with the Quinlan Company, when he sang and acted splendidly all the great Wagnerian roles. He has a voice of remarkable power and range, and his return will form a musical event of exceptional interest. Miss Pinschof, a brilliant young soprano, will be the assisting artist.

BURNS' ANNIVERSARY CLUB.

The Burns' Anniversary Club will give their monthly concert at the Protestant Hall to-night, when the club's brass band, and the choir will assist. The artists will include Misses Rica Nitzschman, Mary Macnicol, R. and Nelly Rouxel, Messrs. A. E. Benham, J. G. Yuill, the Highland dancing pupils of Mr. A. Cunningham. Mr. Wm. Donald will direct.

MR. JOSEPH FLANAGAN'S CONCERT.

A complimentary concert is to be tendered Mr. Joseph Flanagan (basso cantante, from the studio of Senor T. M. d'Allu) at the St. James's Hall on Saturday, April 10. Mr. Flanagan will be assisted in an attractive programme by Mrs. Pitt, Mr. J. Carlton Fay, Mr. Cyril Monk, and Mr. Charles Walshe. The plan opens at Paling's next Thursday.

WHITE CITY.

A marriage ceremony is to take place at the White City on Wednesday evening. The company is presenting the young couple with a wedding gift, and providing the marriage feast. On Thursday next, the first fancy dress ball of the season will be held, when cash prizes will be given for the best costumes. The grounds will be open to-day from 2.30 to 11 p.m., and special performances will be given by the Fearless Farukas on the 60ft high wire at 4.30 and 10.15.

OAKLAND.

LOOK FOR THE POINTED NICKEL RADIATOR.

It is an indisputable fact that "OAKLANDS" are the "big hit" of the year 1915. From the position of builders of exclusive high-grade cars, the Oakland Motor Car Co. have advanced year after year until to-day they command a large percentage of the high price trade. This year they announced the Model 37 a strictly high-grade car, in miniature—a product acknowledging no competition; not a cheap car at all—far from it. It is the most silent, most modern, the most elegantly equipped car ever sold in Australia.

INSPECT THIS CAR.

Do you know that the OAKLAND was the first low-priced car to fit the Delco self-starter; and now other firms are boasting about their new 1915 cars being fitted with this famous system. If you asked them last year about the DELCO they would have told you it was a failure, and handed you a small book entitled

SELF-STARTER FACTS.

Now they tell you only good cars are fitted with it.

MORE "CADILLAC" IMPROVEMENTS!

The "CADILLAC" manufacturers are constantly leading the way to the realisation of the perfect motor car. The other day, it was the self-starter; later on, the two-speed, direct-drive axle; and now, the latest development is the

EIGHT-CYLINDER "CADILLAC!"

One of these fine cars has reached our Garage, and we hope you will spare a little time to have a look at it. Its 8-cylinder Engine means heaps more flexibility—means that you get an infinitely wider range of speed. And the car we now invite you to inspect is than our other models. For those who, for one reason or another, prefer the lighter weight, this new model has been brought down to the irreducible minimum compatible with the general structural plan, power, carrying capacity, and last, but not least—safety.

Our SHOWROOM and GARAGE are NEAR TATTERSALL'S CLUB, and one of our demonstrators will willingly show you the new model, and explain it.

STILL WINNING.

"RUDGE" AND "TRIUMPH" MOTOR CYCLES OUTSTRIP ALL COMPETITORS.

At a sports meeting held at Leeton on Wednesday, March 17, "Rudge" and "Triumph" Motor Cycles again demonstrated their supreme efficiency. In the 6 miles Motor Cycle Race the results were as follows—

1st—H. J. NESBITT, JUNIOR, ON A "RUDGE."
2nd—"DICK" PROUDFORD, ON A "TRIUMPH."

It is worthy of note that there were several "good" makes competing, but all were badly beaten by the Rudge and Triumph. All who want a reliable motor cycle should see these splendid machines before purchasing. In every feature—reliability, speed, ease of control, and simplicity of mechanism—they are without rivals.

Call and inspect the latest models in our showroom—if you can't call write for Catalogues. Have you received a copy of our New Catalogue No. 45—Motor Cycle and Car Accessories?

MORE SUCCESSES FOR B. & B. CYCLES.

B. AND B. CYCLES ARE THE BEST VALUE OBTAINABLE. LATEST MODELS FROM £6/10/ UPWARDS.

The most flattering testimony to the superiority of B. and B. Cycles has just been received from Wellington, N.S.W. In a series of eight races from Jan. 26 to March 20 the riders of the B. and B. Cycles created a record.

The following were the results obtained:—1st, 2nd, and 3rd, and fastest time on four occasions. 1st, 2nd, and fastest time on two occasions. 1st, 3rd, and fastest time on two occasions.

This proves conclusively that for reliability and good service B. and B. Cycles cannot be surpassed. Call and see the B. and B. Models in our showroom any day, or on Friday evening, when we are open till 9. Send for Catalogue if you can't call—we post it free. Our New Catalogue No. 44 Cycle Sundries free on application.

THE CAR BUICK. THAT GLIDES.

March 20, 1915.

"The Buick car purchased from you is very satisfactory indeed. We are pleased with it for the price paid, and I think it is superior to any car that can be bought in Sydney for the money at the present time. A son of mine is thinking of purchasing a Buick also."

(Abstract from a letter received this week from a South Coast owner.)

on any woman's face are a cause of discomfort, and ruin her appearance. Fortunately, there is no sound reason why she should remain so afflicted when a PERMANENT PAINLESS CURE is available.

Electrolysis is the recognised treatment, and has proved its efficiency in thousands of cases; in fact, when the hair is removed by the hands of an expert it is nothing less than a certain and everlasting remedy. Its principal feature lies in the destruction and removal of the root of the hair, for if this is destroyed the hair cannot grow again.

I AM AN ELECTROLYSIS EXPERT, and am prepared to prove this to those ladies who will call for a

FREE TRIAL TREATMENT.

At this visit, which costs you nothing, I will demonstrate the process, and remove a few hairs, leaving my patient to say whether I am entitled to her confidence.

CALL AT ANY TIME

between the hours 10 and 5 p.m., or write making an appointment, so as to avoid waiting when you call, when my services, free of charge, are at your disposal. I interview all patients personally. Absolute privacy is maintained by individual waiting rooms.

"After taking a course of your GREAT INDIAN RHEUMATIC REMEDY, and deriving the great benefit therefrom, I cannot allow the occasion to pass without in some small manner acknowledging the gratitude that I shall always feel. The obstinate bladder trouble has now entirely ceased, and I can sleep the whole eight hours without once getting up. The habitual constipation from which I suffered with for years has now entirely ceased, and I feel in every way ten years younger. I trust soon that your wonderful Remedy will be a household word, that will cure the thousands of sufferers affected as I was." (Name and address on application.)

SATURDAY BEFORE EASTER. EXTRA KEEN OFFERS

IN MANY DEPARTMENTS THIS MORNING.

The great Easter Holiday event is only one week distant. Shopping will commence in earnest on Monday, but we suggest a run into Town this morning for those desirous of purchasing in comfort. The many notable values we present in these columns are sufficient justification for a Saturday morning visit; and, in view of restricted stocks of certain of the lines offered, it would be distinctly unwise to procrastinate.

VISITORS COMING TO TOWN FOR EASTER should make a point of inspecting Farmer's Famous Establishment, where Value and High-grade Quality are so happily combined.

SMART WALKING SHOES

FOR EASTER WEAR. SPECIAL PURCHASE—THEREFORE SPECIAL VALUE.

We place first upon our list to-day a Special Purchase of 250 Pairs Ladies' Enamel Walking Court Shoes, bought at a big discount, and offered to our customers at a corresponding big reduction on the usual price.

THESE ENAMEL WALKING COURT SHOES have stout pump soles, leather Cuban heels, neat self-covered buckles. These Shoes are usually retailed at 21/ per pair.

SPECIAL EASTER PRICE, 16/6. SECOND FLOOR, MARKET-STREET.

HAND-MADE WHITE BLOUSES, CLEARING AT AN ABSURD PRICE. BUY EARLY THIS MORNING TO AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT.

We are to-day offering the balance of our Hand-made Muslin Blouses at 5/11 each to clear. Each Blouse is an example of exquisite handwork, the trimmings being mostly Real Irish Crochet and Hand Embroidery. Nothing could be more suitable for wearing with the new Autumn Coats and Skirts. The price of the majority of these Blouses was over £2 2s each. Some of them have high collars, and fasten down the back. To clear these Blouses at 5/11 each is obviously a sacrifice. We, however, desire to make room for our Winter Stocks, and the price at which they are now marked will place their clearance beyond doubt. SECOND FLOOR, MARKET-STREET.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF

IDEAL FOR HOLIDAY WEAR. SEE WINDOWS TO-DAY.

We are specialising in Ladies' Striped Flannel Blazers, and have now a wide variety at one Special Price, 29/6. These Blazers are eminently suitable for Holiday Wear.

LADIES' COAT SECTION, SECOND FLOOR, MARKET-STREET.

SQUIRREL BUTTERFLY TIES.

We are making a feature of daintily-made Squirrel Butterfly Ties at One Guinea. These Throatlets have three skins and tails in front, and are for lined. They look remarkably well, and are unusually good value for the money. PRICE, 21/ EACH. FIRST FLOOR, PITT-STREET.

THE JAEGER CO. IS BRITISH.

The world-wide popularity of the Standard Brand of pure wool goods has created such a demand that the quantities produced mean economies in production. These result in moderate prices, combined with the highest standards of quality. Therefore in buying "JAEGER" branded goods you are certain of the value of your purchase.

Some traders endeavour to sell a "One Shop" Brand, their own, on which they make a surprising profit. It stands to reason that their small trade requirements cost more to produce, and the value cannot be there.

Back your own judgment; insist on having Standard "JAEGER" Goods, which mean Comfort and Good Wear. Should you experience any difficulty in obtaining your requirements, communicate direct with us, and we will see that you are supplied.

I APPEAL TO ALL WOMEN

WHO HAVE tried unsuccessfully to remove their

and have been discouraged by failure after failure, and hours of worry, only to see the hairs coming through the skin, not as they were, but twice as strong and three times the original growth.

NOW, I ASK YOU, EVERY ONE, NOT TO STAY AWAY and think over your blemishes, but

COME TO ME AND HAVE A CHAT.

I am a woman who can understand how you feel, and not only will I sympathise with you, but will gladly remove and then place them under a magnifying glass, which must convince you that my

FIFTEEN YEARS' EXPERIENCE

has made me a conscientious worker for women, and you will say, as many others, "WHY DID I NOT COME TO YOU BEFORE." "But I was told it would be so painful. Why, that is not as bad as pricking your finger." These, and many other remarks, day after day, have been told me. So again I say

A CHAT WILL COST YOU NOTHING, SO JUST COME IN WHEN IN TOWN.

You will have every privacy, as each lady is given a separate room, and under no consideration is a name divulged.

ONE HUNDRED POUNDS REWARD if a failure is proved.

HAVE YOU WRINKLES?

which are more often caused by sluggish circulation and skin which is in need of nourishment, and, I am sorry to say, caused by women's own neglect, as I find on an average that out of fifty ladies who come to me for treatment ten attend to their skin before retiring, and thus, in many cases, is the cause of all their skin trouble.

I WILL TELL YOU WHAT TO DO.

"NETTOYER" FACE CREAM

is going to help you. It is not expensive, only 3/6 PER POT; 6d EXTRA POSTAGE, and "NETTOYER" FRECKLE CREAM, at 5/ PER POT, POSTAGE 6d EXTRA. It removes all SUNBURN, TAN, and FRECKLES. GUARANTEED UNDER PURE FOODS ACT.

MOLES OF ALL KINDS are removed without scar, and can be done in one operation.
